Second Day of Federation Meeting Closes in Tumult as Painters and Decorators Propose Recognition of Russia.

By RALPH L. BROOKS, Times Staff Correspondent.

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 31.—The Indiana State Federation of Labor today fostered a movement to institute a new State workmen's compensation act. President T. N. Taylor will select one member of a committee of three to revise the present law, if plans materialize.

Following denunciation of the present Indiana law Thursday by Harold A. Henderson, Terre Haute, State mine workers' legal adviser, the thirty-ninth annual convention of the parent State body adopted a resolution providing for a committee of three to study the Ohio law, considered a model, and to draft a similar bill for Indiana. Members are to be appointed one each by the Governor, Indiana Manufacturers' Association and the president of the State Federation. The bill is to be presented by the next General Assembly. The resolution was presented by District 11, United Mine Workers of America.

Present Law "Barbaric"

"The present law, giving employers sole right to select physicians is medieval and barbaric," Henderson declared. During the last legislature, a similar bill was defeated through efforts of insurance company lobbyists, he said.

"We are trying to get a law that will give every cent paid into insurance back to the worker. When the people and employers understand the present law they will demand a change."

The second day came to a tumultuous close, when delegates were faced with a resolution proposing the convention go on record as favoring recognition of Soviet Russia, and that trade relations be resumed with that country. It was presented by the Indiana State conference of painters and decorators.

President Taylor took up the cudgel against adoption. He pointed out that the delegates were not enough acquainted with international questions to vote intelligently. "The International officers have advised State federations not to take action on this question," he said.

Would Recognize Russia

Supporting the resolution F. H. Detrick, Gary, of the Painters' organization, declared "Senators Borah, La Follette and others whom we have as our representatives have studied this matter thoroughly. They urge resumption of business. We ought to assist them. They're the only ones doing anything for the workman. Not to adopt this resolution would be a slap in their faces."

"When we formed our Nation and pulled away from the autocracy of Great Britain, we were up against the same proposition as the Russians now are," said William Mitch, Terre Haute, chairman of the resolutions committee, which advised concurrence. "If it's a working class making their own government, we as workers ought to recognize them." The resolution was indefinitely postponed.

Against Immigration

If the bars of immigration are let down, the United States will be deluged with a flood of European immigration, such as the country has never seen, and irreparable damage will be done the workmen of the country, declared Oswald Ryan, Anderson, member of the United States Commission on European Immigration, in an address.

Vice President Edward P. Barry, Indianapolis, acting for the federation, presented Charles Gorman, Louisville, Kentucky State Federation fraternal delegate, with a gold pen and pencil. Harry E. Grube, Indianapolis, organizer of the Indiana Labor Bank, outlined the bank proposition. Stock in the bank is being sold at the convention headquarters.

The big social event of the convention was the annual "Red Fire" parade and dance at the Hotel Roberts Thursday night. The parade, led by the Muncie band, passed through the central part of the city.

Rate Boost, Effective at Midnight, Moves Users—Groninger Rehearing Petition Filed.

Increased telephone rates throughout the Indiana Bell Telephone Company system go into effect at midnight tonight.

Rates will be advanced in twelve cities, including Indianapolis, and upon long distance lines outside a radius of thirty miles, in accordance with a Federal Court temporary order.

In other exchanges rates will be altered to comply with the public service commission order which preceded the Federal Court order.

Many Changing Service

Many subscribers were ordering their class of service changed to less expensive grades. Some ordered phones taken out.

The company announced it would give subscribers advance of the rates for cheaper grades of service on change orders received as late as Monday. No charge will be made for the change.

It will be physically impossible to make some changes, such as shifting a phone from a two-party to a four-party line, for some time, the company stated. However, subscribers will be billed for the service they request, even though they may still be getting service for which a higher rate is provided.

Order Phones Removed

A resident near Fortieth St. and Graceland Ave. said many in that neighborhood are ordering phones out, despite strong appeals by phone company representatives that they take four-party service instead of two-party measured service. The new four-party service costs $2.25, the same as the old two-party measured.

Corporation Counsel Taylor E. Groninger today filed his petition for rehearing in the telephone rate case with the public service commission.

The commission, it is predicted, probably will deny this, thus clearing the way for Groninger to file an appeal in a Marion County court.

Fine Saddle Horses to Be Seen in Action at State Fair Night Shows

J. M. CASEY, DANVILLE, KY., RIDING "SARA KATHLEEN."

With approximately 250 saddle horses entered for the three and five-gaited classes and in the combination light harness contests at the Indiana State fair next week, officials hope to make these animals a dominant feature of the night shows. From 400 to 450 horses, ranging from light harness to draft, will more than fill the brick barn east of the Coliseum, Lin Wilson, superintendent of the show horse department, said today.

Draft horses will compete for ribbons during the day, while roadsters, pairs and saddlers will appear at night. A large stable of horses is being shipped from Seattle, Wash., and several Kentucky stables will be represented, Wilson said.

About fifty Indianapolis-owned saddle horses will be in the night contests. Some local young women are buying saddle horses instead of motor cars, Wilson said.

Old Hickory Mountain stables of Barboursville, Ky., will send four of its five-gaited champion saddle horses to the fair this year, including Sara Kathleen, Feudist, Vendetta and Milady Minton. Sara Kathleen, one of Kentucky's best saddle mares, has won five-gaited contests in Kentucky shows for the last three years, won the five-gaited mare contest at the Cincinnati horse show last November and high honors in the Louisville horse show last June.

Thurley Says Spiritualists Do Not Prove Claims.

By Times Special

BETHANY PARK, Ind., Aug. 31.—"There is a great battle in this country between science and spiritualism," said Prof. E. Thurber, author, of Nashville, Tenn., in an address before the Seventh Day Adventists conference here.

"Many rich prizes have been offered by scientists to spiritualists if they will come forth and prove the truth of their claims," Professor Thurber said.

"Everywhere people are asking why the spirits do not welcome those tests. The answer that spiritualism is giving to this question is that investigators that approach must come with open minds; and in fact, they must believe in the spirits before the spirits are willing to demonstrate their marvelous powers. In this demand science finds itself in a dilemma
