

RECODIFICATION ORDINANCE GIVEN TO CITY COUNCIL

Calls for Three Attorneys to Eliminate Obsolete City Laws.

An ordinance providing for recodification and revision of city ordinances passed since 1917 was on city council records today following its introduction Monday night on recommendation of the city legal department.

Appointment of three attorneys by the mayor to codify the measures at a salary of $750 each is provided. The ordinance is designed to eliminate obsolete ordinances, and simplify the present code.

Market Ordinance Killed

Another step in the wrangle over repairs of the city market was taken when the council struck the ordinance providing for remodeling at a cost of $189,900 from the files. It was indicated the council would accept the report of a joint council and board of works committee on market house repairs. Recommendation of this joint committee is now in the hands of architects. Cost will be approximately $100,000.

Resolution calling on Police Chief Herman F. Rikhoff to enforce the city ordinance prohibiting unnecessary whistling of locomotives in the city limits was adopted by the council.

Another measure passed changed the territory at Forty-Second St. and Winthrop Ave. from business to residential.

Parking Ordinance Introduced.

Additional traffic ordinances were introduced, one providing angle parking on Ohio St. between Alabama and East Sts., and another prohibiting parking on the east side of Ft. Wayne Ave. between Pennsylvania and Alabama Sts.

Other ordinances introduced:

Transferring $3,500 from the new equipment fund to the salary fund in the fire department.

Authorizing sale of quantity of junk owned by the city.

Transferring $1,000 from the new equipment fund of the electrical department to the police motorcycle repair fund.

Transferring $1,500 to the salary fund of the street commissioner's office from supply and bridge repair funds.

Lovely Time Awaits All at Murat; Keith's Offer Fine Artist in Song

By WALTER D. HICKMAN
WEETNESS you have been looking for?

Well, you will find it in town this week. It won't be here long and so many people are busy electing a President and others that the sweetness may be passed up.

But just going to tell you about it. There is a lovely show at the Murat tonight and Wednesday. It's name is "The Belle of Quakertown."

Aaron Hoffman supplied the book and the music and the melody words by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby.

As far as I am concerned I do not look for the New York label of indelicacy to tell me that a show is "all right." As far as New York goes, it's all applesauce to me. I know when a show pleases me. And that is enough for me.

And "The Belle of Quakertown" made me forget a terrible cold and a headache I have had for days. I went to the Murat last night feeling "frunk," and I came out still with the cold, but happier. And when a stage production does that much for me, well, I am ready to yell from the housetops that it is a good show.

Good Team

Upper—Eddie Buzzell in "Belle of Quakertown," at the Murat. Lower—Helen Ford, Buzzell's partner in the pleasing proceedings.

You will not see undressed chorus girls. You will not hear off-color jokes. You will not see hundreds on the stage before expensive sets.

But you will see a young and pretty dancing chorus. You will meet Helen Ford, one of those sweet and lovely persons that the stage needs so badly. You will see much of Eddie Buzzell. Eddie rather reminds of Jack Osterman—because both of 'em work at great speed. You will see three pretty sets, not elaborate, but in good taste. You will hear some jokes that are ancient, but this applies to every show I have ever seen. You will see some neat dancing formations. You will realize that a musical comedy can tell a complete story.

And above all you will run into three of the sweetest songs I have heard in many a moon. Name 'em! Sure I will. Here they are: "No other Girl," as done by Miss Ford and Buzzell, is a gem in their hands. "Corner of My Mind," a dream love song with real heart in it as done by Miss Ford and Buzzell, and "I Would Rather Dance a Waltz," a dash of the old-fashioned stuff, which is a masterpiece of dignity and beauty in the hands of Miss Ford.

There might be some weak spots in the first act until Miss Ford and Buzzell arrive, but when they land the entertainment is safe. Miss Ford became a somebody on the stage last season in New York when she appeared in Helen of Troy.

"The Belle of Quakertown" returns the stage to the days when a story had something to do with musical comedy. Here is a show that is bright, tuneful, pretty, and on the whole well presented.

Many people are going to pass up this little treat. Hundreds did last night. Here is a show that deserves good business. Youth is present in this organization. This is a show for the entire family.

At the Murat tonight and Wednesday only.

DANCE REVUE TOPS NEW BILL AT LYRIC

There are so many dance revues in vaudeville now that it is a difficult thing for me to distinguish all the good points and bad points of each separate act. "Dance Review of 1924," the headline attraction at the Lyric this week, though, is a little different from the rest which makes it more interesting, especially to those who like tap dancers.

The four men with this act are all excellent at this form of dancing. The woman to the act also is a pleasing dancer. I thought the Toy Soldier dance was their best number.

Hamel Sisters and Stroos have a clever musical act with the girls playing trombone, cornet, and saxophone.

ly of the stand taken in the magazine article.

Dan Sherman and company have been presenting their burlesque circus act in vaudeville for many years. The basic idea has remained the same, but the actors have kept pace with time. The two rube brothers this season in an attempt to be sporty at a circus is a comedy.

It has universal appeal. Here is rube hokum comedy of the better sort. I make no apology for liking it. Here is real fun presented as it should be. To my way of thinking, it is the hit of the bill.

Some acts can repeat year after year, but I have lost all the kick in seeing Bill "Swede" Hall and the act has been presented too often in its present form on the local stage. Have your own opinion as to this act.

The Bell Brothers open their act with a musical supper in which everything turns out to be a musical instrument. In a cover-up number the gloves even contain musical instruments. Pleasing novelty.

Fred Sosman should be congratulated in presenting a monologue in a new manner. He introduces himself as a prologue and then proceeds to sing, tell stories and even recite. Lots of thought and cleverness back of this act. Splendidly mounted. Mild entertainment is offered by Phillips and Ellsworth. Dancing is their best effort. The movie feature is Larry Semon in "The Girl in the Limousine."

At the Palace today and Wednesday.

The movies today are offering: "The Story Without a Name" at the Ohio; "Dangerous Money" at the Apollo; "Husbands and Lovers" at the Circle; "Hearts of Oak" at the Midway; "The Girl in the Limousine" at the Lincoln Square; and "Thundering Hoofs" at the Isis.

Valentine Vox, the ventriloquist, is very well known here in Indianapolis and am sure is very well liked.

Low Cooper, although I liked him, had a rather hard time getting his stuff across at first, but after he had shown his radio set, which, by the way, is one of the most interesting ones I have seen, and told of some of the things he knew, he got along all right and the rest of the audience besides myself began to like him. They tried to get him back, but didn't succeed.

Balmus, Irma and Milo open the show with some striking poses of strength and balance. The woman dances in a pleasing fashion.

Eastman and Moore had me guessing for a minute; I didn't know what the act was going to be, a musical one of otherwise. The man has a pleasing bass voice and I think the woman was at her best when the man took a long piece of cloth and draped a gown around her. They change the scenery at the end of the act into a chapel.

The two men in the act, billed "North and South" sing some, dance some, and make several wise cracks. They should devote more of their time out front to dancing.

At the Lyric all week—By the Observer.

AN OLD FAVORITE
PLEASES ALL AGAIN

Some time ago somebody writing in a magazine suggested the thought that vaudeville today was becoming more and more a comedy proposition. After visiting the Palace this week, I began to think more seriously.

Next, Jessie Baker and William J. Redford in "Rolling Stones." Smart, but seen here before. There is too much repetition. I am in favor of a rule compelling variety actors to have new material every season. This applies to John B. Hymer and company in "Tom Walker in Dixie." Walker will say, "Yes, people still laugh at the act." True. But let 'em laugh more with new material.

Dan Boudini and Adele Bernard play the accordion. Boudini plays the smallest accordion ever made. Frank Wilson rides the bicycle. Am sure that he is the best I have ever seen in my years of telling you about shows. The Lanoff Sisters in dance numbers close the show.

At Keith's all week with two election shows tonight in addition to the regular matinee.

NEW ORDER BY WILMETH

Extends Authority to Release Prisoners Arrested at Night.

Police officers with the rank of captain and above, turnkeys and matrons were granted authority to release, on their own recognizance, prisoners they deem worthy and whose bonds are under $500, in a new order issued by City Judge Delbert O. Wilmeth.

Probation Officer Robert Dennis was relieved of special duty. Dennis had been authorized to release prisoners held under bond of $500 between the hours of 4 p. m. and midnight, causing friction between Police Chief Herman F. Rikhoff and Judge Wilmeth.

Judge Wilmeth considers persons listed in city and telephone directories, or who can furnish evidence of employment or otherwise are deemed worthy of being released on their own honor, eligible for release.

An automatic traffic signal in Carmel caused thirty-six motorists to come to grief Sunday when they were arrested by Roy W. Holbrook, town marshal. Many of those arrested were compelled to pay fines of $8.50 each before Justice Mahlon Day.

The Hoosier Motor Club is investigating reports of the speed trap in Carmel. Motorists say the signal changed with such rapidity that it was impossible to obey it. Holbrook said the signal worked regularly, and that no favorites were played in making arrests.

Filling Station Attendant Recovering at Methodist Hospital.

About $200 was missing from the safe, which was open. Robbins is in Methodist hospital.

Children Are Ill if they won't play

Watch them carefully. You can forestall a serious ailment with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

WHEN you see a child moping, avoiding companions and toys and play, look at its tongue and you will usually find it coated—a reliable symptom of constipation.

Forthwith give a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It will operate in a few hours and the child will feel better again. If there is also feverishness, sneezing and sniffling give another teaspoonful the following night, to make sure that all danger is past.

It is perfectly unnecessary to give young children strong physics and cathartics as they are apt to set up a bad habit they will later find difficult to throw off.

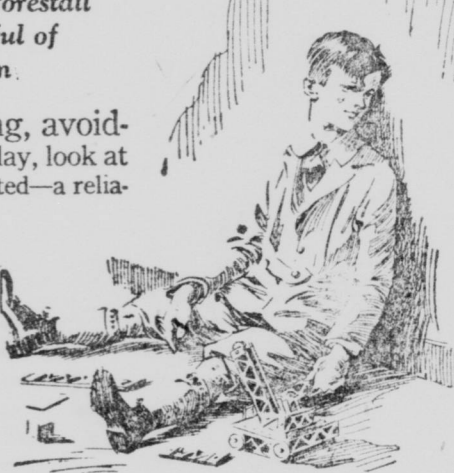

A mild vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin meets all their requirements, and as it is pleasant to take you will find no difficulty administering it.

Experienced mothers learned its value long ago, for it has been on the market over thirty years, and Mrs. Josie Clark, Rocky, Okla., and Mr. Charles Lewis, Blackwood, N. J., attribute the general good health of their families to the prompt use of Syrup Pepsin at the right moment. They have it constantly in the house, knowing they can relieve over night constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, flatulence, headache, sour stomach, fevers, colds and other disorders accompanying or due to a constipated condition of the intestines and bowels.
