WEDDINGS

BETROTHALS

THE home of Mrs. J. E. Shideler, 2336 N. New Jersey St., was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon when Miss Georgia Barker, daughter of Mrs. Dora Barker of Westfield, became the bride of Holie A. Shideler. The house was arranged with yellow and white chrysanthemums and the fireplace before which the ceremony was read was transformed into an altar of palms and ferns. The Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel officiated.

Miss Anna C. Wandell, pianist, played bridal airs before the ceremony and "I Love You Truly" during the ceremony. Miss Jessie Kinsey, maid of honor, wore a gown of brown brocade crepe with hat of gold cloth and carried an arm bouquet of yellow Adella Gude roses. Little David Shideler, nephew of the groom, in a black velvet suit with collar and cuffs of white ruffled georgette, carried the ring in a lily. Little Miss Jane Shideler, niece of the groom, was flower girl, in a frock of yellow organdie, and carried a basket of rose petals in a little French basket tied with streamers of yellow tulle.

The bride was crowned in cocoa brown beaded chiffon with lace picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses and valley lilies with a shower of white ribbon streamers.

Loring J. Barker, brother of the bride, was best man.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held. Assisting Mrs. Shideler were Mrs. Jack Shideler, Mrs. V. V. Shideler, Mrs. Ted Shideler and Miss Ora Hogeland.

Mr. and Mrs. Shideler left immediately for a wedding trip. Mrs. Shideler traveling in a suit of brown flamingo cloth with hat to match. They will be at home after Nov. 15 at 2336 N. New Jersey St.

At the luncheon of the Indiana Woman's Republican Club Thursday at the Claypool, Mrs. Martha Huggins will give a group of patriotic readings. Members of the State Republican committee will speak and Mrs. Everett C. Johnson will sing, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Constance Johnson. Mrs. Rose Sutton of Ft. Wayne, Ind., member of the good will committee, will assist Mrs. Martha J. Stubbs in welcoming the guests. Reservations may still be made with Mrs. E. J. Robinson, 2336 Broadway and Dr. Amelia Keller, 3515 Guilford Ave.

The name for the bazaar to be given at Spink-Arms Nov. 23-24 by several local college alumna clubs will be "The College Melting Pot." A card party and dance will close the festival. There will be booths representing nine colleges and one conducted by the American Association of University Women on which conceived the plan. Miss Alma Slicker is general chairman of the committee on arrangements. The next meeting of the general committee will be Monday morning at the Spink-Arms.

The Butler committee met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hilton U. Brown, 5087 E. Washington St., to complete plans for their booth. This committee consists of Mesdames Perry Clifford, Mrs. E. B. Fowler, Robert J. Akey, Christine Maurer, John R. Wilson, Justus Paul, Rollin Kautz, William C. Gardner.

The Wellesley committee met for a luncheon meeting today at the home of Miss Florence Jepp, 2415 N. Talbott Ave., to sew on articles for their booth.

The Purdue committee will be appointed at a meeting Saturday during a supper hike to Bacon's Swamp.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bockner, 2020 Schumann Ave., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griswold, 2016 Schumann Ave., motored to Terre Haute and Vincennes, where they visited friends over the weekend, returning Tuesday by way of Spencer, Ind.

A pretty home wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. J. S. Williams, 3406 Fall Creek Blvd., when their daughter, Helen Louise, became the bride of Omar C. York of North Manchester. Ind. Before an altar of palms and ferns arranged over the fireplace, the Rev. W. B. Farmer read the ceremony. Miss Rachel Tobin, harpist, played bridal music and accompanied Miss Zelma Elmer, who sang "Oh, Promise Me" and "Love, Like the Dawn Came Stealing," following the ceremony.

Miss Flora, who was also maid of honor, wore a gown of apple green taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. L. C. Tripp, matron of honor, wore sapphire blue crepe trimmed with silver lace and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Little Miss Janice Mary Tripp, flower girl, was dressed in peach color taffeta and carried a French basket of rose petals. Master Harry Edward Hunter, in a suit of white silk and black velvet, carried the ring in a lily.

The bride wore a gown of bottle green velvet trimmed with beaver fur and gold cloth. In her hair she wore a bandeau of gold and she carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Ralph York, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

At the reception which followed the ceremony Mrs. A. E. Rouse and Mrs. Harry B. York, assisted Mrs. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. York have gone for a wedding trip. Mrs. York traveling in a rose tulle charmer dress with tan top coat and canna red velvet hat and blue fox fur.

Mr. York was a student at Purdue University, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

Mrs. Fred R. Bokelob, 1116 N. Hamilton Ave., entertained fifteen guests this afternoon in honor of Miss Minnie Arthur, whose marriage to Roy Kistler will take place Wednesday morning at the Lincoln. Halloween decorations were used in the rooms and appointments.

Miss Arthur has chosen her sister, Miss Mary Arthur, for her maid of honor, and Louis Johnson will be best man. There will be a bridal dinner Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Alexander Arthur, 1916 Jones St., an aunt of the bride.

Players to Present Miss Paynter

MISS HARRIET PAYNTER.

Miss Harriet Paynter will appear as Ma Povna, the "submerged" wife, in "The Bountiful Lady," a three-act comedy to be presented by the Little Theatre Society as a courtesy to the Community Fund campaign, Thursday at the Masonic Temple and Friday at the Manual Training High School.

Whether good luck or bad follows in the wake of a runaway automobile is the question answered by the play.

Mrs. Eugene Pife is directing the cast, which includes: Ma Povna as Harriet Paynter; Sonja, Mary Ennis; Joe, Margaret King; Pa

Povna, Toner Overly; John McFarland, Eugene Pife; Virginia Needham, Louise Geiger; Marian Winters, Elise O'Connell; Doctor Maxwell, J. Parker Wheatly; Mrs. Snoddy, Lulu Kanagy.

Homor W. Borst, secretary of the Community Fund, wrote the play. Robert Brewer is production manager. Admission to both performances is open to the public, with reserved seats available at the Kautz Stationery Company for workers in the fund campaign and for members of the Little Theatre Society.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN DRESCOTT TO SIDNEY CARPENTON, CONTINUED

I stood around, Syd, and tried to look interested in the baby but, honestly, all I could think of was that money. As far as Leslie was concerned, however, I might have been a table or a chair. Finally little Jack stopped that rasping cough and breathed easier. She then turned to me and said curtly, "I'm tired. I shall lie down for awhile."

"But Leslie," I expostulated, "please tell me if you got the money from your father. It is absolutely imperative if I wish to hold my position with Bullock that the money is turned back into the general fund today."

"All right," Leslie said, "I'll give you the money," and picking up her handbag which she had dropped in her room when she went to care for the baby, she opened it and pulled out a roll of bills.

You can imagine my surprise, Syd. I could not and still can not understand why Leslie should have cash instead of a check, but I was happy enough to get the money in any form.

With an exclamation of joy I stretched out my hand for it when she seemed to remember something. She grew white and then red and thrust the money back into her handbag as she said, "Wait a minute." She rushed back into her room.

In a few minutes she came out and handed me twelve five hundred dollar bills. As I felt the peculiar texture of our American money in my hands a cold perspiration broke out all over me. For a moment I could not speak and then I rushed to take her in my arms. Something in her face stopped me and I stammered my thanks.

"Leslie, dear girl, you surely know that I appreciate what you have done for me. I know how hard it was for you and I certainly will pay your father back very soon. Is he better?"

"Yes, but he is not able to see any one yet, even me," I did not know Leslie's eyes could be so steady.

"Then your mother gave you the money. How kind of her. I'll write her a letter and tell her so."

"Don't do that," she exclaimed, "I told mother that you did not know I was asking for the money. I said you thought it was some money of my own."

I tried then to put my arms around Leslie, but she pushed me away not gently.

"I am very tired, John," she said, "and I expect you are in a hurry to get away to the office with that money."

"But dear, I haven't kissed you. I haven't told you what a wonderful wife I think you are."

"That will keep, John." Her voice seemed very weary. For the first time in my life I saw Leslie's lips take a cynical curve as she turned toward her bedroom.

I have managed to get out of a very tight place, Syd, but I'm not sure that I haven't lost something of great value that I shall never find again. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Love Is Instinctive, but Within Human Control

Now that my readers have told "Curious" and me what they think about love, perhaps they will lend an ear for a moment to listen to my opinion.

It really is much the same as what expressed generally by my readers—that love is instinctive; that it cannot be cultivated, although a deep and sincere liking, akin to love, can and should be controlled.

So, "Curious," you 24-year-old girl, afraid that you have not loved because you have not tried to love, there is your answer.

But, remember that love is not always passionate. That is why some women think they never have found it—because they are looking for a "thrill" that never comes. True love may be companionable; it always is thoughtful and unselfish; it brings contentment and peace.

Remember, too, that love can be controlled. Only when love is pure and beautiful is it happy.

You can help cupid along by keeping yourself in a receptive mood for one of his darts. But be sure of your love before you say "I do."

I am giving you a few more opinions from readers:

Love Controlled
Dear Martha Lee: I wish to write just a little of my viewpoint and experience of love. I would not be the wife of a very wealthy man and make both ends meet. I am a feeling one can hardly define, but it is a feeling to be held sacred. But it can be conquered.

I married at 17, not knowing what love was. I knew I had to do the best I could. After being married seven years, I met, in a business way, a man who I knew I had not met before. I suffered tortures of mind and soul for three years. But by prayer and perseverance, I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered. I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered.

Today, I am a much wiser woman, having suffered. I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered.

Cultivation Impossible
Dear Martha Lee: If it were possible to cultivate love, I would not be the wife of a very wealthy man and make both ends meet. I am a feeling one can hardly define, but it is a feeling to be held sacred. But it can be conquered.

The rich man asked me to marry him five years ago. My mother wanted me to. She was a very wealthy woman and she had a great deal of money. I did not want to do the same. I almost told the man I would marry him, but I did not. I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered.

Then, even before I had given the man his answer, I met the man I married. I do not have an easy time, by any means, and there are times when I would like some of the luxuries of the rich. But I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered.

Instinct, Surely
Dear Martha Lee: Love is instinctive, without a doubt. Every woman knows it. I would not be the wife of a very wealthy man and make both ends meet. I am a feeling one can hardly define, but it is a feeling to be held sacred. But it can be conquered.

Experience Speaks
Dear Martha Lee: Just a few words to "Curious" and me. I have learned a lesson, and I am a much wiser woman, having suffered.

Elopement Regretted
Dear Martha Lee: I am only 15 years old. I always have been a good girl, but my headstrong. I kept company with a boy 21 years old for seven months. He seemed to adore me, but in Sept. '22, he may want to Louisville, Ky., with another couple, who were going to get married, and we got married.

I have a good home and everything I want, and I am the only daughter. I have six very loving brothers, five younger than I.

I think I love my husband very much, but I cannot, I do not want to. I do not think I love him any more. I do not think I love him any more. I do not think I love him any more.
