Executive Committee of State Body in Session at Headquarters.

Support of Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch, Democratic candidate for Governor, will be the likely recommendation of the executive committee of the Indiana State Federation of Labor, to the State convention of the organization, which meets at South Bend, Aug. 27, it was indicated today.

The executive committee convened this afternoon at State headquarters in the Peoples State Bank Bldg. Details and plans for the convention were to be discussed.

Woman on Committee

The executive committee is composed of the following: Thomas N. Taylor, president; Adolph J. Fritz, secretary; James Lechler, treasurer; Ray Abbott, Hammond, second vice president; Mrs. O. P. Smith, Logansport, third vice president; Edward P. Barry, Indianapolis, fourth vice president; and William Schmidt, West Terre Haute, fifth vice president.

According to statements, the executive committee may recommend support of a presidential candidate during the fall campaign. Lechler, vice president of the federation, is also secretary of the Conference of Progressive Political Action, which is backing Senator La Follette for the presidency.

Thomas N. Taylor, president of the labor federation, however, was a member of the resolutions committee at the Democratic State convention.

La Follette Manager Here

A. E. Gordon, Terre Haute, State campaign manager for La Follette, was in the city today making preliminary arrangements for the campaign. The first day for filling La Follette's name as an independent candidate for President would be Aug. 1, it was said at the Statehouse.

The petition signed by 500 voters and including a list of presidential electors would be filed in the Governor's office.

P. H. Crane, secretary of the Indiana Farm Federation stated that while no recommendation would be made to members as to the gubernatorial candidates, both Dr. McCulloch and Ed Jackson, Republican candidate would be interrogated as to their stand on certain questions, and their answers broadcast to the farmers.

Crane said the legislative committee of the federation would meet early in August to take some action. Stand on the cooperative marketing law is one of the questions to be put to the candidates.

MANDATE ASKED FOR NEW TRIAL

Alleged Slayer, Sentenced to Die, Seeks Rehearing.

Attorneys for Edward Barber, Terre Haute, sentenced to be electrocuted on Aug. 25 for the murder of Steven Kendall, Terre Haute detective, at a filling station there Jan. 23, today petitioned the State Supreme Court to mandate Judge Thomas W. Hutchinson, Clay county Circuit Court, to grant Barber a change of venue or a new trial.

The attorneys declare Hutchinson "denied a fair trial" and that his actions constituted "a complete and absolute denial of justice." E. Blankenbaker and Henry W. Moore are Barber's attorneys. They went to Greensburg today, the home of Chief Justice David A. Meyers, to arrange for an early consideration. The court is now in vacation.

Barber confessed to the crime, pleaded guilty, then withdrew his plea, and the case went to trial on a change of venue from Vigo County to Judge Hutchinson's court in Brazil. He was found guilty and was sentenced to die.

The influence of the prince's rakish garb will be felt in everything from cuff-links to pajamas, style setters predict.

Small derbies with roll brim will be worn by young men, and the same style but more conservative, by middle aged men.

FILIPINOS RESENT ATTACKS ON USE OF COCOANUT OIL

Retaliating Boycott Talked Against Certain Dairy States.

By Times Special
NEW YORK, July 22.—Leon M. Gonzales, the Philippine Government commercial agent, said today the Philippine coconut oil industry is aroused by the campaign in parts of the United States to discriminate against this product. There is talk in the Philippines, he said, of retaliatory boycotts against distinctive products of States which legislate against coconut oil.

"These attacks upon the most important item in the Philippine export trade," continued Mr. Gonzales, "are provoked by the dairy interests and are most insistent in the dairy States. The buppter manufacturers seem to be alarmed by the recent increase in the consumption of vegetable fats, which are growing in favor as a spread for bread and as a shortening agent."

"The fact is coconut oil is one of the purest substances that enters into the manufacture of foods. Its wholesomeness as well as its food value have been certified by competent authorities and not long ago Governor Leonard Wood, who is a physician as well as a statesman, notified the Bureau of Insular Affairs in Washington attacks upon the wholesomeness of this product in the United States were unwarranted and its purity was beyond question."

"Statistics in this office show during 1923 exports to the Philippine Islands from the States of Oregon and Washington were valued at $6,780,855, consisting principally of canned salmon, butter, apples, wheat flour and dairy products. I feel if the dairymen of Oregon and Washington succeed in having these anti-vegetable-oil laws put into effect, Philippine business men will resent such action and the friendly business relations now existing will be disturbed."

Steamer Rammed Off Newport R. I.

S. S. BOSTON.

News of the ramming of the liner Boston off Newport, R. I., with 600 passengers aboard, six of whom are dead, was received with great interest by H. C. Pennicke, 1535 Central Ave., manager of service and planning for the American Central Life Insurance Company.

Pennicke, who supplied the above picture of the Boston, took a trip from Boston to New York July 6 upon the Boston's sister ship, the New York. The New York is an exact replica of the Boston, he said.

The boats are the finest in the Atlantic coast service. The Boston was put in service June 1 and the New York July 4. Pennicke rode the New York on her second voyage.

Both of the vessels seem to have been ill fated. Pennicke said, for the New York rammed a ferry boat in New York harbor while he was on the New York.

EGYPTIANS FEAR BRITONS WILL DRY UP NILE RIVER

Dispute Serious as Natives
Demand English Relinquish Sudan Control.

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Fearing the British may some day dry up the Nile upon which their very life depends, Egypt now insists England must yield control of the Sudan.

The Anglo-Egyptian dispute is the most interesting because of the trouble Britain is having with her colonies and dominions throughout the world and which may yet bring important changes within the Empire.

The Sudan is under the joint rule of England and Egypt. About the size of the United States east of the Mississippi and some three times as big as Egypt, both the White Nile and the Blue Nile as well as the upper half of the Nile proper formed by the junction of these two, lie within her borders.

It is here, in the Sudan, the English plan two of the greatest irrigation dams in the world. One, at Makwar, to control the waters of the Blue Nile and the other at Gebel Aulia, across the White Nile, twenty-four miles south of Khartoum, where the Nile itself begins.

Country at Mercy

But for the Nile, Egypt, now surprisingly productive, would be just another corner of the Great African Desert. Thus, Egyptian leaders are now saying, the power that controls the waters of the upper Nile, particularly above the confluence of the White and the Blue Nile, holds her completely at its mercy.

"All such a power would have to do," they declare, "should Egypt prove recalcitrant, would be to detain the Nile waters for a season in the reservoirs and irrigation canals of Sudan."

This would be quite possible when the two new dams are completed. The water is low in summer, anyway, and the very purpose of the dams is to impound flood waters so as to release them gradually, share and share alike, to the Egyptians and Sudanese, through the dry months. The Sudan could use it all, if she chose, leaving the bed of the Nile proper, lower down, dry as the Sahara.

See Politics in Dams

The Egyptians suspect the British. They see politics in the dams as well as economics, and feel they must control the Sudan "to protect themselves from political duress by an unfriendly influence there."

Egypt, therefore, wants to annex the Sudan, or at least to control it. No matter what England agrees to do, Egyptians charge, the independence of Egypt will remain only a myth unless she herself controls the life-giving waters of the Nile.

Britain insists she must control the Egyptian premier, Zaghlul Pasha, to London and a conference between Britons and Egyptians will take place shortly to discuss their differences. But it is not likely that Britain will yield much, while it is equally likely that Zaghlul will make few, if any, concessions.

QUESTION RAISED IN EDUCATION OF COLORED ORPHANS

County Attorney to Decide if 'Wards' Can Be Sent Out of State.

May inmates of the Orphans' Home for Colored Children be sent out of the State for education before they become twenty-one years of age? This question, presented to the board of county commissioners today by representatives of the Educational Aid Society for Dependent Colored Children, will be submitted to Russell J. Ryan, county attorney, for a legal opinion.

The society in the past has sent a number of children from the home each year to Tuskegee Institute and other southern colored educational institutions. Frances Berry Costin, principal of public school No. 63, the school attended by children at the home, and president of the society, told the commissioners she had heard that minor children could not be sent out of the State, as they were State wards.

Representatives of the society explained that in the future all educational expenses will be borne by the society. Commissioners expressed themselves as favoring the plank of the society if the county attorney passed favorably upon its legality.

Judge Frank J. Lahr of juvenile court said his court would raise no objections to the plan if it were held legal.

She Is a Blacksmith!

It takes muscle to be a blacksmith. But Mrs. George Byus of Oklahoma City, now a full partner in her husband's business, has plenty. She got it, she says, washing and keeping house for a husband and family of nine. All nine of the children were orphans she and her husband adopted. Now, at 50, since the boys and girls are all married, she has taken up her work at the forge. She does every kind of work her husband does except the actual shoeing of horses. "When it comes to nailing them on—well, I let George do it," she says. "I've never got over being afraid I might get kicked."

MOTHER AND FIVE CHILDREN ESCAPE DEATH IN PLUNGE

Only Slight Wounds Suffered by Two as Car Rolls Toward River.

A mother and her five children plunged down a thirty-foot embankment in an automobile which turned over three times and landed upside down in Indianapolis today and the only injuries were a scratch and a wrenched neck suffered by two of the children.

Mrs. Rose De Hoff, 914 S. West St., was driving her children to the Riley playground, Oliver Ave. and White River. She attempted to turn around in Oliver Ave. and the car did a nose dive down the embankment toward the river when brakes failed to work.

The mother was the first one out of the car. She was the happiest woman in Indianapolis as she helped pull out the children and found them unhurt.

Elizabeth, 13, had a slightly wrenched neck, and Robert, 3, a slight scratch on the face. Other children were Harold, 11; Norman, 8, and Lawrence, three months.

CHIEF RIKHOFF RESENTS SHAKE-UP IN POLICE BUREAU

Will Protest Changes Mayor
Made in Accident Prevention Office.

Protest against the shake-up in the police accident prevention bureau will be carried to Mayor Shank by Chief Herman Rikhoff, it was indicated today on Rikhoff's return from Montreal. The mayor is now out of the city.

"There is such a thing as 'snap judgment,'" said Rikhoff, in commenting on the change which removed Miss Rachel Bray, Frank Owens and Edward Glenn from the bureau. "But I don't want to cause any ill feeling in the department now."

"All these officers were efficient, and were well acquainted with the work," continued the chief. "They are positions which are difficult to learn, and with more service the members of the bureau become more valuable."

While Rikhoff was out of the city last week, the board of safety on suggestion of Mayor Shank appointed Mrs. Mary Moore, Motorcycle Police, Harry Smith, and Patrolman Jack O'Neil to the places with the rank of sergeants.

The mayor's move followed passage of an ordinance over his veto in city council which raised the accident prevention bureau members to sergeants.

Mayor Shank explained that if the promotions had come through other channels, he might have made them. But he objected to the council's attitude. Councilmen explained that they desired to reward members of the accident bureau for efficient work.

Patrolmen are largely responsible for the recent clean-up campaign, Rikhoff said in commenting on the drive ordered by Mayor Shank and Mayor Shank the day after he left. "If patrolmen were alive to the situation they would know suspicious characters around poolrooms and make proper arrests," said the chief.

WALB SILENT ON MORGAN TANGLE

Takes Neutral Stand In Fight on Dry Chief.

Republican State Chairman Clyde A. Walb, La Grange, here today to take up organization work of the State committee, washed his hands of the entire Bert Morgan ouster affair.

"I'm not going to touch it," Walb said when asked if he would take any stand for or against Morgan. The old Watson-New feud will make to see the Twelfth District, my own, recognized. Frank A. Rowley, picked to succeed Morgan as Federal prohibition director for Indiana, is from the Twelfth District.

Charles Watson, brother of United States Senator James E. Watson, who has turned "thumbs down" on Morgan, was in conference with Walb this morning.

Around Republican State headquarters there is a feeling that the Morgan affair just preceding the campaign will not do the party any good in Indiana and that opening of "if there's a chance I'm glad just another difficulty to be surmounted."
