The Tangle

I was perfectly aghast, my dear Mrs. Prescott, when Miss Bradford told me she was sure you would feel very kindly to any one who would discover that secret drawer. I knew you left hurriedly and of course I do not know how many private papers you have left in that desk. But when I tried to re-examine—and I did rather heatedly—Miss Bradford interposed by saying:

"I'm sure, Nurse" (she always calls me 'Nurse' when she wants to be particularly disagreeable), "that Mrs. Prescott Junior will be as glad to have the secret drawer in her desk found, as she will be to have her rooms put in complete order without any worry to herself. I'm certain that it has not had a thorough cleaning and careful going over since she moved in the apartment."

"When I saw the condition of her closet which we are cleaning today and which has presumably been used daily and therefore more apt to be in order than other rooms less used, I know that if I were Mrs. Prescott and through my devotion to society and my friends had left my place in such a way. I would be very glad and thank my husband's mother very much for putting the entire place to rights."

This bit of righteous pretension on her part led to a discussion, in which I was completely ignored, of the dresses and wraps and other things which were found in your closet and bedroom bureau. The probable cost of all this paraphernalia seemed to worry them very much. Miss Bradford made your mother-in-law think you were culpably extravagant.

Perhaps, my dear Mrs. Prescott, I should not tell you all this, but I know how infuriated I would be to have a perfect stranger go through my small possessions when I was

MISS ELIZABETH FISHER, 2723 N. Pennsylvania St., entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Walker when Miss Marian Goddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Goddard, 3158 N. Capitol Ave., became the bride of Preston L. Sargent, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sargent. The Rev. J. A. Long read the ceremony. Miss Lucille Roth, pianist, played the bridal music and accompanied Mrs. Walker, who sang, "Oh Promise Me," and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

Six luncheon tables were daintily appointed with center baskets of flowers tied with peach and orchid tulle and peach colored tapers in crystal holders tied with orchid tulle.

Among the guests were Mrs. Ashley Pieman of Vincennes and Miss Edith Wood, Tipton.

The hostesses were assisted by their mothers, Mrs. J. Craig Fisher and Mrs. James A. Daugherty.

Mrs. R. M. Retherford and daughter, Roma of Muncie, Ind., are the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Benton and daughters, Miss Rachel and Miss Mildred, 3567 Park Ave. They have come to attend the wedding of Miss Helen Margaret Whitehill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Whitehill, 5447 Washington Blvd., to Albert Schröderholm of Wilmette, Ind., set for Saturday night at the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church.

Miss Dorothy M. Danke entertained Wednesday night at dinner for Miss Nellie Hubbard who is to be married late in September to R. E. Drake of Huntington, West Va.

The Bon Ton Club was entertained Friday night at the home of Mrs. J. W. Dodson 1301 W. Thirty-Fourth St. at a luncheon party.

Plans for the College Meeting Pot Bazar were discussed Saturday afternoon at a meeting of Western College Alumnae Association at the home of Mrs. Mary J. Weil, 2940 E. Michigan St.

Miss Mary Evelyn Riley, 1703 N. Capitol Ave., entertained Saturday afternoon with a luncheon party for Miss Grace Hackleman who is to marry Roland D. Rust Oct. 20. The guests were members of a club to which the bride-elect belonged in high school. During the afternoon they hemmed towels which the hostess presented to the honor guest in a dainty hand-made towel case.

The guests, Misses Mary Patricia Carver, Emma Belle Stutz, Florence Hackleman, Helen Stevens, not by, so I determined to write you, that you might better understand why I am leaving Mrs. Prescott Senior in two weeks, even if you do not return.

Unless you are willing that modeling old maid should go through your entire house in the hopes of making you out an unprofitable wife, you would do well to wire me, or better still, wire your friend Mrs. Burke to lock up the whole place and forbid them admittance.

I want you to understand, my dear Mrs. Prescott, that before Miss Bradford came I enjoyed your husband, and yourself and little son immensely, and although your mother-in-law was at times exigent, she seemed to be growing more tolerant of new ideas. However, now it is perfectly impossible to make her understand anything but of her own except what Miss Bradford tells her.

Sincerely yours,
ANNETTE ANDERSON.

Night Wire From Leslie Prescott to Ruth Burke:

Immediately upon receipt of this wire, demand the keys of my apartment from Mrs. Prescott. Lock it and return the keys to the manager of the apartment house with instructions that absolutely no one except yourself is to be allowed in the apartment. Above all else let no piece of furniture of mine be sent out of the apartment. Leave everything just as you find it. Do not attempt to put clothing that has been removed from closets back. This command is peremptory. If necessary show it to both Mrs. Prescott Sr. and manager of apartment house. Explanatory letter follows.

Grandmother Defends Her Own Short Locks

Grandmother has stood it long enough. Now she rebels. She comes to her own defense vigorously, against those who criticize her for joining her flapper granddaughters and having her hair bobbed.

"How much neater a bobbed head looks, if it is gray, than a mussy, stringy head," she writes.

Since the discussion precipitated by statement of Miss Katharine Dyer of Washington, D. C., winner of a prize for having the prettiest bob in Washington, that she does not like her hair bobbed and thinks many other bob-haired girls dislike theirs, too, grandmother and her bob have been the butt of much criticism.

Even those who defend the bob—and they are numerous—frequently add a note to the effect that, although they thoroughly approve of bobbed hair for young girls, they just as thoroughly disapprove of it for older women.

Grandmother, in her defense, is joined by the daughter of a bob-haired woman.

Here are some of the latest developments in the discussion:

Grandma Rebels

Miss Lee: In regard to bobbed hair I would like to say that I am a grandmother over fifty years old and have my hair bobbed. I consider it much more sanitary and cleaner than long hair, and easier to take care of. How much neater a bobbed head looks, if it is gray, than a mussy, stringy head.

My husband wanted me to have my hair bobbed and my two sons think it is all right. I think those people that are so much opposed to short hair must be in the hair net and pin business. No more long hair for me.

Daughter's Defense

Dear Miss Lee: I just want to tell Miss Bob she has given me food to write to you. She says she has had bobbed hair for several years, but her mother must not bob her hair because she will look foolish. If some one told me my mother looked foolish I would slap his face. That means my mother has bobbed hair and does not look foolish.

My hair is short and I would not have long hair again. I had pretty long hair, too.

If Miss Dyer wants long hair so badly, why doesn't she let it grow? Seems to me she would be contented with the prettiest bob.

J. E. C. has not had her bob long enough to tell whether she likes it or not.

My advice to girls and women is: If you want bobbed hair, bob it. And if you want long hair, let it grow, and stop your grumbling and let us "bobs" be. You are just so mindless that you can't bobbed. I consider it much more sanitary
