Mid-Summer Weddings of Yesteryear and Those of Today Take Stage

LEFT TO RIGHT: MRS. CHARLES ROY MOUNTAIN, MRS. MATTHIAS MERL, MATTHIAS MERL.

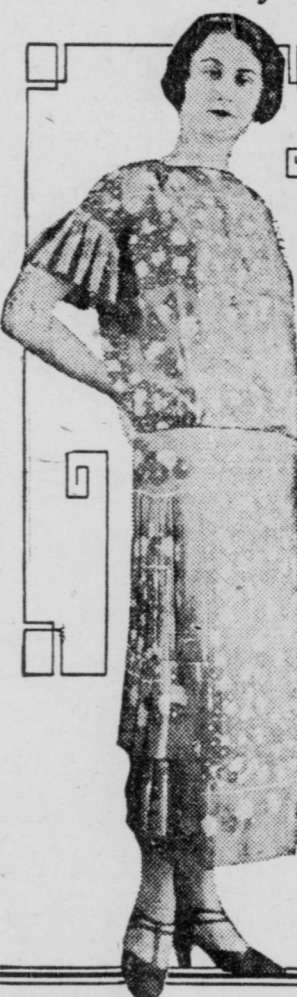

Monday was a gay occasion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Merl, 2403 Talbot Ave., when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and their daughter, Miss Bernadine Merl, was happily launched on the same bright sea. Miss Merl became the bride of Charles Roy Mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Mountain are motoring in Wisconsin and will be at home after Aug. 15 at 4039 Ruckle St.

Six Kerchiefs

This is exceptional. Six handkerchiefs have been used by a clever young Paris dressmaker to make this smart afternoon frock. It is a Paul Caret model.

GOOD MANNERS

When Widow Marries

THE marriage of a widow is the same as a maid's except she does not wear white or orange blossoms, nor does she have bridesmaids. The wedding in best taste for a widow should be in a small church or chapel. The bride generally wears afternoon dress.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Keep Your Head Up!

"Attabo!" shouted the physical director when, upon his meeting with Mr. Mann, he noted that the latter was carrying himself far more erectly than before. "I see you've been doing the exercises I advised. But that isn't all. You want to be careful in walking to make the best use of your reinforced abdominal muscles."

"The usual error is to slump along with rounded shoulders, stomach out and head forward. The shoulders should be set back, the chest held high, the stomach kept in and the head as nearly perpendicular as possible.

"Once the abdominal muscles have been hardened through exercise the holding of this attitude will be found much easier."

"And this should be remembered whether sitting, standing or walking."

Herron Art Institute Notes

Final arrangements have been made to have an exhibition during September a large collection of samples of printing which have been assembled by the American Institute of Graphic Arts from the best print shops in the United States. Some of our local printers are represented in this comprehensive and inclusive group, and it will be of special interest to us to be able to note the comparative excellence of the printers from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. In connection with this exhibition will be shown fifty best books, 1924, from the point of view of printing.

For October, November, and December the printing show will be followed by the Ballard collection of rugs. Over 100 samples will be shown at which time a De Luxe catalog, compiled by Mr. MacLean and his assistant, Miss Dorothy Blair, will be issued. Lovers of rugs, of designs, fine arts, of historic tradition and oriental splendor will take great joy in viewing this collection. These exhibitions will make the early fall months of the Museum program especially interesting.

The Year Book, the catalog of Butler College has just come from the press, and on the front page is a notice of the affiliation of the college and our institution, in connection with the Fine Arts degree which is now available for the graduate from the institution.

The traveling exhibition for 1924, including the work of Indiana artists, is now in the southern part of the State. At present it is shown at Vincennes, and later it is expected to go to Worthington, Washington, Cambridge City, and other places not yet reported.

The beautiful gift of Mrs. H. B. Burnett of nearly a thousand photographs though not yet recorded officially, is being classified by the librarian, Mrs. Mary Weeks, prior to their placement in the files. This is one of the finest additions to the photograph files that has come to the Art Institute for a long time, and will be very much appreciated by not only the students of the school who make a great deal of use of our reference files, but by every student of art, because in the collection are the great masterpieces of Europe. The director of the institute hopes to have thousands of photographs added to the museum files so as to augment the exhibitions themselves, which are shown in the galleries. A small museum can seldom have great things of the world, but it can of course have the next best thing, which is first-class photograph reproductions.

McTangle

FROM THE DRAMATIC PAGE OF "THE MORNING ARGOSY"

Last night at the Iroquois Hotel, before a brilliant assemblage of guests, Mr. Richard Summers and Miss Beatrice Grimshaw were married.

Rarely have there been seen as many flowers at a social function as at this wedding, the whole wall behind the improvised altar being hung with a canopy of La France roses, the bride's favorite flower. This was done at the request of Miss Paula Perier, the brilliant young moving picture star, who has many friends in the city. Miss Perier, on the arm of Mr. John Alden Prescott, made one of the party following the bride. The best man and matron of honor were Mr. Sydney Carton and Mrs. Sally Atherton.

A congratulatory telegram was received from Mrs. Prescott, whose father shows a slight improvement. The bride was very charming in the maid-of-honor costume that she had worn three years before at Mrs. Prescott's wedding. Mrs. Sally Atherton, a recent widow, was gowned in orchid chiffon, and Miss Perier was radiant in cell blue chiffon heavily embroidered in pearl beads.

The corridors of the Iroquois were filled all evening with a curious crowd, hoping to see the famous moving picture star, but no one of it. A party made an appearance down stairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers will accompany Miss Perier back to New York today, where, after a gay week or two with friends, they will start on their trip across the continent to Hollywood, where Mr. Summers has bought a beautiful home in the foothills.

Telegram from Leslie Prescott to Mrs. Richard Summers

You cannot tell, dear, how sorry I was that we could not carry through our arrangements for your wedding. I know it was very beautiful from the wire which was sent me by Sydney Carton. He says you looked very happy, and that Dick had the best cast of countenance of the cat who has eaten the canary. Dad is a little better and some hopes are held out for his recovery. Sorry I will not see you before you leave for the west. Remember, you have all my love and good wishes for your happiness.

Telegram from Leslie Preston to Sydney Carton

Thank you so much for wiring me about Bee's wedding. Otherwise I should have known very little about it. My father is a shade better, but the crisis has not been passed yet. Knowing all that you do you will not expect to see me before you leave for home. Will you wire me if the baby is all right. Did Paula Perier see him when she was there? Have written both to you and to my friend, Sally Atherton. Have not heard from Ruth and did not see her name among the guests, so expect she has gone to New York to meet Walter Burke. That was the reason I could not get hold of her when I left. Will you please send me her New York address if possible? You can get it at the shop. Thanking you Always, LESLIE.

Next, Letter from Leslie Prescott to Ruth Livingston.

Linings
White linings are very smart in black satin coats, with possibly a scarf of bright red.

Color Note

By Times Special
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Let the stockings supply the color note in the costume, is the advice of an importer who has been urging black upon customers who must make a good appearance on a meager income.

Black gowns, black suits, black hats and black shoes, all are recommended by this authority as being very smart and also very kind and thrifty. Colored stockings will keep persons from thinking you are in mourning. They may be nude, beige or gray, and if you are in particularly cheerful mood, blue, green or bluish pink. There is nothing with which these colors can clash and by having a varied supply, variety enough is given the black costume.

A bright belt, an artificial flower, a string of beads, are also accessories to the black outfit, which lighten it up and give it character and distinction.

Honored

MRS. T. J. MAXWELL

Mrs. T. J. Maxwell, president of the Ohio department of the American Legion Auxiliary, will be an honor guest at the hospital luncheon at the convention in Evansville Aug. 25-27 at the McCurdy Hotel.

Martha Lee's Column

Unfaithful Husband

Dear Miss Lee: I was married last April. In less than a month, my husband called on another man's wife. I caught them together. She had him leave me. She is old enough to be his mother, and has been married more than twenty years. They stooped so low as to send a man to me and tell him to say my husband did not care how often he came. What do you think of such a man and woman? My husband is 33.

After all that I am living with my husband. Of course, I am not happy. It would save a lot of worry both ways if firms would not receive mail at their offices for their employees.

I do not know which way to turn. Can you advise me?

The logical, if not pleasant, way for you to turn is toward the relief the courts offer to women in positions like yours.

It is unfortunate that you married such a man, but fortunate that you discovered his worthlessness before there were any children to be affected.

Question of Time

My Dear Miss Lee: Kindly inform me what length of time one should allow to elapse before answering a letter of a boy friend.

"NOT YET SIXTEEN."

I should say a girl "not yet sixteen" might write to a boy playmate about twice a month, if he is a particular friend.
