

BUDGET AND LEVY UP TONIGHT AT SECRET CAUCUS

No Citizens Appear at Regular Council Meeting to Comment on Rates.

City councilmen will consider the 1925 budget and tax levy in a secret caucus tonight at the city hall. It was announced today. No citizen appeared to comment on the rate cut to $1.055 by the mayor on each $100 of taxable property at the council public hearing Monday night. That the reduced taxes meet public approval was evident, for the council chamber is usually crowded with citizens protesting when hearings are held. The 1925 levy is 3.25 cents below that of this year.

Following the meeting tonight in which the policy of the council will be formulated, Walter W. Wise, president, announced a special meeting next Monday night for passage of the budget and tax levy. The levy must be in the hands of County Auditor Harry Dunn, by Sept. 15, and the city controller is given five days to certify it.

Only Five Present

Only a bare quorum of councilmen was present Monday night, and several ordinances fell by the wayside when one negative vote was cast. Councilmen present were President Wise, John E. King, Otto Ray, Theodore J. Bernd and Ira L. Bramblett.

Councilman Bramblett, chairman of the finance committee, said the committee's report on the request for an increased levy for the sanitary board was not ready, but indicated part of the 2.5-cent cut made by the mayor would be restored. The board asked for a 12-cent levy for maintenance and sinking funds, but was cut to 9.5 cents.

Opposition of President Wise and Councilman King on the flat-to-curb parking ordinance on Washington St. killed the measure when it was called out for passage Monday night. After the vote, Councilman King announced he would reintroduce the ordinance at the next meeting.

Zoning Ordinance Passed

An amendment to the zoning ordinance changing the district at Thirtieth St. and Maryland Ave. from residential to business, was passed, but another amendment proposing to change the district at Livingston Ave. and Sixteenth St. to industrial, was killed.

A measure to change the names of Marlowe Ave. and New York St., in the vicinity of Highland Park, was struck from the files on motion of Councilman Bernd.

Many transfer and appropriation ordinances were introduced to tide departments over in funds that are now depleted.

A summary of these ordinances: Transferring $5,000 from the lighting fund to the fund for repair of buildings.

Appropriating $1,325 to pay telephone bills of city caused by increased rates.

Transferring $5,000 from the improved street maintenance and supply fund to the asphalt repair salary fund.

Increasing salary of bookkeeper in the building department from $1,500 to $1,800 a year.

Transferring $3,000 from the salary and wage fund of the asphalt department to the supply fund.

Transferring $10,000 from the lighting fund to the street and alley improvement fund.

Appropriating $9,000 for legal printing and advertising.

Transferring $950 from the asphalt repair department to the maintenance fund of the asphalt plant.

More Gas for Cops

Transferring $2,000 from the electrical department to the police department gasoline fund.

Appropriating $5,000 from maintenance fund of the traffic department for purchase of automatic "stop" and "go" signals.

Appropriating $891.66 to pay workmen's compensation to Oscar Sims, who was injured in city employ.

Transferring $3,000 from the brick and block department maintenance to the asphalt repair department.

Transferring $700 from the sidewalk and curb repair department to the maintenance fund of the asphalt plant.

Transferring $1,294.67 from the brick and block repair department maintenance to salary fund of same department.

Transferring $186.81 from the brick and block repair department to the sidewalk and curb repair department.

Work All for Naught

Miss Louise Heck, 27, of 521 E. Miami St., is in jail today on charges of drunkenness and malicious destruction of property. H. M. Dowell, 53 N. Warman Ave., employe of the Citizens Gas Company, who was replacing a globe at a light near her home said Miss Heck would break the globes as soon as he would place them.

County May Be Sued

Suit to collect $300 from the county will be instituted by the Meier Electric Company, 136 S. Meridian St., Frank L. Meier told the county council today. The council refused to appropriate the sum to pay for an engine and generator which commissioners bought for the county poor farm March 5 in an emergency.

VETERINARY NEED CITED TO BROADCAST WORLD'S SERIES

County Council Told Why Appropriation Is Needed.

A request for $3,500 to pay the salary of a county veterinary to test the 10,000 cows of Marion County for tuberculosis was explained to the county council, in annual session today, by Dr. J. E. Gibson, of the Federal bureau of animal husbandry, and county agriculture agent Royal H. L. McLain.

Dr. Gibson urged the "county area" system adopted in this county. There are 300 tubercular cows in the county which will have to be destroyed, he said. One-third of the cases of consumption in Indianapolis are caused by milk from infected cows the council was told.

The city common council recently passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of milk after Jan. 1, 1925, from untested herds. Under the county area plan the farmer is paid by the Government for his cows killed.

YEGGS TAKE TIME IN OPENING SAFE

Bore Hole in Top When Lock Resists Drilling.

Yeggs who visited the offices of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, 403 Holiday Bldg., Alabama and Ohio Sts., took their time in opening the safe, police said today.

First they drilled three holes around the combination, but failed to open the door. Then they drilled a square hole through the top, large enough for a hand to reach through.

Hale Biddle, cashier, told police he was unable to estimate the loss as so far he had not been able to open the safe, due to the fact that the combination had been damaged.

Loeb Acted Like High School Freshman, Says Girl

'Who Had Date With Him After Franks Murder'

'Dick' Liked Petting, but Did Not Seem Insane, Declares 'Patches.'

By GEORGE BRITT. NEA Service Writer. CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Germaine Reinhard has "Dick" Loeb for a caller in her home two days after he killed "Bobby" Franks. She had another date with him for Saturday of the following week, from which he was unavoidably detained by his arrest.

The foregoing isn't news, because defense attorneys made it public when they summoned the 18-year-old to testify at the boy's trial. But she never was placed on the witness stand. And until now her intimate story of "Dick" and "Babe" Leopold has remained untold.

Miss Reinhard is the "Patches" of trial stories. The nickname is flippant, she insists, and her friends know her as "Bud."

She is a round-faced, brown-eyed, worldly, winsome child, this playmate of two young millionaires. Her home in her parents' apartment is comfortable, well-furnished, unpretentious.

"I met Dick last winter in a loop department store, playing mah jong," says "Bud."

"I knew the girl who was teaching the game and went to see her. Dick was there and she introduced us."

"We talked about the University of Illinois, where I went for a few months, and about Michigan. Kidding each other, you know. I liked him and was glad to give him my phone number."

Friends "Cut In"

"Dick called me in a few days and came out to see me. He came back and I began going out with him to lots of places. We would see each other two or three times a week."

He introduced me to "Babe" Leopold and we went out sometimes with "Babe" and Susan Lurie. I never had a date with "Babe" alone. And Dickie and I were never engaged—just friends.

"When we went to places on the South Side 'Dick' didn't like it, because fellows he knew there would come over to our table and want to dance with me. And on the North Side fellows I knew would try to butt in. So we finally agreed that when we went together he should have every dance."

If there was anything insane or abnormal or indicating deficient emotion about her two friends, "Bud" doesn't recall it.

"My family thought it was a joke when they heard the boys had been arrested and teased me

TEACHERS BEGIN PREPARATION TO START SCHOOLS

More Than 1,500 Attend First Session at Caleb Mills Hall.

More than 1,500 Indianapolis public school teachers attended the first of a series of pre-school opening meetings which began today at Caleb Mills Hall. E. W. Graff, superintendent, presided.

Meeting opened with singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," followed by selections by the Severin trio. Dr. Edward H. Kistler, pastor of the Fairview Presbyterian Church, offered invocation. Ernest Messer, accompanied by Mrs. Lenore Coffin, sang a solo.

Welcome address was delivered by Graff, who gave a brief review of a book by Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president of Washington University, entitled "Our Faith in Education."

Teachers were to meet this afternoon at their respective schools to meet their principals and new teachers. Preliminary arrangements will be made for opening of school Sept. 8.

Dr. O. W. Fifer, pastor of Central Avenue M. E. Church, will speak at the general meeting at 11 a. m. on Wednesday Dr. Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue University, will talk Thursday morning.

Oswald Ryan, former member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, will speak Friday morning.

ROBBERS ENTER THREE STATIONS

Oil Stores Visited During Night, Police Report.

Police today were investigating three filling station robberies.

S. C. Bevington, 1322 N. Illinois, attendant at the National Refining Company Filling Station at Delaware and North Sts., said burglars broke a glass in the door of the men's wash room and secured $175 hidden secretly in a towel case there.

Paul Robbins, 1715 Montcalm St., attendant at the Standard oil station, Tibbs Ave. and Michigan St., reported a similar entrance. Thieves manipulated the combination and opened the safe. He was unable to estimate the loss.

Thieves also entered the Robertson filling station at Prospect St. and Churchmann Ave., but nothing was taken.

Occult

Bary-Crouza, known in France as the "occult dancer," soon will come to America. She gets her name through her claim that she "enters a trance" before each performance. A live snake is used in the unusual dance.

ORR STANDS ON HIGHWAY REPORT

J. D. Williams Makes Demand for Retraction.

Aroused over what they maintain was unjust criticism of the State highway commission by the State board of accounts, members of that body may take drastic action Wednesday. An official demand for retraction of the charges was made, it was said.

According to a statement by John D. Williams, director of the highway commission, the report of the board of accounts concerning transactions with O. F. Schlenker, motor car dealer, "is so full of misstatements that the entire report has no value." He demanded that the report be withdrawn.

Meantime, Lawrence F. Orr, chief examiner of the board of accounts, said:

"We stand squarely on our report. Before giving out his statement Williams was in consultation with Walter G. Zahart of Ft. Wayne and Earl Crawford of Connersville of the highway commission."

Police Seek Couple

Police were asked today to watch for Miss Elizabeth Schweitzer, 16, and Charles Townner, 29, who are reported missing from Reading, Ohio. Girl has blue eyes and golden hair, and the boy black hair and brown eyes.

REDUCE BUILDING COSTS BY WORK IN WINTER TIME

New Materials Make Possible Cold Weather Construction.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A campaign to reduce high building costs by eliminating unreasonable idleness has been launched by the Department of Commerce.

A committee of builders, realtors, bankers and housing experts, appointed by Secretary Hoover, found that building trades workers were employed less than three-quarters of the year and that custom rather than climatic conditions caused this idleness.

"The survey proved that winter lay-offs are not confined to regions where climate is severe. Cities in the South and on the Pacific Coast are affected much like those on the Canadian border," says John M. Gries, chief of the division of housing and building, who had charge of the investigation.

Laying Off, A Habit

"This habit of laying off from three to five months every winter is due to customs which became fixed when building had not yet learned how to cope with adverse weather conditions. These customs have not been changed to meet improvements in building materials, although for most types of construction it is now possible to build the year-round in all parts of the United States," Gries stated.

Gries declares that education of the public to realize that winter building is possible will greatly decrease building costs. So far more than 2,000 copies of the committee's report have been mailed to city officials, building commissions, real estate men and architects in every large city in the country.

Advantages in Winter Building

"In winter there is likely to be no jam on materials, the car shortage is not so marked, prices of materials are usually lower, and above all there is not the shortage of labor found at the peak of summer building," Gries says.

Another striking reason for constant building was emphasized by Secretary Hoover in reviewing the committee's work.

"The need to eliminate the wastes of seasonal idleness has been brought forcibly to the attention of the construction industries and the public by reason of high labor costs and the failure of the building trades to attract young men into their ranks. Lengthening the building season will create greater opportunities for far to attract capable apprentices," Hoover declared.

LEGION AND KLAN STAGE BRIEF ROW

Ex-Service Men Are Asked to Keep Peace.

By Times Special. CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 2.—Officials of the American Legion, in State convention here, today circulated among the hundreds of legionnaires asking a pledge of peace following a brief clash between a group of delegates and alleged Ku-Klux Klansmen.

The clash occurred last midnight in front of a hotel when white-robed figures descended from an interurban car.

After an exchange of words between the robed figures and war veterans, two of the newcomers were seized, hustled about and their robes ripped off. Charles W. Schick, past commander of the legion, and others high in the legion activities, stopped hostilities.

Schick and Maj. Carlos Ames and others who witnessed the clash are asking the veterans to refrain from further contact with the Klansmen.

'CONSCIENCE WAS CLEAR'

Judge Has to 'Force' Attorney Upon Defendant.

"Where's your attorney?" Criminal Judge James A. Collins asked Otto Greenson, 1735 Miller St., when the latter appeared in court to enter plea to charges of burglary and petit larceny. He stole a razor worth $4 from Frank Workman, 1022 Arnold Ave., May 23, breaking into the Workman home, it is charged.

"I don't have a lawyer," replied Greenson, who is out on bond. "I have a clear conscience, and don't need any."

Collins assigned the case to Clifford Cameron, attorney for poor.

GRANDSTANDS EXAMINED

Shank Orders Inspection at State Fairground.

Inspection of the grandstand and bleachers at the State fairground by the city building department was ordered by Mayor Shank today after visiting the fairground Monday.

Although the city has no jurisdiction over State property, Hamilton said the inspections would be made and recommendations would be filed.

Shank said some of the structures were a menace to public safety, and "at least the State would know how the city felt about it."

Bicyclist Struck by Auto
