FAVORABLE ACTION ON SMOKE BAN IS COUNCIL FORECAST

Many Letters Are Received Demanding Remedy as Soot Evil Grows.

Favorable action on a smoke abatement ordinance, eliminating the advisory committee urged by the Chamber of Commerce and Sciencetech Club, is forecast today for the city council meeting Monday night.

Councilman Ben Thompson told colleagues this week that he had received more than a hundred letters urging immediate steps to remedy the smoke evil, many of which contained indignant queries about "bribes" and "influence."

The $3,000-a-year salary is being strongly urged by civic leaders and chamber of commerce officials, who point out that other cities are expected to pay similar salaries or more to obtain competent trained men. The old $1,800 wage, it is believed, will not be continued.

Disapproval of the proposed smoke commission, to function similar to the city zoning commission or board of safety, board of works and other city boards, has been expressed by Councilmen Theodore J. Bernd and William E. Clauser, Ben H. Thompson and John E. King.

Many of the other councilmen merely want a "good ordinance," regardless of commissions or what. And in the meanwhile, the tide of public sentiment for immediate action on the smoke nuisance is rapidly rising.
