A STAMPEDE

of a cattle herd is one of the greatest perils that a cowboy fears. One hundred thousand wild steers are shown in mad stampede, sweeping with the irresistible force of a cyclone across the desert, grinding entire towns to splintered wreckage beneath their roaring hoofs and leaving untold damage in their wake. Such is one of the many thrilling scenes

Business Woman Finds Career Gives Opportunity for Growth

Miss Alice Anderson Tells Advantages of Active Existence.

By JUNE WINONA SNYDER

"The woman of today is much better, bigger, broader for the experience which business life affords," said Miss Alice Anderson, 5 E. Market St.

"I am not surprised to read in our daily papers of the many society women who are now engaging in different lines of business. World problems as well as those of the home, the city, the State and the nation, are making such demands upon one that women are finding society does not yield the necessary solution. Business life alone, with its varied activities, is the unfailing agent for the development of the mental qualities necessary to success, such as intuition, the ability to make quick decisions, acute perception of situations and ripened judgment."

"Business activities also develop creative powers, latent capabilities or talents, or bents, heretofore unknown to the individual. The contact with people which business life demands is an education within itself, for one's happiness so much depends upon his ability to understand those with whom he is associated, and get along harmoniously with them. It develops the 'give and take' attitude and an independence which is desired by every normal individual."

Miss Ruth Fifer, corresponding secretary, and Miss Ruth Fufer, treasurer.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Gertrude Anne Cossel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Cossel, and Floyd Marion Markley, of Dayton, Ohio, formerly of Indianapolis, Oct. 18 at 4 p. m. at the First Baptist Church.
