HEAD OF BANKERS' ASSOCIATION HITS 'ISMS' IN ADDRESS

J. H. Puelcher Justifies Capitalistic System at Opening of Convention.

By United Press
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 25.—The American Bankers' Association today officially opened its forty-ninth annual convention with a general session on the million-dollar pier.

A vigorous assault on the various schools of so-called "isms" of the day was made by J. H. Puelcher, president of the association, in his opening address, wherein he justified the capitalistic system as having "brought to all the people more comfort and greater leisure than has any other system thus far tried."

He recognized at the same time, however, a number of evils of the capitalist system, declaring that there should be no child labor, no seven-day labor week, no unduly long hours of labor and no "treacherous business cycles." Further, he said, "any system of society can last only if its adherents promptly abolish evils as they develop."

Puelcher said "Socialism, communism, anarchism, syndicalism and I. W. W.-ism are seeking to make converts in their attacks upon the very foundations of our government."

The employment of newspaper advertising is the surest way for a bank to increase its business, W. R. House, vice president of the Securities Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, declared in his address.

The first meeting of the newly organized Association of Bank Women is scheduled to be held at Haddon Hall this afternoon. Although this organization is independent, an effort will be made during the convention to have it incorporated into the American Bankers' Association as the women's division of the body.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 25.—Robbers broke into the warehouse of Hamilton, Harris & Company Monday, stealing 300,000 cigarettes, valued at $3,000. There is no clew to the robbers.

YEARS of tradition and historical facts become of immediate interest as the first steps in wrecking the Hotel English are made in preparation for the erection of a $1,000,000 theater on the site, to be completed next summer.

Today, a stone relief portrait of William E. English, who built that part of the hotel being razed, has been transferred from that section of the cornice to a place on the cornice of the part of the building to remain standing. Stone reliefs of members of the English family, including one of the William English who built the English theater and the first half of the hotel, are in place around the cornice of the older section. On the newer section, about to be destroyed, are stone facial reliefs of fifteen prominent former Indiana Governors. An attempt is being made to interest the Indiana Historical Commission and society and State officials to arrange for their preservation.

Henry Ward Beecher's At the corner of Monument Place and Market St., once stood the Second Presbyterian Church, built in the State, 1816-22; James Brown Ray, 1825-31; Noah Noble, 1831-37; David Wallace, 1837-40; father of Lee Wallace, the author; Samuel Higgin, 1840-43; James Whitcomb, 1843-48, father-in-law of Matthews; Joseph A. Wright, 1848-57, whose son, John C. Wright, still lives in Indianapolis; Ratcliff Boon, 1822, a Lieutenant Governor, who served a few days after Jennings resigned to accept another office; Abram A. Hammond, Lieutenant Governor, 1850-61, after William died; George Rogers Clark, first military Governor of the territory, 1777; William Henry Harrison, 1800-12, first Governor of Indiana Territory, and Thomas Posey, 1813-1816, a general in the Revolution and second Governor of Indiana Territory.

Coffee Shop to Be Moved The original half of the hotel has undergone improvements in the dining room which allow about fifteen feet more depth in the three shops facing Meridian St. The coffee shop will be moved from a corner of the main dining room to another room directly off the kitchen and entered directly from the main lobby. Sleeping rooms have been re-decorated and forty new bath rooms have been installed.

Stone Reliefs of Governors The Governors whose stone reliefs are to be removed, their disposal depending on action of the State officials or historical societies are:

DO YOU VALUE YOUR CHILD'S SAFETY? THEN READ THIS CAREFULLY.

The Traffic Squad of School No. 9 is already at work. This means that the boys of this squad will do their best to guard your child. Don't loiter. Keep on the sidewalk. Cross at the regular crossing. Look both ways before crossing the street. Avoid skating or playing in the street. Never trail. Students of School No. 9 took this notice home to their parents.

Within two days two small girls have been crushed to death. Pedestrians, parents, motorists and police should realize what that means. Aching hearts today realize the awfulness of carelessness. It may be your child tomorrow. The price of carelessness is sorrow.

Persia's Lone Vote Prevents Unanimous Adoption by League Assembly.

By United Press
GENEVA, Sept. 25.—The hostile vote of Persia today prevented unanimous adoption of Canada's interpretation of Article X of the League of Nations covenant, which would remove all suspicion that the league is a "super-state."

The vote on the Canadian proposal, which was brought up in the session of the league assembly today, was twenty-nine for, one against and thirteen abstentions.

Proponents of the measure immediately conferred with the Persian delegates who announced they would telegraph Tehran for instructions to change their vote, thus preventing defeat of the Canadian interpretation.

ALCOHOL FOR GIN SEIZED AS TRUNK LEAK GIVES CLEW

Consignee Is Being Traced by Authorities Here.

Nimble wits saved a bootlegger from arrest Monday night, when a trunkful of pure grain alcohol from Chicago sprung a leak.

Presenting a baggage check at the Union Station, a man, accompanied by two small girls, asked for his trunk. Alcohol was oozing out the bottom.

"Let's see that check a minute," the consignee told the baggage master. Sticking it in his pocket, the family walked out with "I'll see you later."

Sheriff George Snider, armed with a search warrant, appeared. Eight gallon tins of alcohol, wrapped in papers, were found and another broken one discovered.

"I know the fellow and his daughters," said Sheriff Snider. "He is the same one to whom 100 gallons of St. Louis alcohol was sent which we seized in July. This booze came from Chicago, and is designed for the manufacture of synthetic gin."

"If I can hook him up through the baggage check, I will make an arrest."

BIG BROTHERS TO CARE FOR CULPRITS

Renegades From Traffic Rules to Be Guided Along 'Straight and Narrow' by Older Boys.

"Big brothers" will help schoolboy traffic officers and the safety council at School No. 9, Vermont and Fulton Sts., to establish a clean record in accident prevention this year.

These "big brothers," older pupils, are assigned to take little pupils to and from school, after they have been found guilty of violating traffic laws. This plan has been carried out for several years.

When Trafficmen Owens and McMahon of the police accident prevention bureau visited this school today, to talk to the council and traffic squad, they found in every room large posters showing how the children will carry out their rules this year.

Some of these posters, made by eighth grade boys, and designed as a persuasive, rather than a compulsory measure, read:

Persuasive Posters

"I obey law."
"I don't loiter."
"I walk on sidewalks."
"I look both ways before crossing street."
"I obey traffic signals."

The traffic men took several of these posters with them to display in the accident prevention office, and to show at other schools. Urging the council to take penalties severe, Officer Owens said: "If every law violator in the city were punished strictly according to law, safety would be assured."
