

'ALL YEAR' ROAD GOAL OF WAYNE HIGHWAY OFFICIAL

State Association Head Urges
Eliminating Mud Early
In Spring.

W. O. JONES
"Not only should this condition be overcome as soon as possible but we want roads that can be used every day in the year," Jones says.

Must Maintain Roads
"The road business has become one of the biggest things in the country. Good roads must be maintained and it is of greatest importance that each county have an efficient road system as much commercial and industrial prosperity is dependent upon this."

Jones, who is the oldest road superintendent in Indiana in point of service, rapped political appointment of road supervisors. "The business of making and maintaining good roads has developed to such an extent that mere political appointment will no longer serve. They should qualify on the basis of knowledge of the road business."

"Indiana has a fine road system and no money spent by the taxpayers makes such immediate and adequate returns in prosperity to the individual and the community," Jones says.

Patrol System

Jones believes in the motorization of the road department. He states that he has begun such work and will complete it next year. Wayne County already owning fifteen trucks. "This plan saves the county money, as trucks can be operated at less cost than teams."

Superintendent Jones was the first man to adopt the patrol system now in general use. The system over which he has supervision includes 450 miles. Citizens say that his ten years of service has been the most satisfactory the county has ever had.

Scene of Proposed Shelby St. Continuation

SHELBY ST. END AT MARYLAND ST. SHOWING WHERE SHELBY ST. WOULD BE CONTINUED (ABOVE); LOOKING EAST ALONG SECTION OF TRACKS UNDER WHICH SHELBY ST. WOULD PASS (BELOW).

The Allied Motor Commerce has revived the movement for elevation of Pennsylvania Railroad tracks from the eastern end of the present Union Station elevation to a point beyond the continuation of Shelby Street.

Shelby St. ends at Maryland St., a half block south of the tracks. The motor commerce organization, composed principally of trucking companies, believes the street should be cut through to Southeastern Ave., or on to Washington St., north of the tracks.

Several important industries are located in the southeastern part of the city. The commerce body points out that truck traffic from and to these industries could move with greater facility to allied industries on the north side if Shelby St. were open. As it is this traffic comes into the downtown district over Virginia Ave., increasing downtown congestion.

Trucks can get through to South-eastern Ave. from Shelby St. by Maryland and Cruse Sts., but the Cruse St. crossing, about a half block west of the continuation of Shelby St., is regarded as dangerous because view is obscured and there are seven tracks.

The elevation would be expensive because of the number of tracks and necessity of building grades for several switches to get up to the elevation.

South side residents tried to get the board of works to order the elevation about four years ago.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE ATTACKS WHEELER

Issues Statement Baring
'Record in Montana.'

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Republican National Committee News Bureau has issued a detailed attack on Senator Wheeler, prosecutor of the Daugherty investigation. The charges declare while Senator Wheeler was United States Attorney General of Montana, "the State became a hub of treason and sedition, the leaders in the treacherous and seditious movements being friends of Wheeler's, and that Mr. Wheeler refused to interfere."

"Finally," the article says, "the decent, patriotic Americans of Butte took the matter in hand, hanged one of the leaders, ran the others out of Butte, and then called a meeting of the Montana State Council of Defense for purpose of trying Wheeler for his actions."

INTEREST GROWS AS PRIMARY RACE APPROACHES END

Candidates Prepare Whirlwind Campaigns for Last Six Weeks.

With the primary election less than six weeks away, intensive campaigning for major offices is expected to be begun by all candidates immediately. Some of the candidates, notably Mayor Shank, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, and Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch, candidate for the Democratic nomination, already have covered most of the State in their campaigns.

Dale J. Crittenden, Anderson, candidate for the Democratic nomination, has been active, but has not opened headquarters. He is expected to open an office at the Claypool next week. Ed Jackson, candidate for the Republican nomination, plans to start a whirlwind drive for votes next month.

Senator Joseph M. Cravens, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor and Edgar D. Bush and Edward C. Toner, candidates for the Republican nomination, have headquarters and are actively campaigning.

Contest for Delegates

The presidential preferential primary, which four years ago was the center of nearly all political interest in the State, is attracting little attention this year. The only candidates are President Coolidge and Alvin Johnson, seeking the Republican nomination. Johnson's failure to make much headway in other States has removed much of the interest here.

The gubernatorial contests also are much different from those of previous years. This year they are as much as anything else a contest for delegates.

Candidates for Governor frankly are more interested in obtaining favorable delegates to the State convention than they are in obtaining the direct vote of the people, for a candidate must have a clear majority in the primary to be nominated, and with eight candidates in the Democratic race and six in the Republican contest, a nomination in the primary does not appear likely.

Democrats Active

Because of their success in 1922 and because of troubles in the State and National administrations, Democrats are unusually active this year. This was demonstrated by the fact that more than 1,000 persons attended a pep meeting at the Claypool Tuesday.

The principal talk of the afternoon was made by John A. M. Adair of Portland, former Congressman and candidate for Governor in 1916. He predicted the nomination of Senator Samuel M. Ralston as the candidate for President and predicted Democratic victory. State Senator Walter S. Chambers, State chairman, talked on organization matters and the necessity of obtaining the best possible candidates for all offices.

The State committee decided to send eight delegates-at-large to the National convention in New York. There will be four men and four women with a half vote each. There also will be eight alternates.

A committee headed by Reginald Sullivan, Indianapolis, Seventh district chairman, will have charge of the State convention.

SHOW EXHIBITORS MEET WITH BOARD

CORPORATION TAX FIXING DIFFICULT

Board of Review Cites Lack of Cooperation.

Difficulty in fixing the proper assessment of many of the 2,800 corporations in Marion County is being encountered by the board of review, according to James E. Berry and William H. Morrison Jr., members appointed by Circuit Judge H. O. Chamberlain.

Reluctance on the part of corporation officials to give correct amount of assets, and refusal to appear when summoned, were cited by the board members. The board last year, with the state tax board, made an assessment of $98,000,000.

"These corporation officials are taking the only chance there is, because when they refuse to come in and discuss their assessment we can only guess, and we guess plenty high," said Berry. "Once the time limit expires, and no appeal has been taken, they have nothing to do but pay the tax, erroneous or not. They must pay on all chattels owned, regardless of debts."

CAPTAIN SUSPENDS OFFICER FLETCHER

Policeman Traced Through Rented Automobile.

Motorcycle Officer Raymond E. Fletcher was suspended today by Capt. John White and ordered to report to Chief Kikhoff's office at 9 a. m. Thursday.

Captain White alleged Fletcher admitted he had been drinking when Lieut. Barret Hall and Sgt. Charles Halstead found him in a room at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Ball, responding to a call at 250 W. Ohio St., found an automobile, with bloodstains on the seat and windshield, a loaded .44-calibre revolver and a cap behind the hotel. He learned the car was rented Tuesday evening by Fletcher, according to police.

Fletcher said the bloodstains were caused by a nose bleed and a cut finger, officers said.

TATTLE-TALE IS FORTE OF DEVICE SHOWN IN COURT

Little Machine With Big Name Says Whether Prisoners Tell Truth.

With bated breath the jury watched the little finger move around the dial. It stopped at "Lying." John Doe had testified he did not borrow Smith's lawn mower.

"Curses," said John, "I must plead guilty. The sphygmomanometer has discovered me!"

All of which might be a little scene in any court if the experiments of Edward New, attorney, 907 Hurle-Mansur Bldg., are successful. He has a device invented by the famous Dr. Oscar Rogers for indicating truth or falsehood.

In City Court

Judge Pro Tem. Lloyd Claycombe allowed New to experiment with prisoners before city court bar today. By means of an arm band and a rubber tube arrangement attached to a dial, variations in blood pressure are supposed to disclose the truth or falsity of answers.

Mrs. Josephine McCloud, 38, of 210 E. Norwood St., her husband, Ed McCloud and William J. Newell, 208 1/2 E. Norwood St., had been arrested following a domestic fracas, according to police. The device was attached to the arm of each.

Not Infallible

As to the little machine's opinion of Newell's testimony, New said: "His story is not clear although the record is not strong enough to declare it false. His conscience is apparently clear."

As for Mrs. McCloud, said the machine, according to New: "Conscience not clear. Testimony reckless. Exaggeration prevalent. Evasion of questioning."

New said the machine was not infallible and was impracticable for use in other than petty suits. He will demonstrate his machine before a civic club tonight.

HE LEFT HIS TRADEMARK

Chicken Thief Takes 150 Fowls and Throws Heads in Main St.

"The Bat," and other famous mystery story criminals who leave their trademarks behind them had nothing on the chap who visited Noblesville chicken coops Tuesday night.

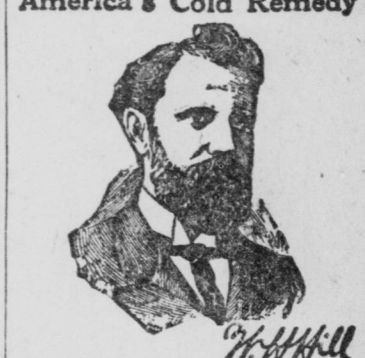

The thief collected 150 of the choicest fowls he could find, decapitated them, and decorated the Main St. pavement with their heads before he left the town.

Mayor Horace Brown notified Indianapolis detectives of the theft early today.

Cigar Store Damaged by Fire

Fire, thought to have started from spontaneous combustion, caused a small loss at the Shane cigar store, 301 N. Illinois St., early today. The flames are thought to have started in a bale of paper, and were confined to the basement. Samuel Shane said loss was entirely in the basement, from water, and that business would not be hampered.
