

CIVIC FEDERATION DINNER PLANNED FOR NEXT YEAR

More Smoke Abatement Inspectors Favored in Resolution.

A dinner with various forms of entertainment will be given for Indianapolis Federation of Civic Clubs members and their families some time in January. Promotion of friendship is the purpose of the party.

Resolutions favoring regional zoning plan proposed by Scientech Club, urging more smoke inspectors and opposing closing streets and alleys when tracks are elevated were adopted at meeting of the Federation Friday night at Chamber of Commerce.

Inspector's Duties Heavy

After turning the meeting over to A. Le Roy Porteous, vice president, Edward O. Sneathen, president, member of Chamber of Commerce smoke abatement committee, proposed the city have one or two more smoke inspectors.

"Smoke destroys three million dollars of property in the city every year. We need to eliminate this waste. The duties, including inspecting of furnaces and boilers, are too much for the present staff," Sneathen said.

H. W. Vedder of East Thirtieth Street Club said: "The waste is invisible. I am not in favor of any more inspectors. They need to make arrests, and use those prosecuted as an example. The city should clean up its own plants. Public School No. 50 is worse than any railroad yard I ever saw."

Sneathen Offers Assistance

Sneathen said some arrests would be made in December, and he had offered to assist in the prosecution.

Mrs. J. D. Hoss, member smoke abatement committee of Women's Department Club from Spades Park Civic Club, said smoke was a serious menace to health, and the public should be educated to prevent such nuisance. She stressed the need of democratic cooperation.

John F. White, secretary, said action should be taken to prevent track elevation programs from bringing about "closed areas" and injuring property.

EXPLOSION BURNS GIRL

Brother Extinguishes Flames by Wrapping Rug About Victim.

Miss Flossie Conger, 16, of 516 E. Ohio St., is in city hospital suffering from severe burns about her arms and body received early today when the lamp she was carrying fell and exploded. Miss Conger was attending the wants of her mother, Mrs. Liza Conger, who is ill, and was going to the kitchen to get a cup of water when she dropped the lamp. Her brother Charles was awakened by his sister's cry for help and extinguished the flames that enveloped his sister by wrapping a rug about her.

ROMAN CATHOLIC

Catholics of Protestant Tribes
Are of Moderate of American Protestants.

In a statement to the public which appeared in all of the city papers commenting on the defeat of the proposed anti-private school amendment at the recent election in Indianapolis, Bishop George V. Kardinal, Roman Catholic Bishop of Indianapolis, paid this tribute to the faithfulness of the great majority of his flock.

"While American Catholics appreciate and defend all costs the principles held by the Protestant Tribes, they gladly confess that they owe them to the love of liberty of the framers of the Constitution. The great majority of American Protestants are well aware that at any time since 1776-1789 these liberties have been preserved and strengthened if not protected by the strong arm of their non-Catholic brethren who outnumber the Catholic population five to one."

The Spirit Survives

"We were indeed glad to find in the recent election that the great majority of the men who fashioned our liberties and of the men who preserved them for nearly a century and a half were of the Protestant Tribes. Catholics are gratefully admiring that when the battle was joined, our non-Catholic took the lead and our non-Catholic took the lead in much more than ours, and by their influence and votes made possible the victory that has been won."

The Catholics of course join with Bishop Gallagher in this tribute. He is Protestant and cooperation with Catholics is the natural result of the defeat of the anti-private school amendment, by the tremendous and decisive vote of the people."

The Season of Advent

The holy season of Advent is now here. Nov. 29 is the first Sunday of Advent. Advent is from the Latin and means "the coming" and describes the coming of the Son of God into the world. The Season of the World. From the very beginning of Christian civilization, the church has observed the season of this Holy Season so as to make proper preparation for the Christmas festival. With the season of Advent, the season of meditation and prayer. The good practical Catholic always obeys the admonitions of the church in the observance of the Holy Season of Advent most devoutly.

There are 22 Catholic Churches in Indianapolis and the season of Advent will be observed in all of them in the same manner. In all the Catholic Churches the proper keeping of Advent will be made in the sermons preached in all the Catholic Churches Sunday after Sunday.
