POLICEMEN TALK, CRIMINALS WORK

Thieves Busy While Chicago Officers Hold Meeting.

By United Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Chicago's 6,000 policemen have jumped into the hot controversy over the crime situation here by adopting a resolution denying that their morale was at a low ebb and voicing faith in their chief, Morgan A. Collins.

While policemen were adopting the resolution at a mass meeting Sunday night, criminals continued their depredations.

One man robbed the office of a fashionable family hotel, escaping with several thousands in cash and jewelry, but missing nearly $5,000 in valuables in the safety vault. A moron entered an apartment and attempted to attack two women. A grocer was probably fatally wounded in a robbery, while numerous robberies of minor character and other crimes were reported from all parts of the city.

SMALL FIRE; BIG THRILL

Blaze in Closet Routs Occupants of Apartment at Early Hour.

After Lieut. Ed Schubert and his squad aroused all the occupants of the Winona Apts., 635 Massachusetts Ave., early Sunday and prepared them for a hasty exit from the building, a blaze there was confined to a closet in the apartment of Mrs. Emma Sabin and caused only a $100 damage. Mrs. Sabin was found on the street in her bare feet and was housed in a fire engine house until the excitement was over. C. H. Riebe, fruit merchant, told police that while the fire was in progress a box of apples had been stolen from his store on the first floor.

'BETTER DAY' PREDICTED

State Chamber of Commerce Bulletin Praises Conference.

"Bringing together divergent groups for cooperative thought and action, such as the recent conferences on bus regulation and tax revision, mark the beginning of a better day for Indiana's industrial, commercial and agricultural interests," according to a bulletin issued by State Chamber of Commerce.

"When men of leading State organizations meet around a table and frankly exchange views, mutual understandings, based on fundamental principles, are reached and unified action follows," said George H. Mosser, manager.

HE'LL WAIT LONG TIME

Man Orders Pitcher or Orangeade—All He Gets Is "Gipped."

Charles Sialoff, 333 S. Emerson Ave., is still waiting for his pitcher of orangeade, police said today.

He called the Terminal Station from the Roosevelt Hotel at 6 a. m. today and asked Ban Hook, 329 W. Twenty-Eighth St., proprietor of a soft drink stand, to come over to the hotel, get a pitcher and take back some orangeade, according to police.

Hook couldn't understand him and a taxi driver talked. He said the stand wasn't open.

Meanwhile some one called at Sialoff's room, took the pitcher and a $5 bill and failed to return, police were told.

Justice W. W. Graves of the Supreme Court administered the oath of office.

A Puzzle a Day

This puzzle can be solved best by using 14 matches. The problem is to lay 14 matches in such a position that they will form five perfect diamonds of equal size, with no matches left over.

Can you do it?

Answer to previous puzzle:

There were 11 baskets and 180 each of apples and oranges. The man put 12 apples in each basket, and 15 oranges in each; a difference of 3. He had 45 apples left over, and 15 oranges, a difference of 30. Therefore, by dividing 3 into 30, 11 is obtained as the number of baskets.

To find the number of apples: 12 times 11 (equals 132) plus 45 equals 180.

To find the number of oranges: 15 times 11 (equals 165) plus 15 equals 180.

Oh Chaplin!

Indianapolis Cop's Got a Good Slap-Stick Plot for You—He'll Sell It Cheap.

HERE'S a plot from real life that a Motocycleman C. J. Griffin says he'll sell cheap to Charlie Chaplin for movie purposes.

Sunday night Griffin started to chase a speeder south in Shelby St., near Iowa St. A motorist swerved out to avoid a parked automobile and drove Griffin toward a northbound street car. Griffin swung into a curb and fell off.

As he landed on his back, Griffin saw his machine about to land on top of him. He kicked with all his might and the motorcycle, having a side car, righted itself. The engine still was running and the cycle headed rapidly north in Shelby St. At Iowa St. the vehicle climbed halfway up the steps of St. Marks colored church, tore off several feet of railing and ended its spree in a wreck on the ground.

NEW ROAD PETITIONED

Short Highway in Jasper and Newton Counties Asked.

The public service commission has received petition of interested parties for a new road between Jasper and Newton Counties to cross New York Central railroad tracks. The road, about two miles long, called the Split Road, will connect with a Lake County macadam road, the petition says.

The matter probably will be turned over to Commissioner Frank T. Singleton, acting in unofficial capacity as safety director.

HOW MOTHERS CAN BE FLAPPERS, TOO

By MRS. WALLACE REID

This is the fifth of a series of six articles written by Mrs. Wallace Reid, wife of the late film star, on the problems confronting young people and their parents—today.

B E a "Do" parent—not a "Don't" parent. Do you know what I mean? For instance, how much better results we get when we say, "Now, if I were you I would do it this way," than when we snap out, "Don't do that!"

You hear a lot about parents being chums of their children. It is a hard thing to accomplish when they start to grow up, but it is a wonderful situation. And "Don't" parents never succeed.

If you reason with a child it is very apt to remember what you say and to profit by the lesson. If you yell "shut up" at your children, they will yell it at the neighbors.

Preaching and arbitrary commands are not likely to make children think for themselves. The former makes them yearn for solitude, and the latter makes them rebellious.

A quiet talk and an explanation of some difficulty or problem is pretty apt to make the youngster think for himself.

And that is true education.

I am reminded of a friend of mine who has two daughters of the "flapper" age. This friend was the "bad sheep" of her family. She nearly drove her people to distraction with her schoolgirl escapades. As a girl she was so full of life she could scarcely find expression for her pent-up enthusiasm and energy. The result was a series of difficulties at home which led to her running away from school, and rather than return she married at a very young age.

Today this friend has one of the happiest homes I know. She is a real companion to her lovely girls, who worship her. Their home is the meeting place for all the young people in the neighborhood. Still young herself, this mother enters into the affairs of the young people with all the zest of another flapper.

The
