CORONER PUSHES QUIZ IN SHOOTING

Patrolman Faces Technical Charge in Killing.

Coroner Paul F. Robinson pushed his investigation today into the fatal shooting of David Wright, colored, 30, of 905 Coe St., who died at the City Hospital Saturday night, of a bullet wound inflicted by Thomas Carter, patrolman, Aug. 9. Carter was slated on a technical charge of involuntary manslaughter, on orders of the coroner, pending his investigation. He was immediately released and resumed his post.

Wright was shot, police reports show, after Carter and Patrolman Orval Winger attempted to arrest him as he was driving his car northward on Indiana Ave. while he was intoxicated. A sudden swerve of his car caused Wright to shake both officers off the running board. A wheel passed over Winger's legs. Carter leaped to his feet and fired at Wright who was running.

Boy Seen Stealing Clock
Detectives are searching for a boy who stole a $15 dashboard clock from a machine belonging to Ed Mock of the Gibson Company, Capitol Ave. and Michigan St.

Mrs. Reid Bares Her Soul in Dope Film; Best Fight of Ages Staged in "Spoilers"

By WALTER D. HICKMAN.
SHADOW of the beloved late Wallace Reid hovers about "Human Wreckage."

Out of the misery of part of the life of Wallace Reid, the widow has drawn a strong indictment in movie form against the dope evil.

"Human Wreckage" is more than mere entertainment as being presented at the Apollo this week. It is a terrific indictment against the use of drugs.

At times one feels that the soul of Mrs. Wallace Reid is crying out loud for the return of the boy she once loved before he became a dope victim. It is this sincere attitude which raises "Human Wreckage" above the footage of a mere film.

As Mrs. Reid lifts the veil of her past unhappy domestic life after she discovered the "wolf of dope" in her own home, one is impressed with the sincerity of her efforts to bring home a real lesson to the American people. Of course, the movie producer has not lost sight of the financial end of such a campaign, but he has given the film a marvelous cast.

The Cast Is as Worthy as the Theme Is Noble

First, believe that Mrs. Reid is absolutely sincere in her efforts to stamp out the drug and dope evil. I admit she has suffered about as much as any normal person could suffer from the traffic, not as a user of the cursed stuff but as the wife of a national hero who went to his grave because of the dope habit.

The reason I believe that Mrs. Reid is sincere is because she has insisted that the theme of "Human Wreckage" be true to facts. The theme contends that the dope habit is a disease and the victim is really a mighty sick person.

In the second place, the movie contends that all sick people should be treated as sick people and not as hopeless outcasts.

In the third place, some of the best actors on the screen have been called in to aid Mrs. Reid to drive home a great lesson.

I believe that the majority of those who see "Human Wreckage" will agree with Mrs. Reid that unpunctured doctors have had their hand in increasing the use of drugs.

Mrs. Reid is cast as the wife of Alan McFarland (James Kirkwood), who as a great criminal lawyer becomes a victim of the dope habit by listening to the advice of an unprincipled doctor. Kirkwood shows the terrible and destroying effects that dope has on the human body, mind and soul. Here is great acting, not pleasant acting but acting with a terrible warning back of it. It is during terrible scenes of suffering when McFarland attempts to break away from the dope habit, that one feels the shadow of the late Wallace Reid hovering close to the screen. It is nearly a message from the grave.

Bessie Love Does a Great Piece of Acting as Mary.

Bessie Love as Mary Finnegan, who becomes an unwilling victim to the dope habit and who nearly kills her own baby by making a dope slave of the infant, does some of the most powerful work I have seen on the screen for months.

George Hackathorne is cast as a chauffeur who is a dope fiend. Splendid work. The method of distributing dope, I sincerely believe, is honestly exposed in "Human Wreckage." The fact is, the entire cast is magnificent. I am going to endorse "Human Wreckage" as a movie with a sincere purpose. This picture will make you think, think and think.

See "Human Wreckage." Don't miss it.

At the Apollo all this week.

A Little Adventure in the Land of Mystery

We all love the things we do not understand.

We all appreciate clever showmanship.

I guess that is the reason that Kara, announced as a "blind reader"

Noted Stage Actor in Cast of "Spoilers"

EDISON
In the new production of "The Spoilers," at the Circle this week, Robert Edison, noted stage actor, has the role of Joe Dextery.

and entertainer, has been successful for many years before the public.

He opened yesterday a limited engagement at the Ohio as an "added attraction" to the regular movie and musical program. He states in the beginning that he claims no supernatural powers, but he soon impressed me that he was a wise and good showman. He knows how to determine and feel the temperature of an audience.

He knows how to impress an audience with his unexplained power to repeat questions which have been written and placed in envelopes, and, above all, he knows how to handle any one who might attempt to prove that he knows more than Kara.

I consider such demonstrations purely entertainment. If I did not, I would take an entirely different course in my review. I think Kara is clever and a man who has a keen and active intellect. This helps to make him a good showman. Please remember, I look upon Kara only as entertainment and being a skilled showman.

He is such a good showman that he has the assistance of a singer of oriental melodies and a dancer who looks very classical as well as Oriental in a few clothes. I saw nothing of her efforts to be classical. Remember I have seen the Morgan dancers and a flock of nature dancers.

Kara is putting up an interesting show at the Ohio this week. No review would be complete this week about the Ohio unless I mentioned the big hit made by the Miami Lucky Seven. These men know how to play jazz music and how to make an instrument "talk." They stop the show.

The movie feature is Betty Blythe in "The Truth About Wives." It is a most uninteresting and foolish movie. It is so slow that I got the impression that it must be a slow action movie.

The bill includes a comedy, "Winter Has Come" and a news weekly.

Kara and the Miami Lucky Seven are giving more value in entertainment than one has the right to expect for the admission price charged. At the Ohio this week.

Is it a Fight You Want?

Then Don't Pass Up "The Spoilers"

Any producer had to gather up a lot of steam to beat the first production of "The Spoilers" with William Farnum and Thomas Santschi.

But Goldwyn, with the aid of Lambert Miller as director, has turned out a better production of "The Spoilers" than the first one with Farnum.

To my way of thinking the first production of "The Spoilers" held the record for having the best fight ever recorded on the screen until Goldwyn released a brand new production of "The Spoilers," with Milton Sills and Noah Beery as owners of the two fighting mts. Really people, never in my life have I seen two men stage a fight as Sills and Beery put up in this Goldwyn picture. I got so blotted excited that I cried out loud in meetin'. Gosh, oh gosh (would like to use stronger words, but the censor would get busy) how these two men do fight. Oakens cabinets are smashed to pieces; tables become toys, a book case becomes a mere scrap of wood and an entire office is turned into a junk heap.

I am told on good authority that both Beery and Sills were carted off to a real hospital after this fight was staged and I am one little individual who actually believes that story. I believe you will also when you see "The Spoilers" at the Circle this week.

And let me yell from the rooftops that the director of the new version knows his business. He understands the little trick of putting action into atmosphere. The story starts out with atmosphere plus action.

Let me first give you the Goldwyn cast of "The Spoilers." It is as follows:

Roy Glennister Milton Sills
Cherry Malotte Anna Q. Nilsson
Helen Chester Barbara Bedford
Joe Dextery Robert Edison
Slapjack Simms Ford Stearns
Broncho Kid Wallace MacDonald
Alex McNamara Albert Bessie
Marshall Vorhees Michell Lewis
Attorney Wheaton John Elliott
Strive Louise Fazenda
Captain Stevens Sam de Grasse
Victor Mullins Tom McGuire
Lundady Kate Price
Bill Nolan Jack Curtis

You will agree with me that every one in this cast knows how to act. No false alarm there. Especially do I like the work of Miss Nilsson, Edson and Miss Bedford in addition to Sills and Beery.

I am not going to repeat the story. We all know that "The Spoilers" is a real "he-man" affair and the women are flesh and blood characters.

This I do want to say: The new Goldwyn production of "The Spoilers" comes mighty close to being my idea of being perfect screen entertainment. It is one of the really big pictures of the year.

If you have any faith in my judgment, then do not fail to see "The Spoilers" as being presented at the Circle this week.

The bill includes an overture by the orchestra and a comedy, "Wrecks." At the Circle all week.

Northwest Mounted Police Story at Smith's

A Northwest mounted police story is playing at Mister Smith's this week. It is one of James Oliver Curwood's stories, but does not quite live up to the Curwood standard.

Eva Novak heads the cast, which is a good one. She has the role of a girl who marries a renegade to save her father from exposure for a crime. She does this, although she loves a member of the Northwest Mounted Police, but she dares not tell her lover of her sacrifice for fear that it will expose her father.

Irving Cummings plays the part of the policeman, and Wallace Beery does some excellent work as the renegade who marries the girl. There is a happy ending after the ruffian is found to be a murderer, and the two lovers are united.

Frank Whitson and Robert Klein are also in the cast, as is Rin Tin, a dog.

"Fighting Blood" is a good addition to the program, as it has George O'Hara and Ruth Horton. A news reel follows. (By Observer.)

"The Miracle Baby" is a story of three partners, and is playing the first part of the week at the Isis. One of the three partners is a baby, and another is Harry Carey in the role of a man accused of murder.

Strangely enough, the other is the father of the man Carey is accused of murdering.

From this situation, the story of the play is built. The man is exonerated of the charge against him, and the real murderer is punished.

A Plum Center comedy and a news reel complete the bill.

At the Isis the last half of this week. (By Observer.)

Sixth Week for Griffith Spectacle at Rialto Theater

D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation" is now in its sixth consecutive week at the Rialto. It is making a great record in coming back as a box office attraction. It will be on view all week at the Rialto. I understand that this is the last week of the run.

Other attractions on view today include: "Jonathan Makes A Wish" at the Murat; Lottie Mayer and her divers at the Lyric and the Krown Revue at the Palace.

'Merrily We Roll Along,' Sings Motorist, Happy at Low Prices

The dog that had his day had nothing on the happy motorist. Cheap gas, cheap tires, cheap batteries, cheap accessories, improved motor cars, cut prices everywhere—these are the joy-makers of the automobile owner of today.

At the beginning of the year, the motorist was told that everything connected with motor vehicle operation was on the increase in price. Tires advanced 20 per cent in a few months, the State put a two cent a gallon tax on gasoline, business prophets predicted great advances in car prices—and then came August.

Everything began to fall, until today prices are down to a level the car owner hardly dared dream about.

The latest automotive product to hit the price toboggan was batteries. Within the past two weeks sweeping reductions in battery prices have been announced. Battery prices now are cheaper, dealers say, than they have been in years, and, considering the quality, they are the cheapest in history.

So the car owner fills his car with cheap gas, turns his motor over with cheap electricity and rolls away on cheap tires for the most miles per dollar in his experience.
