

TARZAN of THE APES

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

BEGIN HERE

May 1888. John Clayton, Lord Greystoke, and his wife, Ruthford, and their son, Tarzan, sail from Dover for a British post in Africa. During mutiny, the crew mutinied and were killed and the Clays are landed on isolated jungle shores. A year after Tarzan is killed by an ape. A mother ape steals the Clayton child and drops him. She nurses the white child and at 10 years Tarzan (meaning white skin) comes to the cabin. He gains access to the Clayton hut and from pictures in a child's primer learns that he is the son of a white man. He reads all he reads in his father's books, but he cannot speak English. He did not understand anything of the motives behind all that he had seen; but, somehow, intuitively he liked the young man and the two old men, and for the girl he had a strange longing which he scarcely understood. As for the big black woman, she was evidently connected in some way to the girl, and so he liked her, also.

He did not understand anything of the motives behind all that he had seen; but, somehow, intuitively he liked the young man and the two old men, and for the girl he had a strange longing which he scarcely understood. As for the big black woman, she was evidently connected in some way to the girl, and so he liked her, also.

For the sailors, and especially Snipes, he had developed a great hatred. He knew by their threatening gestures and by their expressions upon their evil faces that they were enemies of the others of the party, and so he decided to watch them closely.

Tarzan wondered why the men had gone into the jungle, nor did it ever occur to him that one could become lost in that maze of undergrowth which to him was as simple as is the main street of your own home town to you.

When he saw the sailors row away toward the ship, and knew that the girl and her companion were safe in his cabin, Tarzan decided to follow the young man into the jungle and learn what his errand might be. He swam off rapidly in the direction taken by Clayton, and in a short time heard faintly in the distance the now only occasional calls of the Englishman to his friends.

Presently Tarzan came up with the white man, who, though fagged, was leaning against a tree wiping the perspiration from his forehead. The ape-man, hiding safe behind a screen of foliage, sat watching this new specimen of his own race in-tinty.

At intervals Clayton called aloud and finally it came to Tarzan that he was searching for the old man. Tarzan was on the point of going off to look for them himself, when he caught the yellow glint of a sleek hide moving cautiously through the jungle toward Clayton.

It was Sheeta, the leopard. Now Tarzan heard the soft bending of grasses and wondered why the young white man was not warned. Could it be he had failed to note the loud warning? Never before had Tarzan known Sheeta to be so clumsy.

No, the white man did not hear. Sheeta was crouching for the spring, and then, shrill and horrible, there rose upon the stillness of the jungle the awful cry of the challenging ape, and Sheeta turned, crashing into the underbrush.

Clayton came to his feet with a start. His blood ran cold. Never in all his life had so fearful a sound smote upon his ears. He was no coward; but if ever man felt the icy fingers of fear upon his heart, William Cecil Clayton, eldest son of Lord Greystoke of England, did that day in the fastness of the African jungle.

The noise of some great body crashing through the underbrush only close beside him, and the sound of that blood-curdling shriek from above, tested Clayton's courage to the limit; but he could not know that it was to that very voice he owed his life, nor that the creature who hurled it forth was his own cousin—the real Lord Greystoke.

The afternoon was drawing to a close, and Clayton, disheartened and discouraged, was in a terrible quandary as to the proper course to pursue; whether to keep on in search of Professor Porter, at the almost certain risk of his own death in the jungle by night, or to return to the cabin where he might at least serve to protect Jane Porter from the perils which confronted her on all sides.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Menth-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Menth-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Advertisement.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in removing the irritants of the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually a simple sugar syrup.

To make the best syrup, with remedy that money can buy, put 24 ounces of Pine in a pint bottle, and fill up with common table sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for the same price.

It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can easily take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business and a cough may be dry, loose and tight, and may be productive.

The cause is the same—inflamed membranes, and the Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

There is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

For the benefit of those who are not physicians, we will give you directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Linex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

Man Could Not Eat Stomach Full of Gas

Everything He Ate Caused Stomach to Bloat

"I could not eat anything without my stomach bloating or swelling up. Now I can eat anything. Adlerika is the best stomach medicine I ever saw." (Signed) R. T. Carters.

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and the contraction of the intestinal canal—(GAS). This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the bowels of matter which have been retained a long time and which other less effective means have been unable to dislodge. It is often astonishing the great amount of matter which is removed from the intestinal canal—even right after a strenuous movement it sometimes brings out unexpected quantities of additional matter. Adlerika is the best laxative for the GAS, and its relaxing power on the abdominal organs is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of metabolic poisons from the body.

In slight disorders such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel irritation), a single spoonful of Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In cases of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not bring relief in 24 to 36 hours, the advice of a reputable physician should be secured.

Report from Physicians

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika. I have prescribed it. (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"I prescribed Adlerika with highly satisfactory results." (Signed) Dr. A. C. (Name given on request).

"Adlerika is the best without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. H. H. H. (Name given on request).

"E. Puckett (a user of Adlerika) writes: 'After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't January 1st for 20 years. Adlerika has eliminated from my system.'

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. In Indianapolis by the Hook Drug Co.—Advertisement.
