

RALSTON JUMPS INTO SPOTLIGHT AT WASHINGTON

Regardless of Hoosier Senator's Desires, He Is Considered as Candidate.

By JOHN CARSON.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Regardless of his inclinations or desires, Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana today is in the Washington spotlight as a presidential candidate.

Ralston's maiden speech in the Senate Wednesday has not worn away in its effect. The eastern newspapers and their correspondence paid particular attention to his effort and the comments were fair, even from the very conservative press, and his speech was not one which could be termed ultra-conservative.

Senator Carter Glass, a McAdoo enthusiast and a student of finance moved over to take a chair near Ralston and to listen to every word. Senator Brookhart also took a chair near him. La Follette came into the chamber and remained until the speech was ended. Norris took a seat on the Democratic side and remained there.

Borah came into the chamber and stood near Ralston for a long time and then went to his chair and remained. Democrats from the House joined the audience.

The speech was two hours long, a lengthy maiden effort. But with one exception, the Senators who remained listened. The customary scene of papers being read and letters being written was absent. On the faces was evidence of close attention also. It was an impressive atmosphere in the light of the approaching presidential campaign.

La Follette was a study. He indicated hearty accord with most of Ralston's speech and nodded vigorously and smiled broadly when the Hoosier Senator urged that Congress act to "take the profit out of war and thereby end war."

When Ralston concluded with an appeal for peace and measures to invoke peace, hand clapping began on the Democratic side. That is an unprecedented thing.

An Amazing Fact

To many people it may seem incredible that a habit so common as coffee-drinking can be harmful. Yet if your doctor were to enumerate the common causes of indigestion, headache, and run-down condition, he would be likely to mention coffee.

If you are troubled with insomnia, nervousness, or are inclined to be high-strung, try Postum in place of coffee for thirty days, and note the difference in the way you feel, and how much better you sleep.

Postum is a pure cereal beverage, absolutely free from caffeine, or any harmful drug.

Postum

for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum-Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

The mailman may get an increase this year in his $1,800-a-year wage.

According to word received by Victor Martin, chairman of the joint committee for 1,200 Indianapolis letter carriers, postoffice clerks and railway mail clerks, the postal wage increase bill, pending in House and Senate, has bright prospects for passage.

Representative M. Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania introduced the bill in the House, and Senator Edge of New Jersey, in the Senate, Martin said.

Postoffice clerks and letter carriers now receive an entrance wage of $1,400 a year, with successive yearly promotions of $100 up to $1,800. The Kelly bill asks an entrance wage of $2,000 a year, with an intermediate grade of $2,200, a maximum grade of $2,400 and special clerk grades at $2,600 and $2,800.

A majority of Indiana Congressmen have pledged support for the measure, according to a poll conducted recently by the Indianapolis committee.

MRS. SMITH MAIN WITNESS BEFORE PLYMOUTH JURY

Scope of Probe Believed to Include Domestic Relations of Accused Slayer.

By United Press.
PLYMOUTH, Ind., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Margaret Smith, who last Sunday accused her husband, Ray Smith, of the murder of his grandmother, Mrs. Frances Sweet, was questioned at length today by the Marshall County grand jury in its investigation of the death of Mrs. Sweet.

It was presumed Mrs. Smith told the story of the confession she said her husband made to her that he murdered his grandmother two years ago and buried the body beneath the foundation of a henhouse.

Several other witnesses were called, including the scope was being broadened to include inquiry into the domestic relations of the Smiths. Also into circumstances surrounding the death of three other members of Smith's family.

While the grand jury is concerned only with the death of Mrs. Sweet, an effort is being made to clear up numerous rumors about Smith's family.
