

LABOR REPORTS STEADY GAINS IN LEGISLATION

Safety and Health Laws
Among Those Cited by Association.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. — Labor made substantial gains in the 1924 output of protective legislation in several States, but received scant consideration at the hands of Congress, according to a statement issued today by the American Association for Labor Legislation.

Progress is noted in the broadening and liberalizing of workmen's accident insurance laws, no less than seven of the eleven States that held legislative sessions this year having improved their acts.

Adoption by Utah of a new and model legal safety code for coal mines, including use of rock dust to prevent disasters due to coal dust explosions, is cited as a notable advance.

Important Extensions
"Important extensions of the scope and benefits of accident compensation laws," says Thomas L. Chadbourne, president, "were secured in New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland, Kentucky, and Virginia. The outstanding gain of the year in compensation legislation is the reduction of the non-compensated 'waited period' in the New York law from fourteen to seven days, which brings 25,000 additional injured workers yearly within the protection of the law and adds a million and a half dollars yearly to the benefits payable to industrial cripples."

"Two States will vote in November upon workmen's compensation laws proposed by initiative petition. In Oregon the proposed law calls for compulsory workmen's accident insurance under the State fund. In Missouri, the only State of industrial importance not having compensation legislation, the initiated workmen's compensation law provides for insurance in an exclusive State fund."

Thousands Without Protection
"Failure of Congress to pass the Fitzgerald-Jones bill to provide workmen's accident insurance for private employments in the District of Columbia leaves 130,000 wage-earners still without accident protection—a national disgrace. Congress alone can act for the district. The well-considered Fitzgerald bill has been before Congress for three years. Twice it has been given strongly favorable committee reports after extended hearings. It is unanimously supported by labor as well as by social service organizations and by progressive employers.

"Congress passed an amendment to the Federal compensation law for civilian employees of the Government making clear that the original act meant to include disabilities due to occupational diseases, thus putting an end to the arbitrary refusal of the Controller General to pay awards duly made for occupational diseases by the administrative commission."

POWER COMPANY SALE MARKS NEW EPOCH IN STATE

J. H. Brewer Transfers Interests to Insull Companies.

Sale of the Joseph H. Brewer interests to the Insull Companies, and announcement that Samuel Insull, Chicago, has been named chairman of the board of directors of the American Public Utilities Company, marks retirement of Brewer from the Indiana field after thirteen years in utility operation.

The sale carried with it control of the Central Indiana Power Company, operating in approximately 140 Indiana cities; the Northern Indiana Electric Co., the Wabash Valley Electric Co., Merchants Heat and Light Company and the Indiana Electric Corporation, having a combined invested capital of $50,000,000.

Consolidation and purchase has for its object decrease in electric cost, it is said. Transmission of power over vast territories is projected.

The purchase will not interfere with operation of the Interstate Public Service Company, one of the largest Insull interests in the State.

By the transfer the following principal cities will be served by the Insull Company: Logansport, Kokomo, Marion, Frankfort, Clinton, Spencer, Sullivan, Attica, Lebanon, Greencastle, Indianapolis, Martinsville, Wabash, Crawfordsville, Noblesville, Knightstown, Cynthiana, Huntington, Rochester and Plymouth and numerous smaller towns. They will be served from the new super-power plant at Dresser, Ind.
