

HABICH STORE IS ROBBED OF GUNS VALUED AT $188

Thief Leaves Footprints—
$225 In Revolvers Taken
Two Months Ago.

Revolvers valued at $188 and cartridges whose value has not been estimated were stolen from the Gus Habich Sporting Goods Company, 142 E. Washington St., Sunday night. Entrance was gained through removing a wire screen from a second story window.

Detectives have the robber's footprints as a clue.

Guns valued at $225 were stolen from the store two months ago. Three men held up Leo Fear, 1430 Finley Ave., filling station attendant at Bellefontaine St. and Massachusetts Ave., and took $20 from the cash register. They failed to open a safe containing $300. Fear had $40 in his pockets.

Police Investigating

Police are investigating a robbery reported by Leasure Suggs, 2556 Columbia Ave., colored, who said three men, one colored, bound him with rope and took $10 from him and $30 from the cash register at the Mercantile Garage, 125 S. Pennsylvania St., where he works. Louis Pope, colored, 714 N. Senate Ave., car washer, said he was told to keep still and was forced to sit on an automobile running board beside Suggs. A customer, coming in after his car, released him. Suggs said. Both men were arrested.

Two Are Arrested

William Albright, rooming at 714 Adelaide St., and Earl Leeds, Bloomington, are under arrest on fugitive charges.

Detectives said they confessed taking automobile accessories from a garage in Cloverdale, Ind.

Police said they had twelve auto tires, auto accessories and a car for which a certificate of title was issued to a Bloomington man. Six tires were found in Albright's rooms, police say.

Albert Izor, 501 W. Washington St., dentist, reported $113.25 taken Saturday night, and D. C. Johnson, 1448 N. Delaware St., reported jewelry and clothing valued at $250 taken.

AUTO EXHAUSTS IN TRAFFIC LANE ARE HEALTH HAZARDS

Carbon Monoxide Forms 4 to 8 Per Cent of Air
Content.

Increased use of automobiles downtown in Indianapolis, as well as other large cities, has concentrated a menace to public health, according to Dr. W. F. King, secretary of the State board of health.

Not only are persons on the sidewalks endangered, but those shopping within the stores.

"The trouble lies in the deadly carbon monoxide thrown off through motor exhausts."

"It has been found that gases from automobiles contain from 4 to 8 per cent of carbon monoxide and that the air within five to fifteen feet above the surface of streets where auto traffic is concentrated contains from one to two parts of carbon monoxide in each ten thousand parts," said Dr. King.

"In congested districts of our larger cities the air supply to most of the buildings is taken in from the level of the street. The poisonous air, therefore, affects not only the pedestrian, but the occupants of stores and offices as well."

"Normal air shows practically no carbon monoxide. It can be understood readily that air showing two parts in ten thousand becomes a decided public health menace."

According to Dr. King, if you feel like this, you may have carbon monoxide in your system:

Uneasy feeling of illness; throbbing of the blood vessels; burning sensation of the face, then headache and nausea.

If the poisoning continues, the patient soon becomes drowsy and loses consciousness. Chronic poisoning is indicated by dizziness, nausea, general weakness or tired feeling, with lack of mental or physical concentration.

Plays to Win, Like His Dad

JAMES F. HENDRICKS

When Jack Hendricks left the old home town to take charge of the Cincinnati Reds, he didn't take all of the Hendricks sportsmanship with him. Not by a whole lot. For here's James F. Hendricks, 3355 N. Meridian St., son of the baseball manager, getting in trim for the annual Times marble tournament. James is only 9, but he is developing a good shot.

"It would be mighty nice if I could win the tournament and go to Atlantic City," he said. We follow up here are going to practice according to rules and use a ten-foot ring just as is done in the tournaments. Then I think we'll have a lot better chance in the tournament. I'm going to play to win."

James enlisted Robert W. Flugel, 3359 N. Meridian St., and his brother, Sidney W. Flugel, and John E. Ekland, 19 E. Thirty-Fourth St., in the Times tournament.

PARIS, April 7.—Irritated by delays in submission of the experts' reports on the reparations commission, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of committee No. 1, today fixed Wednesday as the day for delivery of the reports, barring unforeseen difficulties.

The American plainly was extremely annoyed by the recent delays occasioned by adjusting the language of the French and English texts and kept the committee sitting long after the usual lunch hour.

Marble Tips

Take plenty of time for each shot and pay no attention to spectators. Don't hunch—keep you shooting hand as still as possible. Practice—at least two hours daily.

'DON'T HUNCH,' IS ADVICE OF KING MARBLE SHOOTER

Infraction of Rules Not Allowed at Tourney in Atlantic City.

By HARLIN M'COY.

First National Marble Champion.

F a boy can't be a good sport he shouldn't expect to be a good marble player. Sportsmanship cuts a big figure in this game, just as it does in other sports.

Players shouldn't hunch. In the first place, it is not good sportsmanship to try to hunch. It's stealing, and that never helps any one.

If a fellow hunches in his games every day he will get used to it. When he gets in a tournament he won't be able to shoot his best.

The shooter should hold his hand still while knocking down and should just move his thumb and forefinger when he lets the shooter go. This will keep him from hunching and will make his aim better.

Advise "Play Fair"

My advice to marble shooters who hope to be champions some day is to learn the rules of the game and "play fair." Don't hunch and don't try to slip something over on the referee.

This article ends my series on marble playing. I have tried to tell the boys and girls how much fun and real science there is in marble shooting because I am hoping some day it will make better shots of the million kids who are expected to enter this year's tournament.

I'll be on the sidelines this year, but I want to see the best shot in America win. Good luck to all you marble shooters. It's up to you.

It's getting late now, but there's still time to enroll in The Indianapolis Times Marble Contest. The first tournament will be fun and now this week. So sign up and get into the game. Send your entry blank to the Marble Editor of The Times. That's all you have to do to enter.

Free Trip to Ocean

The winner of the city tournament, as you know, will get a week's trip free to Atlantic City. While there he or she will play in the national tournament with boys and girls from many other cities. Winners of the Howard newspapers have conducted tournaments similar to yours. It's your tournament, and if you want Indianapolis to be the home of the Marble King of the United States, get busy at once, come into the tournament, and practice to make yourself a winner.

Beside the capital prize, there will be other prizes for winners. The winner of the city tournament will get a season pass to Washington Park and a fine bicycle.

PUBLIC STILL IN DARK ON PROBE

Citizens Pay for Quiz Which Council Keeps Secret.

Mayor Shank today signed the ordinance appropriating $5,000 for the council investigation committee to probe alleged irregularities in city government.

With the signature he promised the council cooperation in its investigation and said he was ready any time to testify in his own behalf. He repeated his objections to secret committee meetings.

No part of the hearings to date will be made public tonight, as previously announced. Storyville retained by the committee said it would not be wise to make reports public yet. A committee meeting is scheduled tonight after the regular council meeting.

The council will receive an appropriation ordinance of $20,000 to night to pay for improvements at the city hospital, including a new heating system and corridors connecting various units.

Radical changes in parking regulations are proposed in other ordinances ready for introduction.

GOVERNOR'S RACE DWARFS ALL OTHER ISSUES IN ILLINOIS

Coolidge Expected to Win
Over Johnson in Tuesday's Primary.

By United Press
CHICAGO, April 7.—The Illinois primary is swinging to a close today with the fury of the Republican gubernatorial fight overshadowing all other issues, including the selection of presidential delegates. A record-breaking number of voters are expected at the polls Tuesday.

Consensus of opinion is President Coolidge will win easily from Senator Hiram Johnson.

Johnson Attacks President

Johnson has carried on a strenuous campaign against the President, charging lack of energy in prosecuting oil scandal cases and failure to oust former Secretaries Denby and Daugherty sooner. The Coolidge campaign has been quiet.

Supporters of William G. McAdoo declare they will feel lucky to have ten or twelve of the fifty-eight delegates to the national Democratic convention instructed for their man. George Brennan, Democratic boss of Illinois, wants the delegates to go uninstructed and his opposition slate is expected to have little difficulty winning in nearly every district.

McAdoo's supporters entertained rather high hopes until the Wisconsin primary debacle occurred. They feared a repetition in Illinois.

Senator Medill McCormick is running for renomination against former Governor Charles Deneen, Jenkins and others. Belief in McCormick will win.

Albert A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, and William McKinley, former speaker of the House of Representatives, are fighting it out for the Democratic nomination for Senator.

Mud-Slinging Contest

The big fight—an old-fashioned mud-slinging affair—is between Governor Len Small and Thurlow G. Eastington, State Senator for the Republican nomination for Governor. Powerful newspaper support is behind each candidate and everything throwable is being thrown.

Normal L. Jones, a circuit judge, and Kent E. Keller, former State Senator, are the leading contenders for the Democratic nomination for governor. Jones is considered the winner.

Patsy Finds Use for Ring Tactics While Directing Traffic at Corner

PATSY Mc MAHON

FOR fourteen years Patsy McMahon lifted 'em around the roped-in enclosure with left hooks and right smashes to the jaw. There were few light heavyweightweights he hadn't met. Patsy worked up a little old reputation of his own of "getting his man."

The police department needed an officer who could "get his man" and Patsy landed a job. Now he's perking his thumb over his shoulder for the slow ones to move off the street corners and in between times he chases the fast ones on a motorcycle.

"Sure," says Patsy, "the blowin' of whistles is good training for the ring. It makes faster lungs. And on the other hand, the longer you get in the ring are good for blowing whistles."

He Uses His Eyes

"You learn how to use your eyes in the ring, too. An it comes in mighty handy on a corner when you have to watch one direction with each corner of both eyes. You don't know when some flivver's going to slip you a kidney blow or whether some nice long, sleek limousine's going to try to slip past you and put over a fade-away by making a left turn.

"It's almost like the old-time battleship ring with 'em on four sides of you waiting for a chance to put over the final punch. It takes footwork and it takes the right kind of punches. You've got to wait just so long and no longer or there'll be a jam and you're in the middle of it."

Watching for Speeders

"Patsy straddles a mean motorcycle too.

"Watching for speeders is like watching for the right moment in the ring. There's a time to get 'em quick and there's a time to loaf along behind a little. A miscue and they're lost in traffic or else you jump too quick and you can't "catch time" on them.

"It's a great game," said Patsy. "I used to feel I was going to be homesick for the ring, but being a traffic cop isn't so different from the old life, at that."

FACTIONS CHECK UP IN FIGHT FOR COUNTY CONTROL

Freeman, Ryan, Spiegel
Backers Confident—Coffin
Non-Committal.

Representatives of the various factions seeking control of both the Republican and the Democratic organizations in Marion County were busy today checking up the results of the scramble which ended Saturday for candidates for precinct committeemen favorable to the factions.

Russell Ryan, the present Democratic county chairman, said there is a candidate in practically every precinct who is favorable to his re-election.

Frank P. Baker, who is managing the campaign of John Spiegel, Ryan's opponent, said there are sixty-five uncontested precincts, the candidates in about forty-five of which are favorable to Spiegel. He said he anticipated withdrawal of some of the Ryan candidates. Candidates for precinct committeemen have until April 15 to withdraw.

There also are two Republican slates, the Coffin-Dodson slate and the regular organization slate, which is backing William H. Freeman, present county chairman.

Freeman said "things are looking good" with complete filings of candidates friendly to the regular organization.</
