

KLAN MOVES IN THREE OHIO CITIES HOLD INTEREST

Feeling at Youngstown Reaches Climax in Political Meeting; Charges Filed.

By United Press
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—Ku-Klux Klan controversies took center stage in three Ohio communities today as Klan feeling reached a climax in Youngstown as the result of an attack on a meeting of 200 campaign workers for Charles Scheible, Klan candidate for mayor.

A crowd gathered at the Y. M. C. A. building and jeered the speakers. When an attempt was made to close the windows a shower of decayed fruit and vegetables was directed at the men and women inside.

A rush of workers from the meeting quickly dispersed the crowd.

Two hundred and forty alleged Klansmen were accused of violating a city ordinance in affidavits filed at Portsmouth.

The charges are an outgrowth of the Klan parade at Portsmouth Sunday afternoon, halted by police because Mayor Gableman denied a permit to use city streets.

Lee Van Tilburg, Klan attorney in Steubenville, filed affidavits charging twenty-four persons with inciting to riot and illegal voting. The first charge is an aftermath of street fighting between Klan and anti-Klan forces at Steubenville, Aug. 16.

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headache and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women so troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Nightrider Fisher was asked by Deputy Prosecutor William Remy in the Criminal Court trial of an appeal from city court by Donald Darby, 337 E. Thirty-Seventh St., proprietor of the Orange Juice Mill at Pennsylvania and Washington Sts.

"Said he was a good friend of Judge Wilmett—Del, he called him—and had been out with him," the policeman replied.

"H'm, and did Judge Wilmett try him in city court after that?" asked Judge James A. Collins.

"Yes, sir. Found him guilty of drunk, speeding and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor."

Darby denied he was drunk Sept. 13, when arrested at 2 a. m. at Meridian St. and Fall Creek Blvd.

"I just had two drinks of corn, judge, at 10 o'clock," he said.

He was found not guilty of charges of being drunk and operating his car while "under the influence," and was allowed to pay the fine of $39 assessed by Judge Wilmett for speeding. He denied calling Judge Wilmett "Del."

America's Favorite Songs

"Dixie" soon became a favorite in the South. Dan Emmett eventually became an independent manager and settled in his old home town at Mount Vernon, Ohio. There he lived until his death in 1904, at the age of 59.

What is your favorite American song? Is it in this list? Send your choice to Kenneth S. Clark, Community Service, 315 Fourth Ave., New York, or to The Times as part of a nation-wide vote.

Here's Tentative List Selected

THIS is the list of twenty songs selected, tentatively at least, as America's best. Is your favorite in it? How many can you sing? Send in your vote to the Indianapolis Times or Kenneth S. Clark, Community Service, 315 Fourth Ave., New York.

"Old Folks at Home," "My Old Kentucky Home," "America," "Old Black Joe," "Dixie," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "There's a Long, Long Trail," "America the Beautiful," "Star-Spangled Banner," "Home, Sweet Home," "Good-night, Ladies," "Juanita," "My Bonnie," "Mother Aimee," "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," "When God Fellows Get Together," "Smiles," "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

ACTORS wrote, in part at least, three of America's favorite songs, "Dixie," "Home, Sweet Home" and "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

"Dixie" was Daniel Decatur Emmett, one of the most famous of early American minstrels.

While he was with Dan Bryan's minstrels in 1859, he wrote "Dixie" to order. His contract provided that he was to write a new "walk around" for the following Monday evening.

Emmett was composed. It made Emmett famous and was sung by minstrels all over the country.

Wife's Idea

Oscar Coon, a contemporary of Emmett, says, "He played Dixie to me on his fiddle before it was down on paper. Dan struck it out one day when his wife was jawing him. It was Monday—wash day. The showmen used to say, 'I wish I was in Dixie,' because any showman who could get a job in the South in the cold weather thought himself pretty lucky. So Dan remarked, 'I wish I was in Dixie.' His wife said, 'Dan, that's the idea of a song.' So he worked up Dixie for the minstrel show."
