THIEVES RANSACK PLATING COMPANY

Check to Determine Possible
Loss Incomplete.

The Indianapolis Plating Company, 635 Kentucky Ave., was ransacked during the night Tuesday and littered with papers and other materials, according to police reports today. Cecil Teodor, 1709 Ruckle St., part owner, was unable to say whether anything was taken.

Mrs. Anna M. Carter, colored, 1723 Northwestern Ave., told police two men who rented a room robbed her of $55 after "covering" her with a revolver.

Police are watching for two men, in an automobile, who stole seventy men's suits from the Andrews store at Etna, Ind.

L. L. Lewis reported that shortly after their arrival from Detroit, Mich., his "pal" left, with $14.

Mrs. Charles Pearce, 21 E. St. Joseph St., told detectives she gave a suit to a man who said he was from a cleaning establishment, and later discovered he was a fraud.

Rocky Mountain National Park was the most visited park in the country in 1922, 219,154 visitors making the pilgrimage.

OLD SOL RELENTS TO TAKE GLANCE AT AUTO DISPLAY

Weatherman's Cooperation
Helps Swell Crowds at Show.

Old Sol cast a merry twinkle on the thirteenth annual Indianapolis Automobile Show when the doors opened today for the third time, disclosing the greatest aggregation of machines in all motordom ever on display in the Manufacturers' building at the State fairground. Hundreds of persons who hesitated to brave Tuesday's rain helped swell today's crowds.

Every one who visits the show may not go with the desire to buy a car, but all undoubtedly sigh, "Gee, but I wish I could own that one."

Salesmen of the Durant Motors Company, whose exhibit is opposite the entrance, take great pride in showing the public the backbone of the latest Durant.

Out of His Class
A three-wheel Durant circles continuously on a wooden platform just outside the entrance. This sideshow is attracting much attention. The demonstration is to show how intact the backbone will keep the chassis, even when the machine runs on three wheels.

A young man stood admiring a dark gray Oldsmobile exhibited by the Lathrop-McFarland Company.

"Just step in, and see how it feels," cried an ambitious salesman, swooping down upon him. The victim was helpless and had to submit.

"How do you like it?" he was questioned.

"Can't you show me a Ford?" said the young man, meekly emerging from the car.

Eternal Feminine
Crowds are always gazing at a Marmon roadster, finished in French ivory, with highly polished nickel trimmings.

"What a dear!" exclaimed a young woman. "Wouldn't that match my Easter dress?"

Color is one of the remarkable features of the cars. English purple lake and Ceylon green are the odd names attached to two Pierce-Arrow cars of the Fred P. O'Brien exhibit. A yellow Stutz in the Uptake Auto Company exhibit is taking much attention from the Rolls-Royce, which is parked near by.

Batley, the officers say, jumped out of a second-story window onto the porch and thence to the ground. He was shot as he ran. He had been sleeping in the house, officers say. The family is in Florida.

DOMESTIC LIFE OF LOBSTER STUDIED

Pegler Finds Bootlegger in Miami Either Altruistic or Lacking Respect for Clients.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
United News Staff Correspondent
MIAMI, Fla., March 5.—Investigations being something of a fad just now, your correspondent bought chicks and sat in to find out some things about Miami, most of which he is now ready to admit is none of his business.

Among the things he was most curious about are the home life and social customs of the lobster. This cost 50 cents.

Hitherto, we had an idea the lobster was a sort of fish, but it now appears the cases are reversed. For the skipper of the glass bottom boat has pouched 50 cents and we know nothing about the private life of the lobster, beyond the fact he turns red in the face when boiled, which trait he shares with many acquaintances of your correspondent.

Feeling of Affinity
By a curious combination of circumstances, the bottom of the glass-bottom boat is made of glass, and through this glass they invite you—in fact, they even go so far as to defy you—to investigate the lobster in the privacy of his home.

Several varieties of avowed fish swam beneath the lens of the glass-bottom boat, and, observing the peering faces of the investigators, swam up and flattened their little noses fully against the pane in a manifest feeling of affinity for those who had paid 50 cents to observe anything so listless as the daily occasions of the deep.

It seems the lobster, which has a strong predilection for wal, spends much of his time among the calves at the beach and one who has roamed over this picturesque range is able to state the lobster, in this respect, is no lobster at all, but a gentleman with a fine eye for beautiful things.

Question of Liquor
There is a liquor question in Miami, too, but after a purely professional investigation of the matter, your correspondent has decided it is none of his business. This is the one town in America where liquor is too cheap and the case of the Miami bootleggers should be a solemn warning to those of other communities that the quotations must never go below par. If the same liquor that is neglected at present prices were raised to $60 a case, sales would be much better. But when the bootleggers are willing to sell Scotch whiskey for $35 a case in Miami, Fla., after paying all transport and smuggling costs, they have either turned altruistic or lost respect for the intelligence of their clientele.

$36 in London
One pointed out to a man who said he could "get you some" for $35 a case, the same whiskey was now selling for $36 a case in London.

"You must handle a great deal of stuff in order to be able to sell it a dollar cheaper than the London price."

"Yes," he admitted, "we handle an awful lot of goods," to which one of his clients replied, rather tactlessly, "awful is a good word as I can think of in the premises."

POLICE SEARCHING FOR PARTNER OF WOUNDED BURGLAR

Officers Shoot Man Found in Bedroom of Family Away for Winter.

Police are searching for the alleged accomplice of Arthur Batley, 23, of 3007 Hovey St., who they say, has confessed to several burglaries on the north side in the last two weeks.

Batley is in the detention ward at city hospital with wounds in his right hip and arm. He was shot by officers after he climbed out of a second-story window of the home of Dr. L. C. Cline, 5616 Central Ave., and jumped to the ground early today.

Cline Family Away
The Cline family is in Florida for the winter. Sunday a relative visited the home and found a bed disarranged. Detectives guarded the house Sunday, Monday and Tuesday night.

About 1 a. m. today Detectives Roach and Fossatti telephoned headquarters that they saw Batley enter the house.

Detectives Garringer and Kurrach, Sergeant O'Connor and Patrolmen De Barr and Van Sickle went to their aid. The house was surrounded. Fossatti, Garringer and Kurrach entered.

Fossatti tried to batter down the door to the bedroom when Batley refused to open it, they said. The officers fired through the door. Batley jumped out and the other officers opened fire. He dropped after he ran 200 feet.

The officers said Batley dropped a pistol as he leaped.

Alarm Clock "Set"
Detectives say they found an alarm clock set for 3:15 in the bed where Batley had been sleeping. A "jimmy," some cuff links, clothing, postage stamps, books and other articles said to have been stolen from several north side homes also were found.

The detectives are investigating whether Batley was connected with the theft of pearls valued at $40 and $17 in money at the home of Mrs. Bertha Green, 716 E. Thirty-Second St., earlier in the night. Marks on a side window indicated the burglar used a screwdriver to get in.

Arrested Before
Police say Batley was arrested Aug. 9, 1923, on a forged charge, but was released after plea of mental illness.

These robbery reports are being checked with Batley's reputed confession and articles found in the room at the Cline home.

The Value of Mountain Valley Water in NEPHRITIS
(A form of inflammation of the kidneys.)

LETTERS from men and women in all walks of life tell of the value of Mountain Valley Water from Hot Springs, Ark., in Nephritis. The following letter is a sample of the great volume of similar testimony in our files.

I am a subscriber to the National Bureau of Analysis, located in Chicago. At the time I received my last report from them I was naturally somewhat shocked to be informed that the analytical test showed albumen 0.5% per volume measure, and hyaline casts. I was at once put upon Mountain Valley Water and after the fourteenth day a second analysis showed a material reduction in both albumen and casts. After the twenty-fifth day an analysis showed everything absolutely clear.

(Signed) CHARLES A. BOOKWALTER.

A hospital test was recently made to determine the value of Mountain Valley Water in Nephritis. The result of this test may be seen below.

Metropolitan Hospital of New York City Confirms the Value of Mountain Valley Water.

Seventeen chronic cases of Nephritis, Arthritis, Rheumatism, accompanied by High Blood Pressure and other complications, were submitted to this test. Mountain Valley Water only was used, all other medication being withdrawn. Every case showed improvement at the end of the test, and most of the patients left the hospital and returned to work.

Physicians attest the value of Mountain Valley Water in signed statements. Their successful experience for more than fifty years in the use of Mountain Valley Water in Nephritis and kindred diseases is worthy of your consideration. We deliver.

Latest models in automobiles are not the only attractions at the exhibit of the Buick Motor Company at the Indianapolis Auto Show. Miss Marguerite Frisz, 607 E. Thirtieth St., might be termed the handy girl for she does everything from making persons feel at home to answering the phone.

Miss Cathern Riley, 1217 College Ave., is the right hand woman of John B. Orman, manager of the auto show. Most of the day she is employed in the manager's office, but occasionally she steps outside to take a spin in the three-wheel Durant which is demonstrating just outside the main entrance to the Manufacturers' building. Although the machine does nothing but make circles Miss Riley said it's the most comfortable merry-go-round she has been on yet.
