BOND PETITION FILED

Citizens Gas Company Asks Right to Sell Issue.

Petition to transfer $54,000 in bonds of the Indianapolis Gas Company to the Citizens Gas Company was filed by the Indianapolis Gas Company with the public service commission today.

At the same time the Citizens Company filed a petition to sell the bonds to pay for improvements and betterments to service during the first half of 1924.

The lease by which the Citizens Gas Company took over its old competitor in 1913 for ninety-nine years provided that $7,500,000 in fifty-year 5 per cent first mortgage gold bonds be deposited with a trustee and that the Citizens Company could draw upon these for improvements.

There are today 3,500,000 radio receiving sets in the United States.

SENATORS BITTER IN DISCUSSION OF BIBLE EDUCATION

Bill Providing Instruction Out of School Goes to Second Reading.

By a viva voce after an hour of bitter debate, majority report of the Senate Education Committee on the Dickerman bill providing for 120 hours' weekly religious instruction for school children was accepted today and the bill passed to second reading. A minority report recommending indefinite postponement was lost by a viva voce vote.

The bill, backed by representatives of Protestant, Jewish and Catholic Churches, provides for religious training outside of school, with school credit.

A motion by Senator Perkins, Democrat, South Bend, to postpone action until Friday was lost on viva voce vote.

Sims Objects

Senator Sims, Terre Haute, who introduced a bill Wednesday providing for reading of the Bible without comment in public schools, said he was bitterly opposed to passing the Dickerman bill and taking children out of school for religious instruction.

Senator Dickerman, author of the measure, in a lengthy speech said, in part:

"Religious education has been coming to the front during the past few years. Last week a notable conference was held in Indianapolis attended by representatives from all principal denominations.

"The ultimate object of religious education is that the child shall become a useful beneficial citizen to the State.

An instance of education without religious education was the recent Leopold-Leob case in Chicago.

"Whenever religion is made compulsory, it ceases to be religion and this measure makes it optional that the parent who wishes his child to have religious instruction may do so."

School Credit

Senator Perkins: "What about this credit received for such instruction—will it apply on credits for graduation?"

Dickerman: "No; credits are given merely on attendance as required by the truancy law."

Senator Harrison: "How will this apply in country districts where they have school hatches?"

Dickerman: "That is a matter for the community to work out."

Perkins: "Isn't it a fact that these people who are demanding religious education feel themselves slipping and now seek secular assistance?"

Dickerman: "This bill has been introduced by all denominations."

Senator Sims: "Does not this bill legalize absence from school which is compulsory under the law?"

"What About Sundays?"

Dickerman: "Under this bill any church, religious association or denomination could provide for the religious instruction and parents could designate which they child could attend."

Senator Quillen: "There is a tendency here to becloud the issue. The simplest explanation is that children would merely receive Sunday school instruction every day in the week instead of Sunday."

Senator Fitch: "Do I understand the intent is to let children go to baseball games and the like on Sunday and attend Sunday school during the week?"

Demand for vote closed debate.
