Corner Stone Rites and Parade to Feature Program Sept. 12.

A general invitation to all military, fraternal, welfare, church and social organizations of Indianapolis and Marion County to participate in local Defense Test day observance, Sept. 12, was extended today by Fred A. Sims, district chairman.

A parade in which these organizations are asked to march will precede the corner stone laying of the first unit in the Indiana World War Memorial plaza.

Invitation reads: "The committee in charge of National Defense Test day in Marion County and Indianapolis, Sept. 12, has decided the occasion can best be observed by a parade, followed by laying the corner stone of the first unit of the Indiana World War Memorial plaza.

"The parade will afford all military, naval, veterans', patriotic, farm, fraternal, welfare, church, social, labor, business, schools, charitable and all other interested organizations opportunity to make a suitable public demonstration of their interest in the State's memorial to its World War heroes, and in the national defense act of 1920, which was written in the experience of those heroes. To this end the committee urges that all such organizations appoint three representatives, each to cooperate with it in the parade and corner stone laying. The names and addresses of the three representatives, who will comprise the organizations' committee of Defense day observance, should be sent as soon as possible to Fred A. Sims, chairman of the Seventh District Defense day committee, 1603 Merchants Bank Bldg., or telephone Circle 6549.

"The committee representatives will be expected to occupy reserved seats in the stands to be erected for reviewing the parade and observing the ceremony of laying the corner stone. To that end names must be sent in so that tickets can be supplied. The counsel and help of all Marion County and Indianapolis organizations is needed to make the day one of real patriotic service."

It was signed by Fred A. Sims, district chairman; A. M. Glosbrenner, city chairman; William J. Mooney, Evans Woolen, Samuel E. Rau, Frank D. Stalaker, Hilton U. Brown, Robert J. Aley, Fred C. Ganss, Fred Hoke, Elmer W. Stout, members of the executive committee.

Alfred M. Glosbrenner has been named city chairman of the Seventh district executive committee. Evans Woolen is treasurer. Adjt. Gen. Harry B. Smith will be grand marshal of the parade. Location of reviewing stand and plans for financing the celebration will be discussed at a meeting Thursday at the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

Four automatic stop and go signals to be placed on the corners at Meridian and Ohio St. were considered by the board of safety today as the first step in equipping downtown corners with automatic traffic control.

The signals will be erected on the sidewalk at all four corners, but will operate together automatically.

Kiddies Grow Strong at White River Jewish Camp

JEWS AT CAMP IDA WINEMAN

THE upbuilding influence of outdoor life and good food, with intelligently supervised recreation, as found at Camp Ida Wineman, just north of Broad Ripple, is an illustration of one of the methods followed in the expenditure of money raised in the one annual fair campaign of the Indianapolis Community Fund. Camp Ida Wineman is maintained jointly by the Community Fund and the Jewish Federation, one of the thirty-nine social agencies that are included in the fund.

Beginning with the entrance of summer weather each year, Camp Wineman opens to receive the under-nourished children and the tired mothers of poor Jewish families. Every hour of every day is carefully regulated. There is a certain time to rise each morning, breakfast is served on schedule, play of the kind that helps make weak little bodies strong is conducted under the watchful guidance of trained supervisors; milk and crackers are served twice daily and there is a regular rest period when absolute quiet must prevail all over the camp. There is swimming at definite hours and submission to scrubbing beneath hot showers.

Dr. Harry A. Jacobs is chairman of the camp committee of the Jewish Federation. The recreational activities of Camp Ida Wineman are supervised by Miss Lucile Goldstone and Alan Pieve.

Camp Ida Wineman was founded by the late Joseph Wineman in memory of his wife. Mr. Wineman not only donated the grounds, but paid for the erection of the needed buildings and equipment. This summer the camp has accommodated an average of fifty children and mothers each week during the eight-week camp season.

PUBLIC UTILITIES TO SPEND HUGE SUM IN STATE

Estimate Total Improvements Will Cost $100,000,000.

State public utilities, according to the Indiana Public Utility Association, are in the midst of an improvement campaign which will result in the expenditure of $100,000,000 in 1924. In a period when industry generally has been standing still, says Marshall V. Robb, secretary, utilities are going steadily forward.

Estimate of $100,000,000 is based on an informal canvass. Canvass revealed that the electrical industry is expending some fifty millions in providing facilities. This amount includes work being done by the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, in South Bend and the St. Joseph Valley; the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company, and the Calumet Electric Company, in the Calumet region, and the Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Company, in Evansville and vicinity.

Covers Many Projects

It covers projects put under way by the Interstate Public Service Company, near Monticello, Ind.; the Indiana Electric Corporation's new power station near Terre Haute, Ind., and the Indianapolis Light and Heat Company, in the intensely covered Indianapolis industrial district.

"The work of the electric companies is indicative of the progress being made by all utilities," said Robb. "Not only are the companies expanding their facilities, but they are interconnecting so that all parts of the State will always have electric service ready for use. Recent examples of interconnection are those between the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company and the Indiana Electric Corporation, and the latter company and the Indiana Power Company of Vincennes.

Curtis H. Rottger, president of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company, said the Bell company is engaged in spending $4,500,000 on extensions and improvements this year. About two-thirds of this amount is being expended in the State, with one-third going into Indianapolis facilities. The Home Telephone and Telegraph Company, Ft. Wayne, Ind., is making extensive improvements. Indianapolis Water Company is leading other water companies with an annual expenditure of approximately $800,000. Terre Haute Water Company has a new construction program calling for an expenditure of about $400,000.

Gigantic Gas Plant

Among gas companies, the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Company is very active, planning a gigantic plant at Ft. Wayne. New plant is in operation at Kokomo, Ind., and the Interstate Public Service Company is busy on a new plant at Newcastle, Ind. Citizens Gas Company, Indianapolis, and the Citizens Gas and Fuel Company, Terre Haute, Ind., are spending thousands of dollars.

The Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction Company, has just finished spending $750,000 in re-equipping its line both electrically and with rolling stock. This company is preparing plans for its extension from Rushville to Cincinnati. The Union Traction Company, the Indianapolis Street Railway, and other tractions, are investing heavily in new rolling stock and line equipment.

COOLIDGE GREETED FARMERS' PARTY FROM MICHIGAN

Dawes Leaves After Conference—Klan Question Was Avoided.

By United Press PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 26.—President Coolidge will spend most of today shaking hands with a thousand Michigan farmers, members of the National Grange making an automobile tour of New England to inspect farm conditions.

The party arrived at Rutland, twenty-six miles from here last night and will drive past Colonel Coolidge's home to greet the President.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, the President's runningmate in the coming elections, left for Chicago Monday night after a brief visit with Mr. Coolidge.

Klan Not Mentioned

No reference to the Ku-Klux Klan, according to Dawes, was made during the two-hour conference.

The Republican nominee discussed farm legislation for submission to Congress in December and the personnel of the proposed presidential commission to draft a definite program for agricultural relief.

It had been assumed that the President wished to talk over the Klan problem with Dawes, which now has become a leading subject of discussion in the campaign but his ignoring the topic has left party leaders still at sea as to how he will handle it.

Under the law the President may increase or decrease duty on sugar 50 per cent. It is reported that the commission's majority report recommended a 25 per cent decrease and a minority has filed a report protesting at any change.

Due to the absence of any important engagements on Friday, the President has decided to prolong his vacation as long as possible and will not leave here until Thursday night, arriving in Washington the following day.

Transparent gowns also are to be worn by the real style crusaders. These will be designed to vex husbands with long rows of buttons in the back. If American women look to Hollywood for their dress suggestions they will discover such modes as these:

Underwear will be flesh colored. Stockings will be silver gray. Waist lines will be normal. Hats will be larger. Shoes will be black or in plain colors. Pale faces will be the mode, with no rouge except on the lips. Bobbed hair fashions will remain.

FEAR OF SALMON EXTINCTION HITS CALIFORNIA HARD

State Fights to Stop Hydro-Electric Dam Building.

Times Washington Bureau, 1222 New York Ave. SACRAMENTO, Aug. 26.—The State of California is officially at issue with the United States Government and a great hydro-electric power company to prevent the destruction of the last of the salmon and rainbow trout spawning fields, the Klamath River.

The principals in the pending fight are the California Fish and Game Commission, backed by the sportsmen and fishing industry, on the one side, and the Electric-Metals Company backed by the Federal Power Commission, which has granted the corporation permits to build three large dams for developing power, on the other.

The fish and game commission is officially back of an initiative law to close the Klamath to hydro-electric development and has secured more than 100,000 names, more than enough to insure the matter being taken to the voters this November.

Fight Stakes Are Immense

The stakes in the fight are immense. The value of the power being given gratis to the corporation by the Government is estimated at $105,000,000.

But, according to F. M. Newbert, chairman of the fish and game commission, the loss to the State and Nation in fish values will be incalculable if the dams are built, for the dams will completely destroy the river as a spawning ground.

"The Klamath River is the greatest salmon and rainbow trout river in California," said Newbert. "This river is an ideal hatchery and one of the most wonderful natural fish refuges in the Nation. We need more, not less, fish life, and if this great river is given away to private interests for hydro-electric development a great blow will be struck our fishing industries."

World Attention on California

"The fishing industry employs 14,000 people and produces an annual pack of about $25,000,000. It should not be disregarded in favor of any corporation or set of men."

"The time is here when the natural resources of our State should be conserved, for the attention of the world is upon California, both in a business and a pleasure way."

The commission has voted unanimously to back the Klamath River Conservation League in passing the law blocking the hydro-electric deal.

HEARING ON KLAN CHIEF CONTINUED

R. W. Lyons Said to Be Wanted in Wisconsin.

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus for Robert W. Lyons, Washington, D. C., was continued until Wednesday morning by Circuit Judge H. O. Chamberlin today.

Lyons, chief of staff of the national extension division of Ku-Klux Klan, is wanted in Watertown, Wis., on charges arising from an alleged fraudulent stock-selling scheme to promote the Jefferson City Rubber Company, of which he was president, Wisconsin authorities say. Sheriff T. D. Smith of Jefferson County, Wisconsin, who is in Indianapolis with requisition papers for Lyons' arrest as a fugitive from justice in Wisconsin, said the total amount obtained by Lyons was $105,000.

The hearing was continued when Judge Chamberlin was told by Lyons' attorneys, Lyons went to Wisconsin Monday and surrendered himself to authorities there, being released on $3,000 bond. He is at liberty here on $2,500 bond. Prosecutor William H. Remy asked time to wire to the Wisconsin officials and verify the statement of Lyons' attorneys. The petitioner was arrested last week on a warrant issued by Governor Branch, who honored requisition papers from the Governor of Wisconsin.
