

GOD ORDERED HER, MURDERESS SAYS

Maid Who Killed Employer to Be Arraigned.

By United Press
LONDON, N. J., Nov. 28.—Mary Kuzmick, 40, ten years a maid, said today she was ordered by her employer, George H. Davey, to kill him with an ax as he lay asleep in his home in Plainfield.

Davey's 14-year-old daughter was slain as she came to her father's aid, but escaped with a deep slash in her face. Mrs. Davey, 33, in an earlier bed chamber, also was hacked and was in a serious condition in a hospital today.

"The Lord told me to kill them all," Mary said when she finally was overpowered by police.

SOVIET NOTES RECEIVED

Russians Again Offer to Arbitrate
Zinoviev Letter.

By United Press
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Two notes from Russia were received here today.

The first acknowledges a recent communication from the Baldwin government and expresses regret at the latter's decision not to submit the Anglo-Russian treaties to parliament. The second note repeats the Russian proposal for arbitration of the authenticity of the Zinoviev letter.

TAKE A SHOT AT LIMERICK NO. 5

next best pick off $3 each, while twenty people who sent in cracking good lines, but not in the big money class, got $1 each consolation awards, making in all twenty-five daily cash award winners.

That performance goes on EVERY DAY. And I'm not going to quit until I get every person in Indianapolis and vicinity just as enthusiastic over Limericks as I am. It's a regular Limerick crusade.

It's Lot of Fun

Writing "Lost-lines" to my incomplete Limericks is the most enjoyable and profitable manner in which any family can spend the evening. Get Dad, Mother and the youngsters around the table and then all start in.

Limericks solve the answer of what to do with the lunch hour while at work. Think 'em up during lunch hour and mail them while they are fresh or drop them in the Limerick boxes in The Times office lobby or in the doorway of the Merchants' Heat and Light office, Washington and Meridian Sts.

But I'll bet a good portion of the Limerick winners will come from the ranks of the housewives. They are the ones with the golden opportunity.

After the breakfast dishes are cleared away, the youngsters bundled off to school and the housework done, every housewife has a few spare moments.

"Limerick Hour"

That will be "Limerick Hour" when Mrs. Housewife gets out last night's Times and starts a little Limericking on her own hook.

And when a housewife starts out to win something or do something right, she can make a lot of opposition for anybody.

Besides that, every housewife back in her head has some place where she has it all planned out just where that $50 first award will go.

Now about Limerick No. 5, today's offering to the fans. It's on Page 2, just below the Limerick rules.

Limerick No. 5, if it were a true story, would almost be worth head-lines on Page 1.

But, being just an imaginary Limerick, it's on Page 2, where the Limericks always are. No 5 is about one of those well-known men about town, a taxidermer.

Now, no offense to the taxidermer. Tomorrow I'm just as likely to offer a Limerick about the Governor or a bank president.

On Limerick No. 5 you have plenty of chances of winning it up with a snappy "Lost-line." You can have Bill finish his soliloquy after his spill; you could have a comment from his passenger, or you could just deduce what happened to Bill after his crack up.

Be sure your "Lost-line" rhymes with the first two lines, not the third and fourth; check up to see that your meter or swing is right, and don't forget to put the number of the Limerick on the outside of your envelope.

"Snuff for today. Shoot again."

$100.00 DAILY

For the Best "Lost Lines" Supplied for the Incomplete Limerick Printed Below

THE RULES:

1. No telephone calls or personal calls on the Limerick Editor will be permitted. No letters will be answered. Decisions of juries are absolute final and not open to discussion.

2. Contest open to any one. All that's necessary is to send in a lost line to the Limerick Editor for consideration. The coupon printed below, though this is not essential.

3. All answers to today's Limerick must be received by 7 P. M. Monday. Mail answers must be mailed to "Limerick Larry," care Indianapolis Times. For convenience of those who wish to bring them personally big boxes will be found in the main lobby of The Times Building, and in the doorway of the Merchants' Heat and Light office, Meridian and Washington Sts.

4. The winners of each day's first award of FIFTY DOLLARS and of all the other 24 cash awards, will be announced one week after publication of the Limerick.

5. In case of tie decisions by the juries for the first award FIFTY DOLLARS will be awarded to the writer of each line. The same rule will apply to the smaller awards; the full amount of the prize being paid in each case.

6. There is no limit to the number of lines a person may send in, but each line MUST be written on a separate slip of paper with name and address, preferably of same size as coupon below. Otherwise the lines will be disqualified.

7. Employees of The Times and their families are not eligible to compete in the contest.

8. Write the number of the Limerick as given below on the outside of your envelope. This is obligatory. Your answer will not be considered unless the envelope carries on the outside the Limerick number.

CUT OUT AND MAIL TO
"LIMERICK LARRY," CARE INDIANAPOLIS
TIMES, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

(You can bring this to The Times office if more convenient, depositing it in the big box in the main lobby, or in the box in the doorway of the Merchants' Heat and Light office, corner of Meridian and Washington Sts., but no questions can be answered or the Limerick discussed. The rules above are complete and final.)

Getting Bigger

They're getting bigger with every mail.

Tipton, Ind., now disputes the claims of both Bedford and Columbus of having a resident who caught the largest bass of the season. John H. Swift, member of the Tipton Angler Club, caught a bass weighing five pounds and fifteen ounces, and which measured twenty-three inches in length, according to Swift, who offers to produce affidavit to prove the catch. He said the fish was caught in a gravel pit on a "gold wiggler."

ANNUAL EXODUS SOUTH STARTED

Heaviest Migration in Years Predicted.

Annual exodus of Hoosiers to southern resorts has started, according to railroad officials. Season promises to be one of the heaviest in history, according to requests from travelers.

The fine fall weather in Indiana has delayed the march southward, but those who spend the holidays in Florida have already gone, taking advantage of the rates which prevail early in October. Many persons have motored south.

According to Jack Quill, Pennsylvania local passenger agent, those who go south early in the season are older folks who spend each winter there.

The regular winter season at St. Petersburg, Miami and Palm Beach does not open until after the holidays and the larger hotels remain closed until after Jan. 1.

The Pennsylvania road has already installed through sleeping service on their "Southland" to St. Petersburg. The L. & N. road expects to put on service to Miami and Palm Beach about Dec. 27.

The Big Four and the Pennsylvania handle the bulk of the Indiana traffic southward.
