Elaborate Costumes Mark
Annual Ball.

The gay colors of the balloons which decorated the Athenaeum Thursday evening for the annual Little Theatre Society Costume Ball vied with the elaborate and beautiful costumes worn by the dancers. More than 1,000 persons were present.

Miss Eleanor Lambert and Murry Wickard were awarded prizes for the most beautiful costumes and R. Hartley Sherwood, as Henry VIII, received the prize for the most historically authentic costume. Prizes for originality of costumes were awarded to Mrs. Henry I. Raymond Jr., Stephenson Hughes and Lester Horton, and for the most grotesque, Miss Sara Lauter and H. L. Ernest. Miss Myrtle Lewark and Clarence Wesner received prizes for being the best costumed couple.

Judges were Clifton Wheeler, Miss Florence Finch, Randolph LaSalle Costa, Robert Frost Daggett, John B. Reynolds and Herbert Foltz.

"A THIEF IN PARADISE"

FROM Leonard Mer-ric's novel "The Wordings," with the most popular stars on the screen today portraying its thrilling theme. Not a dull moment in the story.

Ronald Colman as the love thief who purloined another's name and won the love of his sweetheart, Aileen Pringle as the sly-eyed siren of the South seas is an epitomization of San Francisco's gayest bohemia.

Doris Kenyon as the heroine who loved the "thief."

And there's Claude Gil-lingwater, Alex Frances and John Patrick.

A truly remarkable pic-ture. You'll enjoy it.

Bride in Chicago on Honeymoon

MRS. FRANCIS A. LINTON

Mrs. Francis A. Linton was, until her marriage Thursday afternoon, Miss Marguerite Culbertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Culbertson. The ceremony not for the gaiety of Mrs. Atherton at the office I think I would just have to go out and get a glorious 'bum' notwithstanding the eighteenth amendment.

"Well, Jack," I retorted hotly, "if that is the case with you, what about me? Don't you think that I have been pretty solemn lately and I have to live with the solemnity all the time. I can't get away into a new train of thought which will absorb me to such an extent as the business does you."

"If it be necessary to go and get drunk to bring one's self back to normal let's get drunk together."

I laughed, little Marquise. For once I saw humor in Jack's face. He looked at me in utter surprise. That any woman, least of all his wife, should suggest getting drunk as a panacea for boredom and discontent was beyond him. That was purely a man's prerogative. His face expressed absolute incomprehension of me and my mood.

"After a moment he seemed to come to some decision for he came and put his hand upon my shoulder."

"Leslie," he said, "you had better go and lie down. You know, dear, that you are tired out."

I don't know, little Marquise, if you ever felt the way I did then. But if there is one thing that exasperates me more than anything else, it is to be told that when I am all tired out and ill when what ails me is that my pride is hurt and my heart is aching.

"I never felt better fit physically in my life, Jack," I answered, "but I am quite as bored and tired of it all as you. I know I am ugly. Consequently it makes me more conscious of my disfigurement when you rave over some other woman's beautiful form."

"Perhaps it is silly, but I can't help it, and I don't believe that you would try to help it under the same circumstances."

I have written this to you, little Marquise, because I told it to my mother this morning when I went to her and asked her what I should do.

"Do you really want my advice?" my dear mother asked of me.

"Of course I do," was my quick and decisive answer.

"Well, then, you must send for Jack."

"You know, mother, that he is in the wrong. Why should I always be the first to make up?"

"Simply because you are a woman," she answered serenely.

"Must women always do that?" I asked rebelliously.

"At least three times a week and if necessary more."

HE HAD COLD FEET

Heaves Concrete Through Window to Steal Shoes.

The burglar who threw a large concrete block through the window of a store at 2201 Martindale Ave., had cold feet, police believe.

Abraham Drusler, proprietor of the dry goods, clothing store said a pair of shoes were the only thing taken.

One dollar in change was taken by a burglar who entered the Omar Wyley, grocery, 801 S. Capitol Ave.

MODERN WOODMAN REVEALS SECRET

Mr. W. H. Vandeyce, Well Known Locally, Refers to Todd's Tonic as Key to His Remarkable Good Health.

"For several years I suffered with stomach trouble. After eating, my food turned to gas and I had a bloated, stuffy, uncomfortable feeling for hours. I was tired all the time and after an ordinary day's work I was hardly able to drag one foot after the other. My nerves were in bad shape and I didn't sleep soundly. I had a pain in my back that cut like a knife. I was constipated, too. I spent hundreds of dollars for medicine, but I might as well have saved my money for I

Sister Mary's Kitchen

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, codfish and potato puffs, corn bread, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Bean soufflé, brown bread and butter sandwiches, apple and celery salad, caramel junket, plain cake, milk, tea.
Dinner—Beef a la mode, mashed potatoes, buttered parsnips, beet salad, peach snow cake, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

A soft-boiled egg or lamb chop should be served to children under school age in place of the bean soufflé for luncheon.

The other dishes mentioned in the day's menu can be served at a mother's discretion.

Bean Soufflé

One-half cup dried beans, ¼ cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon bacon fat, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt.

Pick over and wash beans and let stand over night in cold water.

Parboil beans in water to which one-half teaspoon of soda has been added. Drain and rinse in cold water. Cover with boiling water and cook until tender. Rub through a vegetable ricer or colander. There should be three-fourths or one cup of sifted beans.

Melt bacon fat, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth.

Add beans, salt and paprika and yolks of eggs beaten until thick. Mix thoroughly and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

When firm to the touch the soufflé is done. Serve at once in the dish in which it was baked.

Plain Cake

One cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1½ cups flour, 3 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg, milk.

Mix and sift flour, sugar, cream of tartar, soda and salt. Break egg into measuring cup and fill cup with milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat until smooth.

Add melted butter and vanilla and beat well. Turn into a buttered and floured loaf cake pan and bake forty minutes in a moderate oven.

'PETER PAN' SATURDAY

Jelliffe Funeral Held

Funeral services for William Jelliffe of New York, whose widow was Miss Myla Hare, 37 W. Forty-third St., before her marriage several months ago, were held in New York today. Jelliffe was found dead in their apartment Wednesday.

Relatives said he accidentally shot himself.

Before our quarrel my husband always told me just what he did, and we were very happy. But since he was very cool, and I am miserable because I am sure there is some other woman. Don't you think I'm right?

UNHAPPY.

You must certainly are not. Happy marriages are built on trust, not suspicion.

Be careful or you will send your marriage on the rocks. Evidently your husband has endured your questioning thus far because the newness of the honeymoon had not worn off. Now the thing for you to do is to retreat, and hereafter to build a foundation of trust.

Not another woman, but the dislike every man has of feeling his every move is watched, probably prompted your husband to take this step.

'Jailer Wife' Has Slim Hold on Her Husband

The "jailer wife" usually is very proud of her hold over her husband. She thinks it is because he loves her that he permits her to open his mail, answers her innumerable questions regarding his business affairs, and accounts to her for his every action.

"There is no secrecy to mar our home," is her boast.

And, I always think, there is no privacy in your home, either, nor is there any trust.

The husband of the "jailer wife" usually submits to her will, through sheer weariness, rather than endure her suspicion—unless, of course, he finds either unbearable. But he is humiliated by it.

Chances are he doesn't have anything to conceal, anyway. And, if he did have he would find some way to keep it concealed.

Suspicious Wife

Dear Miss Lee: I am 24 years old and have been married two years. Until the last two weeks my husband and I have been very happy. We had a terrible quarrel then because I found he was having all his mail sent to his office. He said he did it because I always opened his letters. Miss Lee, don't you think I have a right to be suspicious when he does this?

Before our quarrel my husband always told me just what he did, and we were very happy. But since he was very cool, and I am miserable because I am sure there is some other woman. Don't you think I'm right?
