students make up the cast, including four leads, a beauty chorus of eight, and a larger general chorus. In addition, students are doing art work in scenery, costuming and make-up.

ROBERT DEMAREE

Darrow wrote the play and Sulzer and Demaree the music.

$1,080,057.49 for the employment of approximately 1,800 men at prison labor.

In addition, property statement gives value of the prison buildings and grounds at $875,524.15. Total ground at the institution is 103 acres. Ground enclosed by the prison walls, including the insane hospital, is twenty-two acres. Personal property including various prison equipment is valued at $698,869.68 making the prison property a plant valued at $1,574,593.83.

Laborers Lead List

Prison records show that laborers, so called, have the highest percentage of inmates at the prison. Farmers are second; machinists and salesmen are third; cooks fourth. Practically every trade and profession is represented on the roster.

Two to fourteen years is the commonest sentence, sixty-five being received for this sentence during the year. Twenty-nine were received with a life term. A total of 361 were committed during the year and eighty-seven were discharged; sixteen died and two escaped. Total released in the year was 598.

Burglary led the list of crimes with 103, as against sixty-one in 1922, thirty in 1921 and twenty in 1920. Grand larceny was second with ninety-five received, as against sixty-five in 1922, seventy-three in 1921 and fifty in 1920. Seventy-seven were received for forgery, as against sixty-three in 1922, fifty in 1921 and none in 1920. Seventy-five were guilty of receiving stolen goods, as against sixty-three in 1922, fifty in 1921 and eight in 1920. Thirty were committed for murder, as against twenty-seven in 1922, thirty-eight in 1921 and twenty in 1920.

From these figures Warden E. J. Fogarty maintains crime is on the increase. On down the calendar of crime in most every instance an increase is shown.

Insane Prison Roll

In the insane prison there are 195 inmates from eighty-one counties. Of these criminal insane, fifty-one were committed for murder; twenty-two for grand larceny; twenty for burglary; six for manslaughter; eight for rape; eleven each for assault and battery, murder and assault and battery to kill.

Records show during the year 275 were paroled by the board and twenty by the Governor.

Parole department records show that of the total men on parole at the prison, their earnings amount to $2,559,538.25 with expenses of $2,100,476.20; total savings of $459,062.05.

Aaron W. Wood, prison chaplain, in his report says he has a Sunday Bible class of more than 100 men, voluntarily. A resident priest conducts mass each Sunday for Catholic inmates and a Jewish rabbi celebrates Jewish holidays for Jewish inmates.

The shop report for the insane criminals shows they manufactured during the last fiscal year this merchandise:

Shirting, 9,294 yards; towel, 8,950 yards; sheeting, 7,014 yards; blue denim, 4,853 yards; khaki, 4,755 yards; ticking, 2,700 yards; wool flannel, 1,517; cotton bedspreads, 609; United States flags, 16; cotton socks, 6,420 pairs; gloves, 2,702 pairs; mittens, 1,325 pairs; sneakers, 578 pairs; bed pillows, 125; mattresses, 274. Besides manufacture of other smaller articles the insane prisoners operate the laundry for the entire prison and do all mending.

Value of their output of merchandise is fixed at $12,926.26. Besides this they run the poultry farm and garden.

Warden Fogarty declares he could furnish State institutions with their annual supply of these articles, sheeting, towel, and the like at nominal costs, where they are now buying on the open market, mainly through the office of the State purchasing agent.

50,000 Cattle Have Stellar Role in Movie of Southwest

By JACK JUNGMEYER, NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 9.—Cattle from a thousand hills, assembled in a great rodeo, carry the stellar role in the picture, "Sundown."

First National's epic of the range country to be shown at the Circle next week.

Like "The Covered Wagon," "America," "The Birth of a Nation," it depicts a significant phase of our national life—the close of the pastoral era. "Sundown" has historic perspective and scope; it is a film document of a vanishing breed of men and beasts and the land they prepared for closer settlement.

Human drama rides in stirrup and chuck wagon beside the hoofed legions; drama springing from encroachment of homesteaders upon the cattle provinces of the elder West, from stampede, prairie fire, financial crisis and hard straits.

But the individual actors, giving of their best, are dwarfed by the massed animals—50,000 strong—winding from foreground to horizon through the picture in the slow, curving line of melancholy.

Of yearning and regret which gives "Sundown" its distinctive tone.

Original Story

The film is from an original story by Earl Hudson, production supervisor of First National, based upon recent cattle drives from the southwest States to Mexico for adequate range, a pathetic exodus to folk along the Rio Grande.

Curious how moving is the sight of a great herd on the march. At rest, grazing, they are merely so many beasts. But in mass motion they stir emotions of primal majesty. Their very docility adds to the effect of high drama.

Creations of man's dominance, his meat and milk, in turn dominating their owners, forced to go where the cattle may graze, even to the abandonment of home and exile to an alien land.

Then in a moment, at the smell of water, the placid mass converted into a terrible catapult, wiping out everything in its path of stampede, including the home of the nestor family whose daughter provides the love interest—an awesome scene that, with the girl and her lover stranded in a sea of tossing horns. Again, poignant pathos when the cowhands, after immortal eulogy, ring down the herd for the night with plaintive, plaintive, plaintive lullaby for animals treated like children.

It should prove a memorable picture, this dramatic summing up of a glorious western day now come to its sundown. For those who can not sense the melting effect of his domestic animals upon a man's destiny, there may be too much film devoted to the herd. For me "Sundown" carries a powerful appeal.

Several Hits

Although conventional romance is subordinated, Bessie Love, the eastern girl who brings her family from the city for cowboy room, and Roy Stewart, as son of the cattle baron crowded from his range, provide engrossing sentimental passages as their love develops beside the moving cattle.

Robert Bosworth is an imposing figure as leader of the cattlemen.

Charles Murray gives a capital characterization as driver of the chuck wagon, a perambulator for the march weary—the nestor family, a calf, a spent old rider, all given asylum with gruff tenderness. A why sort of fun to heaven the serious and at times mournful tone of the play.

Laurence Trimble and Harry O. Hoyt stand honors in directing.

The concluding scene, where the vast herd crosses a railroad track between impatient passenger trains, and so into Mexico, is symbolic period to words put into the mouth of E. J. Retcliffe, an actor giving a summation of the picture.

"You could put your cowboys and cattle a mile deep from Canada to Mexico."

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jael Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jael Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advertisement.

NEW BILL OPENS AT PALACE TODAY

Gall Curci, George White, Marylyn Miller, the Caninos and Pearl Regay are all impersonated the latter half of this week in "Footlight Fantasies" at the Palace. The members of the company who give this have studied the characteristics and mannerisms of each star.

Marietta Craig, the "Lizze" of the great "The Bat," is present with her company in her new comedy, "Batty."

"Since the Days of '61" tells of an old soldier, Foster Bell, who lives constantly in the past, aroused only by the snappy songs and chatter of his two associates, Adams and Briscoe. "Countess Rosamunda" wraps herself in a mantle of mystery when she steps forth as the psychic singing comedienne. The most peculiar act on the bill is the one offered by the Lutes brothers, for Clare Lutes is armless, performing innumerable feats with his toes.

"Three Miles Out" is the photoplay starring Midge Kennedy and Harrison Ford.

Attractions in other Indianapolis theaters include "Blossom Time" at the Murat, "The Thief of Bagdad" at English's, "Tazmanian Revue" at the Lyric, Wellington Cross and Keith's, a complete new bill at the Isis, "Abraham Lincoln" at the Circle, "Sinners in Heaven" at the Apollo, "Lily of the Dust" at the Ohio, "Record Breakers" at the Capitol, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" at the Lincoln Square and "Venus of the South Seas" at Mister Smith's.

The Indiana Indorsers of Photoplays recommend the following as both adult and family pictures: "The Thief of Bagdad" at English's, and "Abraham Lincoln" at the Circle.
