Anastasia, Former Stenographer and Ex-Wife of Hoosier, Dies.

By United Press
LONDON, Aug. 30.—The body of Princess Anastasia of Greece—who used to be a Cleveland, Ohio stenographer—may lie among kings in the Greek royal cemetery near Athens.

The princess died late last night of cancer and a complication of intestinal diseases. Today her relatives had not decided whether her remains would be deposited in Greece or taken home to America.

The end came at 11:48 p. m., according to an announcement by the secretary to Prince Christopher of Greece, her husband. She had been unconscious for hours and all hope had been abandoned.

When she passed away her husband was at the bedside, together with her son, William B. Leeds, and his wife, Princess Xenia of Greece.

The princess had been ailing since early in the summer. She had undergone four operations for cancer and complications and after each one she rallied and resumed her place in the world, playing an important part in royal society and the international politics of the Balkans. Finally, however, the disease overcame her.

Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, wife of the "in plate king," was credited with being the "power behind" in many of the upsets in Greek politics subsequent to the war. It was her vast fortune, many believed, which financed the campaign which led to the downfall of Premier Venizelos and the restoration of the monarchy.

Mr. and Mrs. Leeds at one time lived in Richmond, Ind., and much of the Leeds fortune was made in this State.

At the same time the annual national conference of the Progressive Brethren Church is being held with nearly 1,000 from practically every state enrolled.

PAVING IS APPROVED AFTER MONTH'S PROBE

Board Follows Recommendation of City Engineer.

Over a storm of protest, Twenty-Ninth St. paving from Capitol Ave. to Riverside Park, was accepted by the board of works.

Board members agreed unanimously on acceptance following a recommendation of John Elliott, city engineer. Attorneys Ed Fitzpatrick and Richard Ewbank, for property owners, protested to the last against the decision.

Merle N. A. Walker, attorney for the Mansfield Engineering Company, contractors, filed a bond to cover any defects in the street within three years.

Mayor Shank charged that a contractors' war was behind the opposition to the paving.

Federal agents, headed by Dan Moore of Bedford, surprised Lee. A 100-gallon still and seventy gallons of liquor were seized.

Clouds Clear As Council Indorses Proposed Budget

Threatened Break With Administration Fades—Levy of $1.02 Is Saved.

City council will pass a budget calling for a tax levy of $1.02 next Monday night, it was indicated today following a test vote Wednesday night in the office of Councilman Wise, where the administration program was supported, 5 to 3. Councilman Buchanan did not vote.

Action taken was reversal of promise made a week ago for a 4.5-cent cut. With the indorsement of the proposed budget a threatened break between the administration, and council, involving legal tangles, was removed.

CLOUDS CLEAR AS COUNCIL INDORSES PROPOSED BUDGET

Threatened Break With Administration Fades—Levy of $1.02 Is Saved.

City council will pass a budget calling for a tax levy of $1.02 next Monday night, it was indicated today following a test vote Wednesday night in the office of Councilman Wise, where the administration program was supported, 5 to 3. Councilman Buchanan did not vote.

Action taken was reversal of promise made a week ago for a 4.5-cent cut. With the indorsement of the proposed budget a threatened break between the administration, and council, involving legal tangles, was removed.

Although lacking one vote of the necessary six to pass the budget on Monday, the majority faction appears to have a method paved for its adoption in its present form.

President John E. King saved the proposed levy when he changed his vote from "no" to "aye" after a motion of Councilman Ray to indorse Mayor Shank's program was locked 4 to 4.

Traffic Item Removed
Councilmen Thompson, Ray, Claycombe and Clauser stood for the $1.02 levy. Councilmen Wise, Bramblett, Bernd favored reduction. King then joined the majority.

The removal of a $5,000 item, asked by the plan commission for employment of consultant traffic engineers next year was the only change made. Councilmen Claycombe was alone in defense of the item. A motion to remove it carried, 8 to 1.

Councilman Thompson, chairman of the finance committee, opened the meeting by reporting to the conference with the mayor and Joseph L. Hogue, city controller, Monday afternoon. Thompson said he believed the budget was about "cut to the bone."

The character of the budget was attacked by Councilman Wise who said it was a "Standard form handed down from year to year." He urged a "decent budget."

Park Items Raise Levy
A compromise motion of Wise to cut the general fund 2 cents and the park board 1 cent, making a levy of 19.5 cents was lost when only Councilmen Bernd, Bramblett and Wise favored it. Wise last week led the fight for the 4.5 cent reduction. The changed attitude of Thompson and return of Clauser, however, caused the new move.

The present levy, going to council for final passage, provides for a total of $1.02, to which will be added 2.25 cents for the park sinking fund, or a total of $1.0425. The levy for 1923 was 94.7 cents, 9.725 cents lower.

John R. White, chairman of the budget committee of the Chamber of Commerce, submitted written resolutions urging that the council respect the integrity of the 1924 budget and not pass salary ordinances which the budget was not intended to carry.

Another resolution urged the immediate provision for a municipal garage, which all city departments could use without duplication of maintenance. The council adopted the resolutions.

JEWISH RECREATION WORK

Former Brooklyn Director Joins Communal Staff

Appointment of Alan V. Pleva, formerly of the Federation of Jewish Charities in Brooklyn and New York, as educational and recreational director of the Jewish Communal Building, 17 West Morris St., is announced by George W. Rabinoff, superintendent.

Pleva will give an address Sunday evening before a group of men preparing for second citizenship papers. The oral examination to be conducted Sept. 23, by naturalization officers will be preceded by a series of Sunday night meetings under the direction of Leo Kaminsky, chairman of the naturalization committee.

McCRAY CREDITORS TO MEET FRIDAY

Bank of Indianapolis, have raised a $350,000 fund to aid Governor McCray. Taggart denied over the long-distance telephone from French Lick that he had conferred with Allison or Goodrich.

Goodrich is out of the city. Taggart in Denial

"I have not met with either of them," Taggart said. "Furthermore, I knew nothing about the creditors' meeting Friday until you told me on the telephone just now."

Taggart said he would leave French Lick for Indianapolis today.

After a conference with McCray today James W. Noel, personal attorney for the Governor, said there was no formal statement to make but, discussing a report that Ed Ballard of West Baden was among those who have joined in a fund to aid McCray, said:

"Mr. Ballard did not contribute to the fund."

"It is purely a matter of private business," McCray said when asked concerning the report that the fund had been raised in his financial behalf.

While the Governor would neither confirm nor deny that he has obtained financial aid from Taggart, Allison and Goodrich, he admitted he has been obliged to pay off securities discounted by the bank in order to preserve the institution's integrity.

The Governor said he had accepted farm notes in exchange for blooded cattle disposed of at a public sale last spring. He said the bank had a number of notes of a like kind and that the institution was in need of "ready cash."

The Governor said he had taken care of the notes himself and had refunded to the bank the amounts they represented.

Governor McCray made it positive the notes had not jeopardized the institution's integrity.

HAT BLOCKS VIEW; GIRL IS STRUCK

Tells Driver, M. E. Majors, She Didn't 'See,' He Says.

Miss Alma Miller, 19, of 1610 Prospect St., an employee of the Bell Telephone Company, was slightly injured Wednesday when she walked from the curb in front of the office directly into the side of an automobile driven south on Meridian St. by M. E. Majors, 245 N. Pennsylvania St.

An injured arm and shoulder were treated by the company doctor, who was called. Majors reported to police that Miss Miller declared her hat shielded her view of the machine.

Stanley Delaney of Bridgeport, Ind., is at the Robert Long Hospital today in a serious condition as a result of injuries received when the automobile he was driving collided with a buggy driven by Lee Carpenter of Bridgeport, near Lynnhurst and W. Washington Sts., Wednesday.

ANTI-BANDIT CAR BOUGHT BY BANK

Fletcher Trust; Savings Co. Adopts 'Auto Tank'

An armored automobile equipped to defy the bullets of bandits is being used for the first time today by the Fletcher Trust and Savings Company to carry their money and securities between the downtown offices of the trust company and its five branch banks and three affiliated State banks.

The car will be under constant armed guard.

The windshield and side windows are constructed of bullet-proof glass. The fenders form a hood over the three so as to prevent puncturing by bullets and chance of bandits obtaining foothold.

Various reports concerning the Governor's finances have been heard in the past few weeks. At a time when it was first intimated McCray's affairs were in jeopardy he was consulted, although evidently distressed by the rumors, he belittled the talk.

"I shall have a meeting with friends tomorrow, after which I may see fit to make a further statement," he said today.

Warning! Don't Get Caught!

Another Coal Strike Threatened! Buy COAL Now for This Winter!

The handwriting on the wall indicates a coal shortage this winter.

Last year coal-carrying railroads offered various excuses for the trying conditions, shifted the blame—and they still are far from being in adequate shape to meet the situation this year.

To wait until the first cold snap to lay in this winter's coal is inviting discomfort, suffering, disease and death.

The best and only way to avoid such troubles is to "beat it to it"—forestall the fuel shortage sure to come this winter. ORDER COAL NOW FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY. It's cheaper now anyway.

Turn to the Classified Page of this paper Friday and read the Coal and Wood Advertisements there. The firms listed there are reliable and will give you good service. Just call them by phone and immediate attention will be given your order. Watch these columns every day for all your wants.
