

OUT OF THE ASHES NEW CHURCH WILL BE ERECTED SOON

Rev. Weber In Sermon
Draws Lesson From Recent Fires.

Out of the ashes of the destroyed First Moravian Episcopal Church at 2502 College Ave., a new $50,000 structure will be built.

Recently the church was destroyed by fire, and out of this tragedy Rev. Christian O. Weber, pastor, based his Sunday night sermon.

Services are being held for the present at a residence, 658 E. Twenty-fifth St., until building plans are completed. The Rev. Mr. Weber announced that the church council has decided to build a new $50,000 church. About $30,000 has already been subscribed, he stated.

Just where the new structure will be located has not been decided as yet. A new site may be selected.

In his sermon, the Rev. Weber pointed out that the recent fire has served to draw the congregation closer together. Nine new members were taken in a week ago and seven yesterday. He based his sermon on Ezekiel's vision of the Valley of Death.

"Ashes bring life into a congregation," the Rev. Weber said. "At times it is hard to see God's plan, but it is God's plan to draw a congregation closer together."

He reviewed the early persecution of the church and "we are now being tried," he said.

"HOMESTEAD MOTHER"

"Boardwalk Preacher" Gives Talk at Y. M. Bg. Meeting.

America's chief asset, today is memory of the old homestead mother, declared the Rev. Robert A. Elwood, "boardwalk preacher of Atlantic City," Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. Big Meeting at the English Theater.

"She was old-fashioned, I know, but I would rather be old-fashioned and be right than to be the most up-to-date and the smartest devil and be wrong," he said. The Big Meeting orchestra, led by L. A. Von Staden, gave a thirty-minute concert.

Had it not been for the police, Dick Wayne, 35, giving his address as city, would have probably been wrapped in eternal sleep. Motor police Ferguson and Tague who arrested Wayne for intoxication said they found him asleep with his shoes off on a railroad track at Blvd. Rd. and Belt Railway Saturday.

Gov. Jackson's Address

Governor Ed Jackson in his inaugural address today said:

In assuming the obligation that the taking of this oath involves, I trust that I am duly appreciative of the very high honor conferred upon me. The holding of office cannot clothe the holder with honor unless the office be honored by the conscientious discharge of its duties by the holder. The Government belongs to the people. We who hold their commission are only their servants. The rights of the people must be guarded with an ever zealous and watchful eye. We should stand firmly against the tendency toward too much government. The people have to bear the burden of their government, and this burden should be made to rest as lightly as possible.

Believes in Government

We have, in my judgment, the best form of government in the world. We must allow nothing to insinuate itself into our government that will weaken or be detrimental to it. Our government is composed of three distinct departments: the executive, legislative and judicial. The prerogatives of one department should not be encroached upon by another.

In the discharge of the duties of public office, the exercise of calm, deliberate and unbiased judgment, as well as courage, is required.

Public Servant Owes All

There will be those who will offer counsel from a class viewpoint, also those whose counsel will be prompted by selfish motives; there will be others who will attempt to dictate and, failing in that, will try to harm by criticism. Against all of these one must be fortified by manly courage sufficient to do right unflinched and undeterred. A public servant owes all to those whom he serves.

I renew the pledge contained in the obligation just taken to discharge every duty conscientiously, faithfully and fearlessly to the very best of my ability. I have great faith in the people. I have absolute faith in the God of nations, the Creator of all things. By His grace and leadership I hope to acquit myself that I may at all times deserve and retain the confidence of the people and His approval.

COOLIDGE PLANS TO DIRECT U. S. FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Hughes' Resignation Gives Opportunity to Take Active Control.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—With the announced resignation of Secretary of State Hughes, President Coolidge today prepared to take over active control of American foreign policy and drive toward further international disarmament and world peace.

While Hughes' withdrawal on March 4, after brilliant achievements, is regretted by the President, it gives Coolidge an opportunity to himself direct foreign affairs.

In Frank Kellogg, now ambassador to London, he has chosen as his new head of the State Department a man who will execute Coolidge's policies and dispel possible Senate opposition. The other member of the triumvirate whom the President has picked with himself and Kellogg to conduct foreign affairs, is William E. Borah, chairman of the important Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Cooperation Necessary

It is vitally necessary to Mr. Coolidge as a party leader that the new Secretary of State be able to work with Borah. Kellogg is expected to meet Borah half way.

The President is taking over control at a time of natural transition in American foreign affairs when many of Hughes' policies have culminated and a fresh situation is developing.

Disputes over gun elevation and other provisions and competition in aircraft and cruisers, however, create need for another conference and greater limitation of armaments.

Long negotiations for funding the French debt have finally resulted in a deadlock and another drive is on to bring the United States into an inter-allied conference to pool and reduce debts.

The Chinese civil war and Japanese exclusion have created a fresh situation in our far eastern relations.

Soviet Recognition

Growing Russian-American trade relations, continued stability of the soviet government and its recognition by European nations, present in new form the question of extending American recognition.

The Davies plan for leading the country rapidly into further participation into European affairs, the question arises, "how far?"

With domestic issues well in hand and no internal crisis in the offing, the European problems have challenged Coolidge's attention as the job of his next Administration.

MITES ARRANGED FOR FIRE VICTIM

Kenneth Smith to Be Buried at Lebanon.

Following a short funeral service at the Blasengren chapel, 2123 Shelby St., at 2 p. m. today, the body of Kenneth Smith, 21, of 523 W. Twenty-eighth St., second victim of a kerosene explosion at his home Wednesday morning, was to be taken to Lebanon, Ind., for burial Tuesday at 2 p. m. He died at the city hospital Sunday.

Coroner Paul F. Robinson said today he probably will begin investigation of the blast Wednesday. He delayed investigation of the death of Mrs. Rosa Smith, 42, mother of Kenneth, because of the son's oration condition.

Mrs. Smith, it is said, poured kerosene on the smoldering coals in a kitchen range and the can exploded. Kenneth heard her screams and that of his wife, Mrs. La Vonne Smith, 16, who was slightly burned by the blast and rushed into the kitchen. He was overcome and found on the kitchen floor by neighbors.

MURDERS SHOW ALARMING GAIN

Auto Deaths Also Jump, Says Coroner in Report.

An alarming increase in murders and deaths from automobile accidents and a decrease in deaths in railroad accidents, suicides and drownings in 1934, are shown in the annual report of Coroner Paul F. Robinson, made public today. The coroner investigated 682 deaths during the year.

Robinson reported fifty-four homicides in 1934, as compared with twenty-nine in 1933; ninety-four deaths caused by automobiles in 1934, compared with sixty-seven in 1933. Railroad accident deaths decreased from forty-seven in 1933 to ten in 1934; suicides, seventy-seven in 1933 and sixty-four in 1934; drownings, seventeen in 1933 and thirteen in 1934.

Accidental poisoning caused sixteen deaths in 1934; burns, nineteen; alcoholism, seven; interurban accidents, seven; accidental falls, twenty-eight; blood poisoning, sixteen.

NEW BANK BILL DRAWN

State Department Plans Changes in Laws.

Changes in State banking laws, designed to promote security and strength of banks, are proposed in a bill drafted for the State banking department, which has 383 banks under its supervision.

The bill, intended to make the laws conform more with National banking statutes and add security for stockholders and depositors, limits loss to bank officers to an aggregate not to exceed half the bank's capital, and provides subscribers of stock must be worth at least three times the value of stock they purchase.

The banking department also is seeking authority to hire more examiners. Nine are employed now.

Van Orman's Speech

Lieutenant Governor F. Harold Van Orman, Evansville, after his inauguration at the Statehouse this afternoon, said:

"In accepting the office of Lieutenant Governor of the State of Indiana, two thoughts are uppermost in my mind. First, the desire to emulate the splendid and efficient record of my predecessor, Governor Emmett Forrest Branch, who suggested worthy reforms in legislative work and who presided with such outstanding fairness and dignity, and secondly, a deep appreciation of the responsibilities of the office to which I have been elected."

"Indiana is politically unique in that her people, throughout the State, take an unusually keen and appreciative interest in the affairs of its lawmaking bodies. As a result, it becomes doubly pleasant to serve in any State office."

Favors Deliberation

"I am opposed to excessive legislation, the result of thoughtless bills presented for personal gain, and I shall advocate a great, calm and thoughtful in the reading of bills that are eventually to become laws written upon our statute books. I believe it every man's duty to respect and uphold the laws that do exist, and, for this reason, I ask that much time and deliberation be given to all bills presented."

"In this, the men who are to serve with me, will, I am sure, sincerely agree. In the beginning this government was designed so that we might remain masters of it, not mastered by it."

Partisanship Ended

"Partisanship ended at the polls. We, who are assuming the duties of office today, are here to serve all the people of this state, irrespective of political affiliations. I shall be satisfied if, at the end of my term in office four years hence, it can truthfully be said that I have served faithfully and without prejudice, all the people of this commonwealth. With a body of such capable men in the Senate at this time, I feel confident that in the next four years there will be enacted only sane, efficient and constructive legislation."

Praises Ed Jackson

"I am particularly fortunate in serving under such a splendid man as Governor Ed Jackson, a man of highest ideals and morals, a man marked by an inherent sense of honor and responsibility. It will be a pleasure to work for him and with him in making this a successful administration."

"Deep within all of us is the realization of the essential spiritual quality that is the foundation of our Government. We must look to a higher source for our inspiration, for it is upon the unchanging law of God that the principles of American justice are founded."

"As Carlyle has said, 'If there be not a religious element in the relations of men, such relations are miserable and doomed to ruin.'"
