

FUTURE HOLINESS MEET PROBLEM TO BE DECIDED UPON

Delegates in Fourth Day of Convention Hear Dr.
John Paul.

Delegates to the general convention for the Promotion of Holiness now in its fourth day at the Cadle Tabernacle, were to decide late this afternoon whether general conventions shall be continued in the future.

Dr. John Paul, president of the convention, in announcing the business for the afternoon indicated that action will be taken to continue these conventions of which this one is the fourth.

He stated that most of the business of the convention so far has been along spiritual and devotional lines, but that certain questions of policy must be decided by the convention before adjournment today.

Dr. Paul, before the noon recess, preached the day's sermon of the convention, in which he declared that by "God's grace, one may change his liabilities into real assets."

"There are no misfits in God's kingdom," he said. "Every one has his own work to perform."

This afternoon William H. Huff, evangelist of Iowa, spoke on "South America." Missionary workers from the city churches attended.

After all the fuss about the flapper, after all the warning against her and all the defenses of her, the truth is out.

There is no such thing as the flapper.

E. H. Kemper McComb, principal of Manual Training High School, says so.

"There's been a lot of tommyrot about 'em," Kemper said. "Why, girls are just as wholesome now as they ever were. So are boys."

"Girls are as domestic as ever, too, even if commercial is studied more than it used to be. The girls study it because they have to become ac-

COOLIDGE WILL LIMIT MESSAGE TO ESSENTIALS

President and Advisors Set
Out Principles of Administration.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN.
Copyright, 1923, by United Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Coolidge will limit his first message to Congress to absolute essentials.

In conference with party leaders who will begin returning to Washington next week, Mr. Coolidge will determine exactly what, in their judgment, it will be possible for Congress to accomplish in a session which must end early next June at the latest, on account of the meeting of the national convention of the Republican and Democratic parties.

The President and his chief advisors have set out principles determined on certain guiding principles. These include:

1. Exclusion of everything likely to bring about a "jam" or cause defeat of the administration.
2. Inclusion, in addition to the necessary routine, of only such new legislation as has been carefully considered before-hand and which is obviously necessary.
3. Postponement of most of the great controversial legislative questions for later consideration and action.

Reasons for the careful limitation thus proposed are several. First, Mr. Coolidge intends in his recommendations to Congress to stick to his slogan "stability."

Not Sure of Strength
Second, the administration is not yet sure of its strength in the new Congress, where the western progressive bloc, holding the balance of power, will have to be dealt with carefully.

Third, with a presidential campaign coming on, in which Mr. Coolidge is the chief candidate for his party's nomination, it is thought better strategy to leave development of new party policies until later.

BUTLER COLLEGE AIDE ANNOUNCED

TICKETS ISSUED FOR TOUR OF BELT ROAD

City Executives and Employees Will Inspect Indianapolis Line.

Tickets for the inspection tour of Indianapolis on a special train over the belt lines of the Indianapolis Union Railway Saturday for employees and city executives were issued today. Approximately 1,050 are expected to make the trip.

A special train of flat cars will leave the Union Station at 1 p. m., circling the belt and then going to Garfield Park, where a lunch will be served at 3:30 p. m.

Railroad officials have asked city officials and representative citizens to join with employees in order to see present and planned track elevation work.

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp—the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-doors girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth.

S. S. S., since 1836, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—rekindled vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of youth return to your cheeks. Watch that flabby, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

Prince of Wales Throws a Mean Shoe to Fox Trot Tunes

By United News

QUEBEC, Sept. 14.—Not only is dancing one of the favorite pastimes of the Prince of Wales, but he is such an accomplished master of that art that his partners must soar into superlatives to express their appreciation.

Whatever the prince's status as a traveler, there is nothing incognito about his dancing.

"The prince reveals great individuality in his dancing. He is extremely musical and has a true sense of rhythm."

That was the verdict of Mrs. L. M. Boomer, wife of the director of the Waldorf and other New York hotels, after she had danced with his royal highness in the mirrored ballroom of the Chateau Frontenac his first and only night here.

Lord Renfrew sat out the first dance. But his impatience to get on the floor suddenly converted him into the Prince of Wales, a familiar figure of London's smartest dance clubs. Beginning with the second number the royal fox-trotter negotiated practically the entire program.

His partner in his first dance was Miss Phyllis Burstall, daughter of the wealthy international lumber merchant, John Burstall. The prince had remembered Miss Burstall as one of his dancing partners of his Levy & Nathan Inc. of New York City have opened a new ready-to-wear store at 131 W. Washington St., known as the Federal Clothing Store. They are carrying a complete line of misses and women ready-to-wear and are one of the biggest operators of credit clothing stores in the United States.

The Indianapolis store is one of the largest of a chain of fifty-six stores located principally in the east and the south.

Fred Guggenheimer, who formerly had charge of the Tampa (Fla.) store, is local manager.

STATE TO GREET EX-PREMIER HERE

Lloyd George Visit to City
Planned for Oct. 22.

An official welcome on the part of the State probably will be given to David Lloyd George, former British premier, when the famous Welsh statesman comes to Indianapolis Oct. 22. It was said at Governor McCray's office today.

Although definite plans cannot be made until further information has been received from Washington, tentative arrangements have been made to conduct the former premier to the Nancy Hanks Lincoln grave in Spencer County.

Lloyd George's visit to Indiana is said to have been prompted by his lifelong desire to visit personally points of interest in connection with the life of Abraham Lincoln, whom he admired as a "truly representative American," and to see Indianapolis, which he regards as a "truly representative American city."

1919 visit. His next dance was with Mrs. Boomer.

"There are no words in our language to designate the charming personality of Lord Renfrew," Mrs. Boomer said in amplifying her appreciation of the prince as a dancing mate.

In his evening dress, expressing the latest mode from Savile row, the prince presented a picture of sartorial perfection that attracted the attention of both sexes.

The royal guest and his party occupied seats at a table adjoining the dance floor. Enjoyment registered plainly on the prince's face as he swung about the hall to the latest American dance tunes. The new ballroom has just been opened and with its magnificent mirrors recalls the famous Trianon at Versailles.

Another round of golf occupied a share of the prince's time Thursday. In the afternoon the heir to the British throne left for the West, spending half an hour en route at Montreal.

Suits and Overcoats

All-Wool Material
Tailored to Your Measure
Correct Fit Guaranteed
Satisfaction Assured

$32.50

Now, who says "There ain't no sich animal"?

WE'VE all read of the farmer who, on his first time to see a giraffe, exclaimed: "There ain't so sich animal." There are men right here in Indianapolis—men of keen business judgment and sagacity—who have been reading our advertisements from time to time, in which we say, among other things, that—

Our material is all wool; that we have a wide variety of patterns and textures to select from; that we buy direct from the woolen mills and that the bolts are sent direct from there to our warerooms.

They also have read our statements that we employ our own skilled tailors, and that measurements are taken by experts; the garments are cut, trimmed and tailored by experts; and that we guarantee a fit the way the customer wants it to fit, or he doesn't take it.

They have read our statement that we will immediately refund the small deposit to any patron if FOR ANY REASON he does not want to take out his suit or overcoat, and that we will make this refund without quibble, whether it be a $32.50 order or a $50 order—our highest price.

There are men who have let these statements fall on deaf ears because they in substance, said "There ain't no sich animal."

BUT—

On the other hand, there are others of equally keen business judgment who have at least INVESTIGATED to learn whether or not we could continue to day in and day out make these claims without there being at least an element of truth in them.

They investigated and learned to their satisfaction and saving of money that every claim we make is fully substantiated.

Today many of our regular patrons are men who formerly paid fabulous prices for suits; they have found sufficient satisfaction in our service to continue to come to us for their garments.

The man who actually is seeking clothes economy will at least visit our salesroom, where he may see what we have with just as much ease as if he were buying a railroad ticket.
