Charles Coleman, alias Charles Smith, 24, colored, 513 Hudson St., a deputy constable, is held on a murder charge in shooting of Jordan Jones, 23, colored, 523 Hudson St., late Friday.

DRINKERS AS BAD AS BOOTLEGGERS, CONFERENCE TOLD

Haynes, Dry Commissioner, at Winona—Hears Morgan Defended.

By United Press
WINONA LAKE, Ind., July 19.—“Purchasers of illicit liquor—the elite of society—are as bad as bootleggers.”

This was charge made against society folk who wink at violation of the prohibition law, by Roy A. Haynes, Federal prohibition commissioner, in the principal address before the annual conference of the World League Against Alcoholism, here today.

“If the demand for illicit liquor was cut off by higher circles of so-called society, bootleggers would go out of business,” he declared.

Defense Enforcement

Admitting that prohibition laws are being violated, but defending the enforcement division, Haynes said: “The charge of general wholesale violations is unfounded. Certain groups may be drinking more, but they certainly are small comparatively.”

“We are making rapid progress in enforcement of the prohibition law, for the State laws to be used in all possible cases against the small violator.”

Haynes was presented with protests to the reported request for the resignation of Bert Morgan, Federal prohibition director for Indiana. Morgan is attending the meeting and has arranged to confer with Haynes late today about enforcement problems in Indiana.

“Pussyfoot” Speaks

Neither would comment whether the question of Morgan's resignation would be taken up.

“Egypt has the reputation of being ‘dry,’ but we expect to make this country ‘dry,’” declared H. E. “Pussyfoot” Johnson, Westerville, Ohio, in an address before the conference.

Johnson, today received a cablegram from Maraland, New Zealand, congratulating him in his efforts to bring about the defeat of Governor Al Smith of New York, candidate for the presidential nomination in the Democratic national convention.

Akron, Ohio, has two rival bathing beach inspectors. Paul Burke, secretary to the mayor, was named following complaint memos at public bathing pools were wearing abbreviated costumes. Then Chief of Police Durkin, citing the fact he is older and has had more experience than Burke, announced that he was an official inspector too.

DETECTIVES SCAN ATTACK STORY

Detectives today are investigating alleged facts contained in a confession by George Fleischman, 21, of 329 N. State St., that he struck a man after a poolroom brawl at English and State Ave. on Sunday night, in which Chris Schick, 54, of 1735 English Ave., was fatally injured. Fleishman is charged with murder.

Fleishman told police he and a companion started out after two men fleeing from the scene of a gang fight.

You get one and I'll get the other,” was their agreement, according to Fleishman's confession. He said he knocked a man down. Police say they learned Fleishman told a girl he was “afraid he hit the old man too hard and that he might not see her again for a long time.”

Schick was the only one injured in the fight.

WANDERLUST BUG HERE NIBBLES 400

Police Report Shows Amazing Number of Missing Persons.

More than 400 persons have been reported missing to police since the first of the year, records at police headquarters showed today.

Spring wanderlust nearly doubles the reports of missing people. In March forty-eight persons were reported missing, while in April seventy-nine departed.

The increase continued, records show, during the warmer months, with seventy-six in May, seventy-nine in June and fifty-four so far this month.

Winter halts desertion of domestic females, as only fifty-four were reported missing in January and forty-seven in February.

Police Sgt. Ralph Dean, whose task it is to list missing persons, said practically 80 per cent return home in a few days or weeks. Although records show only 40 per cent have been found, Sergeant Dean said families fail to notify headquarters of returns.

Love Claims Another Victim

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Love certainly does strange things to a fellow.

There's Robert H. Wilson of Los Angeles, for instance. One night he went to a theater and there, across the footlights, was the girl of his dreams, plump face, golden hair, all the grace and beauty one could imagine in a mere human.

Robert fell. Night after night he went to the show. Once or twice the lady smiled at him. He

POOLROOM CASE MAY GROW OUT OF SCHICK DEATH

Prosecutor Says He Will Seek to Abate Place at Scene of Gang Fight.

As a result of interviewing witnesses held in connection with the murder of Chris Schick last Sunday evening in front of the poolroom of Herman Blomberg, 1658 English Ave., Prosecutor William H. Remy today said he would attempt to close the poolroom as a liquor nuisance.

Some of the ten men arrested in connection with the running fight and brawl, which started in the street, resumed in the poolroom and again adjourned to the street, have been before the grand jury on the question of liquor being sold on the poolroom premises. Remy said the murder witnesses finally admitted they had bought liquor in the poolroom just before the fight.

Part of Clean-Up

The abatement proceedings are part of a general clean-up of poolrooms suspected of violating liquor laws, Remy said.

“This is not a drive, nor is it new,” said Remy. “The prosecutor's office has consistently filed abatement proceedings against many premises in the county, and we have closed many. But just now I am devoting more attention to poolrooms because of the murder.”

Two Suits Filed

Remy late Friday filed abatement proceedings in Superior Court to close two poolrooms in Haughville as liquor nuisances. Mike Thomas runs one at 774 Ketcham St., leasing the property from Nicod and Lema K. Chiodoff. Mike and Milka Match own and operate the other at 702 Ketcham St. Jesse E. Martin, Anti-Saloon League attorney, who has handled abatement proceedings for the county prosecutor for several years, filed the suits in Remy's name.

STERRETT TAKEN IN PARTLOW CASE

State Investigates Source of Affidavits.

Thomas Sterrett, 26, of 819 N. Dearborn St., is in jail with bond fixed at $5,000 on vagrancy charges. He is wanted by the State in connection with the Partlow case.

Partlow, president of the Partlow-Jenkins Motor Car Company, for a new trial.

Partlow, whose petition will be heard next Tuesday in Criminal Court by Special Judge John W. Holtzman, has been serving a term in the Indiana State Prison on conviction of receiving stolen autos at his garage in 1919, since Feb. 19, 1924. He has fought his jury conviction five years, carrying it to the Supreme Court.

Partlow has presented Judge Holtzman with affidavits made in 1921, from Sterrett and Carl E. Bernauer, now in prison for murder, swearing Partlow is the victim of their “frame-up,” and knew nothing of their putting eight stolen cars into his garage.

July 9, this year, Prosecutor William H. Remy obtained a counter affidavit in which Bernauer said he was drugged when he was taken to Noblesville by Partlow and signed “something somebody ran off on a typewriter.”

SHANK DEFIANT ON PROMOTIONS

Says Accident Bureau Move
Is Rebuke to Council.

Mayor Shank's action in shaking up the police accident prevention bureau is final, he said today when informed of moves and ways to resign the board of safety action.

The board transferred Miss Rachel Bray, Frank Owens and Edward Glenn from the department and promoted Patrolman Jack O'Neal, Motorcycle Police Harry Smith, and Mrs. Edward Moore, secretary to Chief Rickhoff, to the sergeants in the bureau.

City councilmen said they passed the ordinance elevating members of the bureau to sergeants over the mayor's veto to reward the members of the department. Instead of keeping them in, the mayor immediately ordered the shake-up to give others the benefit of promotion, they say.

The mayor said he would have promoted any of them if the recommendation had come from Chief Rickhoff, but wasn't going to stand for any “bluff” from the council.

EVERY SANDERSON

Avery Sanderson, 11, must have been born a “water dog.” He didn't know it, however, until he took a lesson at one of the Red Cross Learn-to-Swim-Week classes.

About five minutes after he struck the water Avery was swimming. In thirty minutes he was so good that the instructor let him dive. He swam the length of the pool.

Avery lives with his mother in Apt. 5 at 1404 Central Ave.
