

RELIGIOUS FIGHT IN CONFAB RUINS VICTORY CHANCES

Writer Believes Democratic Party Is Divided Following Klan Clash.

By LOWELL MELLETT,
Times Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, June 30.—This is the next morning after the night before in the Democratic party. It is "Black Monday." The party of Jefferson and Jackson has an awful headache. It is drinking ice water and black coffee and bromo seltzer. It is fairly eating aspirin. There's a cold towel around its head and it has only one candle for anything. His name is—REMORSE.

For the Democratic party went on one of its periodical drunks Saturday night. Not a whisky drunk, certainly not a beer and light wine drunk; but an emotional drunk. It was one of these Saturday nights that last till Sunday sun-up and the party spent most of yesterday in bed trying to sleep it off.

Hopes Are Slim
Perhaps things aren't as black as they look to leaders but these leaders now feel that hopes of winning in November are pretty well gone, for one thing, and that a lot of the candidates for the nomination have been eliminated in advance of the balloting. McAdoo is gone, and Smith, and Ralston, and Baker, and Cox and Walsh and Underwood.

The Klan fight and the after bitterness have eliminated all these. For one reason or another. The reason is pretty obvious in the case of McAdoo and Al Smith, since the fratricidal strike that came to a head Saturday night was waged largely in the names of these two candidates.

Underwood as one of the first promoters of the intra-party war goes out and Cox goes with him. Newton Baker follows closely. His clear "aye" on the vote to insert the Klan-by-name plank was heard by all the delegates fighting against that course. The case of Ralston requires a bit of explaining. Tom Taggart had maneuvered smoothly to keep Ralston's name out of the controversy and had succeeded to a large extent until the roll call came at the Klan plank. Then all but five of the Hoosiers voted against the program of the anti-Klan leaders. Ralston is out so far as New York, Illinois and Ohio are concerned. The leaders of these State delegations says so frankly today.

Has No Chance
Senator Walsh, as a Catholic, is not given much consideration today in the light of the intensified religious feeling, of course, but an effect of the brutal contest on the floor between Saturday night and Sunday morning was to wipe him many friends in the Klan camp. His dogged determination to be a fair chairman, no matter whose feelings were hurt, resulted in a lot of sore spots among the anti-Klan leaders.

John W. Davis apparently is untouched. The whole business has worked to the benefit of his candidacy, according to the general opinion. His name never has been drawn into the religious dispute, and his sixteen delegates from West Virginia managed to divide their votes so evenly as not to offend either side, without making it so even as to appear obvious. They voted seven one way and nine the other.

Hopes Wrecked
"He can have the nomination, I believe, but as his long-time friend I'm not sure that I would advise him to take it. Our hopes for November are just about wrecked as a result of this damned church fight." Friends of Davis are thinking about this seriously. New York's financial interests are still completely committed to Davis in the secret recesses where their hearts should be. They have gone so far as to speed the intimation that if La Follette's candidacy should seem to be endangering Coolidge's chances they will drop Coolidge in time to throw their support behind Davis. Typical of the devastation wrought by the Saturday night carnival of emotion is the case of George White of Ohio. White is a former chairman of the Democratic national committee. His chief desire is not for any particular candidate, but party success this fall. He was one of the many like him who watched the development of the fury over the Klan issue with dread. Saturday night he voted his convictions on that subject. He voted against the Klan plank. He felt it didn't belong in a political document. Later, when he knew the election might turn the result, so close was it at that time, after the war had reached the bitter stage of that moment, whether the plank was in the platform or not. So he switched his vote to bring himself into personal alignment with Ed Moore, head of the Ohio delegation.

ADVENTURES IN PRISON

Police Say Eastern Youths Failed to Pay for Food.

Headed for Kansas in quest of work in the fields at harvest time, three eastern youths found themselves behind the bars of city prison in Indianapolis today.

Police said the trio ate heartily at the restaurant of Mrs. Belle Findley, 1524 W. Washington St., and then had nothing with which to pay the $1.10 bill.

Mrs. Findley did not want to prosecute, but the police charged vagrancy. The adventurers are Henry Dabney, 19, and Raymond Mallory, 21, both of Buffalo, N. Y., and Carl McCall, 19, of Columbus, Ohio.

DR. HILL TURNED OVER TO SHERIFF THREE ARE HELD IN AUTO CRASHES

Physician to Begin Three to Fourteen-Year Term.

The six-year legal battle of Dr. A. A. Hill, against a charge of performing an illegal operation, in which a 19-year-old girl died in 1918, ended today when Hill was turned over to Sheriff Snider for transportation to the Indiana State Prison for a term of from three to fourteen years.

Hill's attorney made a final effort to stay his deliverance to the sheriff until Thursday, to wind up business affairs, but Judge James A. Collins refused.

Hill was sentenced March 9, 1921, and appealed to Supreme Court, losing the appeal and petition for rehearing.

The doctor faces a similar charge in a case in which it is alleged an older 19-year-old girl died in February, 1923.

SLOGAN CONTEST GROWS

C. of C. Committee Calls Attention to Rule.

More than 250 entries have been received by the Chamber of Commerce in the $25 prize contest for an Indianapolis slogan.

The committee said many entries have been returned because the rule requiring that the slogan, without name or address of the author, is enclosed in an envelope and mailed with a separate slip bearing name and address of the sender.

INSOLVENCIES DECREASE

Last Week Shows 349 Failures; Over 400 the Week Before.

Insolvencies last week, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., show quite a sharp decline, the number reported in the United States being 349, as contrasted with 412 two weeks ago and 420 three weeks ago; a year ago there were 292 failures. Defaults were fewer last week in all sections, as compared with the previous week, except in the West, but only two more are shown there. There were 195 insolvencies last week in the United States where the indebtedness was in excess of $5,000, against 245 the previous week.

For Canada, 41 failures were reported last week; a year ago the Canadian defaults number 66. There were 22 last week with liabilities of $5,000 or more, against 25 two weeks ago.

By Times Special
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., June 30.—Thomas W. Kavanaugh, Indianapolis, attending the school of commerce and finance at Indiana University, has been declared the best scholar in auditing, and has been awarded the "accountants' index" offered by the American Institute of Accountants.

Other prize students are: Herbert L. Ploewman, Gary; William P. Halstead, Terre Haute, Ind.; and Charles Branson, Connersville.

Dean William A. Hawley has announced that twenty prizes will be given annually from now on, ranging from $100 to valuable sets of books on commerce subjects.

PLEA MADE FOR ROADS

President of Community Clubs Predicts 500,000 Population.

"Undoubtedly Indianapolis will have a population of 500,000 persons in twenty years from now, and if she is to keep pace she must build adequate and sufficient highways leading into the city," said Edward O. Snelten, president of Indianapolis Federation of Community Clubs, in an address on "Work of the Federation" at a meeting of the Science Club at the Chamber of Commerce today.

Snelten said that civic organizations which operated near the city limits and just outside are doing much toward the development of the city.

JEWISH CAMP OPENS

Thirty-Eight Children and Seven Mothers Go to Resort.

Thirty-eight children and seven mothers went to Camp Ida Weinman, health resort, when the camp opened today. Miss Lucille Goldstein is camp director, and Alan Fieve, athletic director, assisted by Miss Hattie Feldman.

The camp is conducted by the Jewish Federation, assisted by the Council of Jewish Women and the Marion County Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Harry Jacobs, chairman of the committee in charge, said about 150 mothers and children had signed up for the season.

FUNDS ARE AVAILABLE

Action Taken to Restore Building at State Farm.

The balance of Indiana State Farm funds is sufficient to rebuild and equip the industrial building which was practically destroyed by fire Friday, trustees said today. Loss was estimated at $25,000. The trustees met in an emergency session Sunday and named a sub-committee to purchase material and equipment for the tailor shop and for the laundry and canning factory which were destroyed. Plans are being drawn to rebuild the building. Estimated cost of re-equipment is $12,000.

WATCH YOUR GARAGE!

Police Ask Cooperation in Boozie Drive—Arrests Drop.

Watch your garage. Capt. William M. Paulsel, head of the police prohibition division, asked property owners to do this today.

Garage boozies are hard to locate and citizens can help a lot if they will refuse to rent them to suspicious persons, Paulsel said.

Reporting on the six months ending today, Paulsel said his twelve men made 837 arrests, as compared with 1,045 in the same period of 1923. Industrial depression cut the amount of money drinkers had to spend for booze and bootlegging dropped accordingly, he declared.

Water Hearing July 18

City and Company Seek Lower Valuation for Tax Levy.

Public hearing on the State tax board's $17,500,000 valuation of the Indianapolis Water Company will be held July 18. The city also petitioned for a rehearing, declaring the value should not be more than $12,000,000. The public service commission set the value at $15,250,000 for rate-making purposes. The company itself asks a valuation of $19,000,000 for rate-making purposes.

VARIETY SHOWN IN PROGRAM FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Sport Events, Picnics, Patriotic Ceremonies Are Planned for Day.

If any resident of Indianapolis, from the peepiest youngster to the most sedate old gentleman, fail to find amusement to his taste Fourth of July, he will have none to blame but himself.

Never before in the history of the Glorious Fourth in Indianapolis has such a variety of events been planned. An all-day celebration at the State fairground has been planned by Veterans of Foreign Wars, Hoosier Post, with McGrew camp, United Spanish American War Veterans, co-operating. The program includes athletics, band concerts, horse races, a sham battle and a fireworks display. An impressive event will be presentation of colors to twenty new posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Motor Races

Races will be held at the Hoosier Motor Speedway. One of these, a novelty in Indiana, is a race for light stock cars. Cars must be the ordinary light cars, and no doctoring, "stepping up" or special equipment will be permitted.

The big event will be a 200-lap race for the real racers. Bicycle races will be held at Riverside Park. Winners will be given a chance later to compete in national events.

Golf courses will hold special events. At Woodstock Club, the Western open tennis championship tournament will be nearing the final stages. Such stars as Bill Tilden, national champion; the Australian Davis cup team members, Gerald Patterson and Brian I. C. Norton, and a great flock of younger stars will play.

Big Day at Parks

Amusement parks at Riverside and Broad Ripple have made arrangements for a busy day, ending with fireworks displays.

Knights of Columbus will observe the day in connection with their silver jubilee celebration at Columbia Park.

Your particular attention is directed to the withdrawal of the Business Flat rate service, and all business telephones placed on a Measured service basis. We believe this to be the most fair method of making charges for business service in a city the size of Indianapolis. This principle was recognized by the Public Service Commission in its order of August 11, 1923, in which it commented as follows:

"The Business service at Indianapolis should be on a measured basis and the Commission believes the Company, as soon as its finances will permit, should proceed to perfect the plans and install the necessary apparatus and equipment so that all the business service in the Indianapolis exchange area may be put on a measured basis."

In preparing the new schedule of rates, we have been mindful of the varying needs of our subscribers and have set up to meet these requirements by the furnishing of various classes of service from which the subscriber may choose the most economical and that best suited to his particular needs.

If there is any question regarding the new rates or class of service, please call the Managers.
