SECURITIES LAW MOTIVE UPHELD

Schortemeier Refers to Candidacy in Talk.

By Times Special

NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Oct. 2.—First formal reference to his own candidacy was made here Wednesday evening by Frederick E. Schortemeier, Republican nominee for secretary of State.

"I believe the Indiana securities law and its administration has resulted in much good to the people of Indiana. If I am Secretary of State, an honest investment company whose motives are genuine and whose organization is sound, need have nothing whatsoever to fear so long as it observes the law.

This law should be strictly enforced or the department abolished, and in my opinion such amendments to the law as will strengthen it should be considered by the Legislature, and if the Legislature enacts them into law they will be enforced."

ORDER SCHOOL ECONOMY

Building Program Adjusted to Meet Budget Reduction.

Indianapolis school board members are attempting to adjust the building program to budget reductions made by the State tax board.

The board cut the proposed levy to 35.5 cents on each $100, leaving the levy a net increase of 11.25 cents over the 1935 levy which was $2.25.

The program of repairing old buildings must go on, it is said, and the reduction of 2.3 from the special fund may impede the building program.

Richard O. Johnson, business director, said he would send letters to all department heads urging them to exercise caution in seeing that expenditures were made from the proper funds and that no fund transfers were made.

School Commissioner Fred Bates Johnson went to the tax board of the State late Wednesday and denounced the levy cut as "outrageous, demagogic and childish yapping at our heels."

BABY FROLICS AS PARENTS LITIGATE

Ask Judge to Say Which Shall Have Her.

A bitter legal fight between Glenn K. Scheiring and Mrs. Edith E. Scheiring for custody of their nineteen-month-old daughter Wanda was begun today before Superior Judge T. J. Moll. The child is living with the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Baker, 808 Tecumseh Pl. Unconscious of the turmoil, the child played about the courtroom with a toy dog.

Mrs. Scheiring is a patient at Sunnyside, county tuberculosis hospital.

Mrs. Baker testified she was arrested by her son-in-law recently on a downtown street and taken to jail for five hours on a charge of child stealing. She has taken the baby to Greensburg, Ind., on a visit.

Meow, Meow!

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—"What does a pussy cat say when it meows?" Eight hundred University of Chicago freshmen wrinkled their brows over that one. It was one of 100 questions asked examination which university authorities say will determine their "vocational aptitude."

Perhaps the examiners had dangers of collegiate drinking in mind when they asked: "What per cent of alcohol is there in white lead paint?"

And not to forget the fair sex, the examiners listed: "Women: Peggy Joyce, Jane Adams, Corinne Griffith and Mary Garden and queried: "Whom do you consider the greatest living American woman and why?"

Other puzzlers were: "What did Confucius have to do with the discovery of America?"

"If the total cost of Brooklyn bridge was $3,000,000, how much did each end cost?"

"What would be happening in a house if you saw a doctor, a lawyer, a nurse, an ambulance and a bridesmaid going in?"

FRANCE TO AID U. S. TRAP RUM SMUGGLING RING

American, Charged with Piracy, Discloses Higher Ups in Game.

By United Press

BREST, France, Oct. 2.—Max Phaff has saved his neck and started two governments on a world-wide search that may lay bare the entire business of rum running and deal a death blow to the biggest smuggling ring of the lot.

Lighter Charge

French authorities have postponed for a week further examination of the American whom they first accused of piracy in connection with the rail last June on the French steamer Mulhouse which netted the pirates $2,000,000 worth of liquor.

They will proceed to press a slightly less serious charge—conspiracy in piracy—against Phaff, after they have made an effort to capture some of his alleged accomplices.

The men wanted were named by the young New Yorker Wednesday.

It is only the desire of the authorities to avoid international complications that hinders the French in the chase. They hope to provide the United States authorities with valuable information about rum-running in exchange for assistance in capturing the Mulhouse pirates.

Escaped Noose

Phaff, who was threatened with hanging if convicted on the piracy charge, escaped that danger when one of the crew of the Mulhouse declared the prisoner was not among the raiders.

Saved from the noose, the American is seeking to extricate himself from his predicament by telling what he knows of the rum-running business, and especially by aiding the French to lay hands upon the Mulhouse raiders.
