

MIDWAY'S LIGHTS PRONOUNCED SAFE FOR FAIR VISITORS

Milady and Country Lad Are Remembered Equally
by State.

Every human foible, from the satisfaction of Milady's taste for the aesthetic to Farmer John's hankering for the squeal of hungry shoats, will be gratified when the Indiana State Fair opens, according to advance reports.

There will be exotic flings of a Highlander's band, the "klup-klup" from the feet of speeding horses, the barking of blooded dogs, and the peculiar heaving sigh a registered Hereford makes when the judges pin the blue ribbon to the owner's lapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Grigsby of Jasonville, who motored all the way from their "forty," will have no fear that their young son, Guilford, will amuck in the "Midway." They may feel perfectly secure in giving Guilford a quarter to spend on the "Midway," as they while their time idling through the alleys of the new $162,000 swine pavilion, State officials assure.

That Famous Snake

Young Grigsby will take delight in viewing the monkey speedway, the "wild west" ranch and the motor-jerome. His eyes will protrude in childish amazement when he hears the raucous voice of the bally-hoo, shrieking:

"The most remarkable snake in existence. He measures fifty feet from the tip of his nose to the tip of his tail, and fifty feet from the tip of his tail to the tip of his nose, making a grand total of 100 feet. He eats ten miles of railroad track a day."

Best of all, the Grigsbys need not worry that Guilford's puerile tribulations will lead him to the lair of the "Lady in the Moon." The lady will not be with us this year. They are keeping her in Paterson, N. J. The only caution in the world they could give Guilford is against pickpockets.

The admission this year will be just 25 cents less. Last year the gate admission price was 75 cents; this year it has been reduced to 50.

Likewise, the automobile entrance price has been reduced, and the prospects are for an entirely bigger fair with a corresponding increase in the variety of everything.

Held on Robbery Charge

Upton Stout, 22, colored, 755 Center St., was arrested early today on a charge of robbery. Detectives Sheridan and Gollins charge that Stout was one of the men who held up Cless Ferguson, 437 Blake St., Saturday night and robbed him of $37.

An Aesthetic Robber

A rustic basket containing flowers, and valued at $10 was stolen from the porch of Mrs. Allie Clark, 1148 Cruff St., according to police reports.

IRISH PRESIDENT GIVEN NEW TERM

Returns Indicate Re-election of Cosgrave.

By United Press

DUBLIN, Aug. 28.—President Cosgrave has evidently been re-elected to the Dail, according to early returns from the balloting yesterday. It is reported from County Clare that Eammon De Valera has been strongly supported. He may have been elected. Rainy weather held down the poll to 60 or 70 per cent of the registered vote. Except for a few minor incidents, the election was the quietest in years.

Held here for Eastern authorities who accuse him of wrecking several Eastern financial institutions, Marcino, whose real name is declared to be Joseph Blata, said he was anxious to return and answer the charges. He is tired of attempting to elude officials.

He will probably be returned to Warren, Mass., to face charges of embezzling $213,000 from the First National Bank of Warren.

CLUB PLANS OPPOSITION

Enterprise Civic League Meets Tonight to Organize Fight.

The Enterprise Civic League meets tonight at the drug store of Oliver P. Withers, 1243 Oliver Ave., to consider plans for opposing the erection of a garage and repair shop at White River and Kentucky Ave. by the board of sanitary commissioners.

RAINS SLOW DOWN CITY MART TRADE

Corn Continues to Increase in Retail Price.

Results of the heavy rains Monday are apparent in city market today. On account of the inability of many farmers to drive to the city, corn and green beans are scarce and the prices have risen accordingly, as high as 30 cents a dozen. Corn could be purchased, however, at 25 cents a dozen. Saturday it was selling at 20 cents a dozen.

Green beans are selling at 10 cents a pound. Saturday beans were two pounds for 15 cents.

Eggs continued to increase in price. The retail price is now 32 cents, and at some places 35 cents a dozen. Egg price had been staying at 30 cents. The increase is due to the fact that hens are not laying much now.
