

RUN-AROUNDS AND PAVING FINISHED ON STATE ROADS

Westfield Streets on No. 1 to Be Opened in Few Days.

Westfield street paving on either side of State Rd. No. 1, which has long inconvenienced motorists, is complete and should be opened not later than Monday, John D. Williams, State highway director, said today.

Roadside run-arounds have been completed at bridge projects on this highway near the Tipton-Hamilton County line and detours eliminated, permitting traffic to go from Indianapolis to Kokomo on pavement.

Traffic now is using the new pavement all the way between Evansville and Princeton. A detour on No. 36 around bridge repair work south of Milroy, in force for a week, is removed, Williams said.

Road conditions:
No. 1 (New Albany, Indiana, South Bend, Michigan Line)—If Westfield street paving is not open detour at main street in Westfield, returning to No. 1 one-half mile north. Continue on pavement to Kokomo, hearing in mind three roadside run-arounds at bridge projects near the Tipton-Hamilton County line. Take marked detour at Kokomo via Bunker Hill to avoid construction between Kokomo and Ellettsville. Detour around construction at Ellettsville to avoid construction at upper Muscatatuck River. Detour around construction south of Scottsburg.

No. 6 (Madison, Greenburg, Indianapolis, Oxford)—Closed for paving from south edge of Lebanon to 3.3 miles north of Rye. Lebanon-Indianapolis traffic use 33 and 1, or 33 and 15. Closed for paving between New Bethel and Shelbyville; detour via Acton.

No. 12 (Vincennes, Spencer, Martinsville, Indianapolis)—Traffic drive slowly over run-around at Fish Creek bridge construction four miles south of Freedom.

No. 15 (Indianapolis, Logansport, Michigan Line)—While Marion County is paving to county line, leave Indianapolis via N. Meridian St., cross canal on Illinois St. and proceed on Springfield 34 to detour at edge of Hamilton County line. Detour four miles west to 15. Detour to east at one and one-half miles north of Marion County line account bridge construction. Closed for three miles south of Knox.

No. 22 (English, Paoli, Mitchell, Bedford, Martinsville, Indianapolis)—Use No. 12 between Indianapolis and Martinsville, as No. 22 is closed for paving. Construction north of Bloomington with detour marked. Construction south of Paoli. Avoid until completed. Bridge construction just south of Harrodsburg.

No. 37 (Indianapolis, Anderson, Muncie)—Detour at bridge construction between Yorktown and Daleville is fair.

POLICE HUNT SOLDIER

Officers Say Lawrence Brandyberry Left Fort Without Leave.

Police were asked by army authorities to watch for Lawrence S. Brandyberry, 21, who, it is said, left Ft. Harrison July 24, without leave. He has blue eyes, brown hair, and ruddy complexion, is tall and has a tattoo mark on his body.

He formerly lived at Decatur, Ind. Mrs. Marion Whitcomb, Warren, Ind., has asked Indianapolis police to aid her in search for her son Chester, 15, who left home recently to join a fair.

Mrs. J. W. Basham, Ironton, Ohio, has asked police to watch for her husband, a short, heavy-set man, who left home two weeks ago. She writes she fears he is mentally ill. He wore an Odd Fellows ring on his left hand.

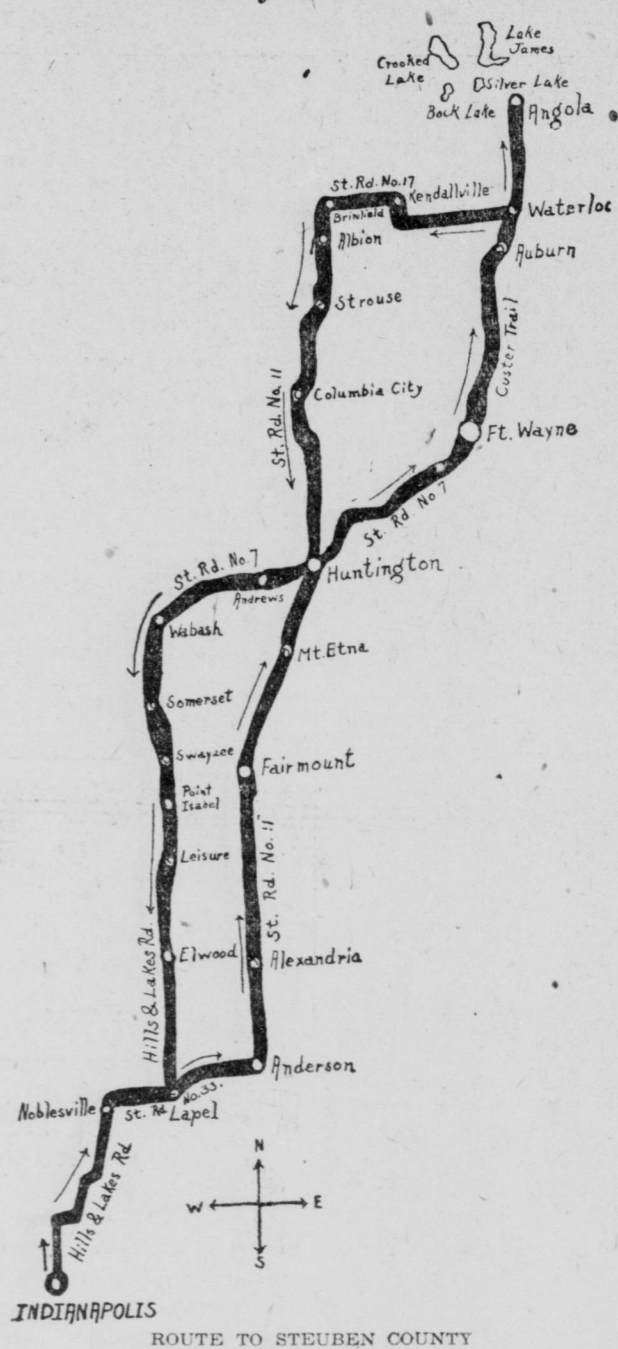

Luck? Nothing Else But

By Times Special
WASHINGTON, Ind., Aug. 15.—Luck? This is nothing else but.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. White of Covington, Ind., recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Zed Morton here. When they returned home, Mrs. White stopped off in Indianapolis to do some shopping. At a dry goods store she inspected some remnants and unconsciously dropped her purse into the goods, rolled the goods up and walked out of the store.

Next: Harry Hanson, an employee of Morton, a few days later went to Indianapolis and visited

Steuben County Lakes Tempt Motorists for Week-End Trip

Marge and William Travelmore had not spoken to each other for half an hour. In fact, they hadn't looked at each other.

"Quarreling? Certainly not. They were perusing literature telling where they might spend a delightful week-end."

"I have it," exclaimed Marge. "We will go way up north to the lakes in Steuben County!"

"Sounds good," commented her husband. "I enjoyed myself when we went to Culver."

All Those Lakes
"Listen, Will," cried Marge. "It says there are more than ninety lakes in Steuben County. Just think, ninety lakes in which to swim and fish."

"Well,"
"They call it the Switzerland of Indiana because of its unusual beauty and fresh air. Just listen."

Will—"Come to Steuben County and get a new lining for your soot-filled lungs; get a new sparkle for your tired nerves; get a coat of tan on your arms and color to your cheeks."

"You're a wonder, Marge, we'll go."

The Hoosier Motor Club advised them to take this route, 167 miles from Indianapolis:

Drive north on Meridian St. onto the Hills and Lakes Rd., also known as the Allisonville Rd., to Noblesville.

Two Routes
Here drive east on State Rd. No. 33, passing through Lapel to Anderson, then north on State Rd. No. 7.

Continue on No. 7 to Ft. Wayne onto Custer Trail. Drive due north to Angola, center of the lake region.

In order to get a change of scenery returning, come south on the Custer Trail to Waterloo, west on State Rd. No. 17 to Brimfield, then due south over State Rd. No. 11 onto State Rd. No. 7 to Vabash, and south over the Hills and Trails Rd. to Indianapolis.

Greater part of the trip is over good gravel roads. Road is paved from Indianapolis to Noblesville, and several places en route.

FAIR PLANS DESCRIBED.
Plans for the Indiana State Fair were discussed before the Exchange Club in weekly luncheon today by William M. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the State board of agriculture, and Fred Moore, publicity director for the fair.

Plans to send delegates to the national Exchange convention at Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 23-25, were discussed.

LA FOLLETTE CAMPAIGN FOR HIS PRIMARY PLAN

By ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE

"MY OWN STORY" is an exclusive newspaper version of one of the great autobiographies of modern times. La Follette's own story of adventures in politics as written by himself in 1912, together with an authorized narrative of his experiences in the years since then.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

La Follette is defeated for a fourth term in Congress in 1900 when Wisconsin goes heavily Democratic. The Democratic administration promptly sits all State treasurers of the last twenty years. When Senator Sawyer, a Republican, loses to the La Follette to talk to Judge Sweeney of the bench in the interests of the treasury. La Follette exposes him. Immediately the La Follette is denounced on every hand for injuring the party machine. In the campaign of 1906, La Follette becomes anti-machine candidate for governor, and is defeated when the bosses "buy off" his delegates at the State convention. La Follette prepares a bill incorporating a plan for direct nominations and gives it wide publicity.

I had been defeated in the State convention through fraud and corruption, but I went into the campaign with zest, and spoke in every important city and town in the State, closing the campaign in Milwaukee before an immense audience.

The bosses would have been pleased had I bolted the convention of 1906. The desperate means to which they were driven to control that convention convinced Sawyer and his associates of the growing strength of the opposition to the machine, and gave them serious apprehension.

It was said when it was over, Sawyer, drawing a long breath, mopped his perspiring face and said:

"I never want to go through so hard a fight again."

Years afterward, Stephenson, who was then with the machine, told me he (Stephenson) had said to them:

Sympathy for Bob

"I can't help feeling a good deal of sympathy for Bob La Follette. We've got the newspapers, the organization, the railroads, and all the money, and he is fighting us all alone. If he'd had money enough to buy a few more postage stamps, he'd beat us sure."

I think Sawyer, Spooner, Pfister and Payne would have been glad to see me leave the party. Many of my close advisers, too, believed we should break from the Republican organization and try to build up a new reform party in the State.

New parties are brought forth from time to time, and groups of men have come forward as their heralds, and have been called to leadership and command. But the leaders did not create the party. It was the ripe issue of events. It came out of the womb of time, and no man could hinder or hasten the event. No one can foretell the coming of the hour. It may be near at hand. It may be otherwise. But if it should come quickly, we may be sure strong leadership will be there; and some will say that the leaders made the party.

But all great movements in society and government, the world over, are the result of growth. Progress may seem to halt, we may even seem to lose ground, but it is my deep conviction that it is our duty to do, day by day, with all our might, as best we can for the good of our country the task which lies nearest at hand.

The party does not consist of a few leaders or of a controlling political machine. It consists of the hundreds of thousands of citizens drawn together by a common belief in certain principles.

And it seemed to me then that it ought to be in the power of that great body, the overwhelming majority of the party, to smash the machine, to defeat corrupt leaders and to drive the officials of every rank who betray the majority out of public life.

McKinley Wins
McKinley carried the State by 103,000; Spoiler by nearly 95,000.

In the summer of 1907 I concluded to try the experiment of campaigning for reform in an off year. It had occurred to me that one might obtain a better hearing from people of all parties when they were not in the heat and fever of a political campaign.

On the fourth of July, 1907, I delivered an address at Mineral Point and took as my theme the "Dangers Threatening Representative Government."

I delivered substantially the same address at Fern Dell, at the Waukesha Fair, and at the State Fair in Milwaukee.

The opposition criticized the fair committee severely for setting apart a day for the appearance of a "demagogue and disturber" upon their grounds, but so long as the supporters and patrons of the association over the county were satisfied, the protests availed nothing. I was made, however, to feel their resentment on various occasions.

On the fairground at Oshkosh, which was the home of Senator Sawyer, a determined effort was made to stop my address. I was speaking from a farm wagon which had been drawn on to the race track between the pavilion and the judge's stand.

I had scarcely gotten under way with my address when the bell in the judge's stand gave the usual signal for starting the horse races. Dozens of uniformed boys dickered through the audience, shouting "Score cards for sale; score cards for sale."

This was followed by the appearance of half a dozen or more horses coming on to the track a quarter of a mile away, and headed directly down upon the audience, forcing those standing upon the track to stampede to places of safety. I saw that I must act quickly or lose the day, and I directed that the wagon in which I was standing, be drawn across the track.

Then turning to the judge's stand I announced that I was there on the invitation of the association to deliver an address, and that I should not budge from my place until I had finished and, if again interrupted, my address would occupy the balance of the afternoon to the exclusion of any other performance on that race track. I think that not fewer than 5,000 people stood up and cheered their approval, and I was not again interrupted.

Paper Bought

In the fall of 1897 a few friends of our campaign bought a country weekly published at Madison, called Old Dane. It was necessary to select an editor and the choice was an easy one.

From the very beginning we had not only the support of practically all university men throughout the State, but of substantially all of the students old enough to be interested.

The spirit of democracy pervaded university life, and a strong body of these fine, clean, able fellows have been conspicuous in all the progressive fights of Wisconsin from that day to this. One of the ablest and most active of these students was a boyish-looking, tow-headed Norwegian—later Congressman John M. Nelson. He came from a farm in the town of Burke, a few miles out of Madison.

He had taken rank as a student and a debater in the university and was one of the many students who early volunteered his services in the Haugen campaign, and likewise in the campaign of 1906. He accepted the position of editor of Old Dane, the name of which we changed to The State.

We now had a medium through which to maintain from week to week a campaign of education and the time seemed at hand to propose a constructive program. A new heading for the paper was designed, which set forth the following platform:

Protection for the products of the factory and the farm.
Sound money, a dollar's worth dollar.

Reciprocity in trade.
Adequate revenues for State and Nation.

Equal and just taxation of all the property of each individual and every corporation transacting business within the State.

Abolish caucuses and conventions.
Nominating candidates by Australian ballot at a primary election.

Enact and enforce laws to punish bribery in every form by the lobby in the Legislature and wherever it assails the integrity of the public service.

Prohibit acceptance by public officials of railroad passes, sleeping car passes, express, telegraph and telephone fares.

Enact and enforce laws making character and competency the requisite for service in our penal and charitable institutions.

Enact and enforce laws that will prohibit corrupt practices in campaign expenditures to a business basis.

An economical administration

VITAL FACTS FOR WOMEN
Sooner or later almost every woman is brought face to face with the fact that she is a victim of some weakness or ailment peculiar to her sex. It may be the young woman suffering from pain or irregularities, a mother who has brought on some weakness or displacement from overwork, or the middle-aged woman passing through the most critical period of her life. For each of these trying periods Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved the greatest boon ever given to women, and there are women living in every town and city in the country who testify to its value.—Advertisement.

of public affairs, reducing expenditures to a business basis.
From the beginning the circulation of the paper rapidly extended and soon we had readers in every part of the State. It began to exert a strong influence upon public sentiment.

STATE CONSIDERS LOCAL ACTION ON TRUCK ARRESTS

Assistant Attorney General Is Studying Ohio Situation.

Edward M. White, assistant attorney general, acting in the absence of Attorney General Lesh, was expected to report what legal action the State may take in combating the recent arrests by Ohio authorities of all Indiana truck drivers who attempted to cross the Ohio line. The drivers are being arrested on charges of violating the licensing provision of the Ohio public utilities act.

Truck company officials protested to Governor Emmett F. Branch who demanded an explanation from the Governor of Ohio, Frederick E. Schortemeier, Branch's secretary, Thursday wired seven specific instances of arrest of Indiana truck drivers to the Ohio Governor.

W. B. Hiner of the Red Ball Transit Company is expected to return from Ohio late today after a conference with Governor Vic Donahey. It is understood the Red Ball trucks, whose licenses were revoked by the Ohio commission, may operate until Monday without interference, since it is said the law does not become effective until then.

The P. & A. Dispatch, another trucking company, was forced to bail eighteen drivers out of jail early this week.

Governor Al Smith of New York has asked Governor Branch to cooperate in breaking up the practice. He said the Governor of Pennsylvania ordered every Ohio truck driver who attempted to enter that State arrested. Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky also are making similar arrests under their motor vehicle licensing law, it is reported.
