Business Associates and Old Friends Are Pallbearers.

Rise of Charles C. Perry, who died Tuesday, to a position of wealth and influence in Indianapolis from that of a fatherless, penniless boy, was eulogized this afternoon in the funeral sermon at the Perry residence, 3145 N. Meridian St., by the Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel.

Business associates and old friends of Mr. Perry were active and honorary pallbearers. Burial was in Crown Hill Cemetery. Offices of the Indianapolis Light and Heat Company, which Mr. Perry had headed, and of the Merchants Heat and Light Company, were closed from 2 to 4 p. m. in tribute.

A Genuine True Man

"With all his ability and achievement, wealth and power, to his friends and associates he was not Mr. Perry, but 'Charlie,' indicating the high esteem in which this genuine and true man was held by his many friends," said the Rev. Mr. Dunkel.

"It was a conviction of his that sharp cornered business methods were contemptible and to be spurned of every man. He felt that he must live with himself, and so wanted as good company for himself as possible."

Friend of Boys

"Sometimes he slipped and made mistakes, because he was human, but he always kept before himself the right and made a real effort to live up to his highest ideals."

"His one great civic activity was 'boys.' To him it was credit for starting and making possible the Boy Scout reservation, than which there is none better in the Nation."

CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY

People throughout this country are giving more thought to hygiene and to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's vegetable medicine, for they have been so favorably known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M. D., who compounded them from health-giving herbs and roots used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a sufficient guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood medicine, the Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's ailments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. # WAY OUT OF VOTE TANGLE FOUND?

One Card May Represent Electors on Machines.

Possibility of allotting one card on a voting machine to the fifteen presidential electors of any one party instead of placing each elector on a separate card resulting in reducing the size of the tickets one-half, was brought to the attention of Governor Emmett F. Branch today.

Whether or not the procedure be made to comply with the law is to be investigated by the State board of election commissioners in order to obviate necessity of using Australian ballots in the general election where machines were used by doubling up some of the tickets in a single column.

Six parties have petitioned for places on the ballot. The Democratic and Republican tickets have yet to be certified. There are places for only seven tickets on the voting machines.

Irish Disagree on Boundary

SIR JOHN CRAIG

By N.Y.A. Service. LONDON, Sept. 24.—Rudely awakened to reality of the Irish question which they thought settled for good, politicians admit far-reaching consequences may result from the present dispute over the boundary between the Free State and Ulster.

Ireland is divided into two States. Parliament set up Ulster as a separate unit. When it established the Free State the assumption was that there would be a readjustment of the boundary between the States if necessary.

Now the Free State insists such readjustment is necessary. But Ulster balks and will not appoint a member of the boundary commission.

Pressure is being brought to get Ulster to compromise. Three Ulster counties are involved. A majority of the people in them are Catholic, and seemingly in sympathy with the Free State. But circumstances are such that any revision would bring dissatisfaction to many.

"It is nonsense to speak of territory being torn from Ulster," the president of Ulster says. "The tearing process was at the expense of Ireland as a whole."

And Sir John Craig, over in Ulster, had this to say:

"Ulster relies on the act of Parliament. She did not want to be torn from the British empire, but in the interests of national unity she reluctantly agreed to be cast adrift."

"We are ready to consider light readjustments," but we can never consent to hand over any one of the counties as a whole. No power on earth can force us to hand over any one of the counties we hold."

The State also asks a perpetual injunction against the defendants violating liquor laws on the premises. The suit was filed in Remy's behalf by the Anti-Saloon League attorney, Jess E. Martin.

AMERICAN RISK MAN TO INSANITY CHARGED

Citizen Released on Habeas Corpus Order by Superior Judge Moll.

In a scrap with a neighbor Saturday about trespassing chickens, in jail Monday evening declared insane after the neighbor had filed an affidavit charging insanity, and at liberty Wednesday afternoon after a Superior judge allowed him to present defense to insanity charges.

Such is the history of Edward L. Denny, R. R. G. Box 486, living east of Irvington, whose wife brought the habeas corpus proceedings alleging he was being "railroaded" to the insane asylum. Mrs. Denny attacked the justice of peace procedure, charging the Constitution entitles a defendant to present at his trial and present witnesses in his behalf.

Surprise to Him

Denny told Judge Moll he knew nothing of the pending proceedings to declare him insane. He said he did not get along well with the neighbors. The affidavit filed against him stated the affiant first thought him crazy three years ago, when he "played the piano, sang, gave college yells and was fearful some one would harm his child." He was "talkative, silent, noisy, quiet, cheerful, melancholy, restless, violent, destructive, sociable, profane, chaotic, sleepless, homicidal, suicidal and hysterical," according to the affiant.

Justice of Peace J. B. Mullane and two men came to his house Monday at 1 p. m. and asked me a few questions," Denny said. "One of them posed as a newspaper reporter and asked me what I thought would be the influence of Mars on the earth, being so close. That was all the examination I ever had."

Men Were Doctors

Justice Mullane, who declared Denny insane, after hearing the neighbors and receiving affidavits from Drs. B. J. Thorndyke and Samuel McGaughey, that the defendant was "very nervous, violent, a paranoiac, subject for Julietta and dangerous to be at large," said today that Denny was examined at his home in the visit he described to Judge Moll, and that the two men "didn't know where Dr. McGaughey and Dr. Harold T. Dailley, a dentist. The latter testified in the justice's inquest that Denny was "probably dementia praecox with paranoid tendencies."

Sheriff George Snider, former sheriff Theodore Portus, James A. Stuart, managing editor of the Indianapolis Star, and John W. Schaub, auditor of the Pettis Dry Goods Company, under whom Denny has done the inventory work for the company for nineteen years, testified before Judge Moll that Denny is sane.

None of the witnesses in the justice inquest was present at the habeas corpus hearing.

Plays La Follette as Menace to Constitution.

By United Press. ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 25.—Sticking to his conviction that issue of the campaign is "Americanism" versus "Socialism," Charles G. Dawes today declined to enter into controversy with his opponent, Burton K. Wheeler, who is trailing across Minnesota.

"On one side is the Constitution of the United States, the American flag and the principle which it upholds, backed by President Coolidge," Dawes told a rear platform crowd here today. "On the other side are the Socialists, Socialism and the red flag, backed by Robert M. La Follette."

"In the mind and conscience of the American people there is one great issue, because Robert M. La Follette through his mass collection of those opposed to the existing order of things, attacked our constitutional form of government."
