

POLICE SLATE 26 AS SPEEDERS IN WEEK-END DRIVE

Nine Motorists Charged With Driving While Intoxicated.

Of thirty-eight persons arrested over the week-end in the police campaign for safe driving, twenty-six were charged with speeding, nine with driving while intoxicated, one with failure to stop at a preferential street and two with traffic law infractions.

Three motorists were arrested today. Ed Faust, 36, of 3925 N. Pennsylvania St., and Paul Rich, 19, of 3204 N. Capitol Ave., were slated on speeding charges, and Lewis Owens, 32, of 2215 Southeastern Ave., was slated on a charge of improper driving.

Police Chief Herman Rikhoff gave specific orders to Lieut. Halstead of the motorcycle squad Saturday that accidents and fatalities must be stopped.

Rikhoff frequently has said he felt an intoxicated driver at large was ten times worse than a hold-up man at large.

LAX CITY LICENSE LAW POINTED OUT

Few Requirements for Drivers of Hired Cars.

Lax restrictions on drivers' license for taxi, bus or any other vehicle for hire are shown in present provisions of the municipal code.

Police are taking up this angle in the war to enforce traffic regulations, as one of the chief causes for improper driving.

Drivers may obtain a license to operate a vehicle for hire by paying license fee of $3 a year, investigation shows. The age limit is 16 years, and no requirement is necessary for length of time applicant has driven a car. No bond is necessary.

Motor transportation companies usually require other tests.

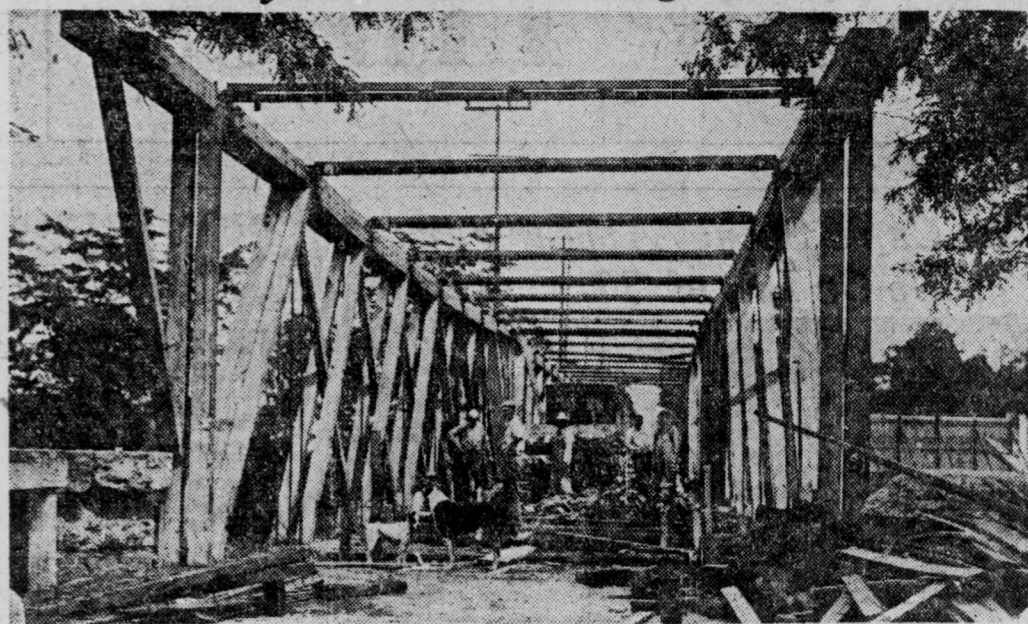

"Out of Frying Pan," Etc.

Talmage Gilmer, 32, colored, 701 Darnell St., is under arrest charged with assault and battery. Police say he escaped after he is alleged to have struck George Cox, colored, 545 Darnell St., with a club, inflicting a severe injury. He was arrested. A short time later when police went to 545 Darnell St., on report of another fight, Otto Richardson, 33, of 531 W. Fourteenth St., and Alex McMillan, 34, of 1346 N. West St., both colored, also were arrested.

WORLD AIRMEN CONSIDERING NEW FLIGHT ROUTES

Fliers Baffled by Ice Floes Off Coast of Greenland.

By United Press
REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 11.—Two new courses, both dangerous, lay before the American world fliers today.

While the cruiser Raleigh sought a possible landing place on the east coast of Greenland and made observations to see if there appeared a chance of a break in the pack ice at Angmagssalik, those in charge of the flight considered two courses.

The first was an attempt to fly to the west coast of Greenland, a longer and more perilous hop than the proposed one to Angmagssalik, rendered doubly dangerous because of fogs.

The alternative called for a landing in the sea off Cape Farewell and refueling there, in the doubtful shelter of a cruiser.

Admiral Magruder was of opinion the long flight to the west coast offered the best chance of progress, with a landing at Fredericksdal or Julianhaab, Greenland.

NEW BASES PICKED

Non-Stop Flight of 780 Miles to Cape Farewell Believed Plan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Danish government has consented to establishment of emergency bases of the world flight near Cape Farewell, extreme southern tip of Greenland, and Lieut. Clayton Bishel, advance officer, has made tentative landings at Julianhaab and Fredericksdal, the air service was informed today.

This was taken to mean the fliers have decided the quickest way of negotiating the Iceland-Labrador hop is by way of Cape Farewell, with a direct non-stop hop of 780 miles. Given good weather, there is no doubt the airmen can make it.

Speeder

Pictured here is Lois Sturt, sister of Baron Allington of England. Despite her titled connections and her social prominence, a London judge fined her $40, took her license away from her for three months and rebuked her severely. She was charged with speeding in her auto late at night.

Londoners are comparing this treatment with that accorded Miss Abby Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Jr., in a New York police court. New York City officials are still investigating the circumstances under which Miss Rockefeller, heiress to millions, escaped punishment of any kind, even though she had been brought into court for the second time.

First of the spook plays will be "The Haunted House," by Owen Davis, author of "The Nervous Wreck." It is a companion to that piece. It will be followed by "The Green Beetle," produced by Kilbourn Gordon, who was responsible for "The Cat and the Canary."

Blind Boy Is First Class Scout

Although blind from birth William Nottingham, 13, of Troop 16, who finished his First Class Scout requirements last week, is a popular lad around the Boy Scout Camp. He always is in a good humor.

William, a student at Indiana State School for the Blind, is the first member of the troop to make such advancement. Scout Chief F. O. Belzer recently presented the troop with a Scout Handbook in raised letters.

While in camp the last two weeks William passed every requirement for First Class scout in a most satisfactory manner. He paced the reservation and from memory made a contour map of camp.

Accompanied by another lad William started on his fourteen-mile observation hike. His companion told him of objects which they passed and on their return he wrote a complete account of the trip on his own typewriter.

Chief Belzer placed pebbles on a board representing the stars and William rearranged them properly from memory in a very short time. He swam fifty yards and is proficient in first aid. He trained a recruit, qualified in cooking and handicraft, and uses the buzzer system in signaling.

Chief Belzer is proud of William's accomplishments. He has been a scout only a year and one-half.

BOB'S NEW TICKET FORMALLY NAMED

It's 'La Follette - Wheeler Progressive Party.'

Robert M. La Follette and Burton K. Wheeler, independent candidates for President and Vice President probably will make their race in Indiana as the "La Follette-Wheeler Progressive Party." It was announced today at La Follette headquarters.

Announcement that La Follette's name would head the ticket of the Independent party was unauthorized, according to James Lecher, secretary of the State committee for La Follette. Zahnd, said he had withdrawn as candidate for President on the Independent ticket to give La Follette his place.

The emblem of the La Follette-Wheeler "party" will be a Liberty Bell. Signatures of 500 voters to a petition will be necessary to get the party a place on the ballots.

Lecher conferred with J. H. McGill, Valparaiso, Ind., who is organizing La Follette-Wheeler clubs in Indiana. Hammond, Cedar Lake, Terre Haute, Sullivan, Peru, Paoli and Elkhart are a few cities in which clubs have been founded, McGill said.

At Republican headquarters the traveler's bureau, the labor bureau and the colored bureau were opened.

By the NEA PLAY JURY
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—There being no new plays to report this week the jurors deployed in skirmish formation to scout along Broadway and its byways to learn what dramatic forces are advancing on us for the fall siege.

Three companies will present "Seventh Heaven" on tour after its prolonged success in New York. Helen Menken will continue with the first company and Ann Forrest will head the cast of the second company.

John Golden is observed studying maps for his campaign. We learn that he will operate in Boston this winter and that he will present the more successful of his plays in London, Canada and far-off Australia. Also he is planning to enter motion picture production.

Glenn Hunter is reading the part of Orson Benton Gude for "O. B. Gude," a new comedy by Winchell Smith, collaborator in most of the Golden successes. Smith and George Abbott have written another new play called "The Feud."

Frank Craven, Broadway's jack-of-all-trades and specialist in them all, announced that he would quit acting to devote all his time to writing and directing. He went to Milwaukee to play the title role in "The Fall Guy" for two weeks so that he would be better qualified to direct the play. Now he has decided to play the role for eight weeks on Broadway. Beatrice Noyes will have the leading feminine role.

Craven will direct "Pigs," a comedy by Anne Morrison and Patterson Mott. Nydia Westman and Wallace Ford, new to Broadway, will head the cast.

"Fool's Hill," Craven's own play, recently opened in Milwaukee, and will move to New York as soon as the humidity recedes.

"The Miracle" will reopen in September and Lady Diana Manners has sent word that she will return to play the role of the Madonna.

Guy Bolton's comedy, "Wages for Wives," with Alma Tell in a principal part, has opened at Atlantic City and is headed for Chicago.

First of the spook plays will be "The Haunted House," by Owen Davis, author of "The Nervous Wreck." It is a companion to that piece. It will be followed by "The Green Beetle," produced by Kilbourn Gordon, who was responsible for "The Cat and the Canary."

Wales to Lunch at White House

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Prince of Wales will lunch with President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House Aug. 30, the day of his arrival from Europe for the international polo games, the Washington Post said in a copyrighted article today.

Wales is not coming to the United States incognito. King George has decided such a course would be lacking in proper respect for this country, the article said. Hence, coming as heir to the British throne, it is obligatory, according to view of the British court, that he pay his respects to the President.

A suggestion to this effect was conveyed to the White House through diplomatic channels with an inquiry as to whether such a call would be feasible and agreeable. The President, of course, promptly answered in the affirmative.

PERK AND BEMIS MEET WITH BELL PHONE EMPLOYEES

Method of Classification Discussed Preparatory to Setting Value.

Benjamin Perk, special utility consultant for the public service commission in valuation of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company property, today conferred with telephone company accountants concerning the company's method of classification of its property. The inventory to be taken by the commission will be through the classification method.

Perk was accompanied by Walter Bemis of the Edward Bemis firm of utility engineers, engaged by the commission for the valuation.

Taylor E. Groninger, special counsel for the commission, said the conference was for the purpose of reaching an agreement as to quantity of the property and its original cost. Further than that, he said, the commission and the company hardly could agree. Items upon which the controversy will turn include percent conditions of the property, going value, deductions for depreciation and structural overhead, Groninger said.

Groninger is briefing utility cases from all over the United States which might have a bearing on the present case.

Groninger is attempting to show that rate bases should be made on actual investment rather than reproduction cost of the utility property.
