

FORMER HEALTH OFFICER DENIES HANDLING GERMS

New Angle in Shepherd Case as Man Wanted by Crowe Gives Self Up.

By United Press
CHICAGO, April 7.—Winifred S. Hoerger, former Chicago city health inspector, who is said to have provided Dr. C. C. Faiman with germs to kill Billy McClintock, gave himself up today. He was immediately taken before Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Court, who has been investigating McClintock's death. Hoerger denied ever making any statement that he had given Faiman germs.

Following his conference with Judge Olson, he was taken to State's Attorney's office, where prosecutors will again question him. John Campbell, attorney for relatives of McClintock, says he will produce two witnesses who will swear that Hoerger told them he gave Faiman the germs which caused McClintock's death.

Dr. Faiman said he got the germs from Hoerger and gave them to William D. Shepherd, former Indianapolis man.

Hoerger was formerly receiving clerk for all other cases that came to the health department, and was at the same time connected with Dr. Faiman's school, the National University of Sciences.

Shepherd and Faiman are under indictment for the murder of McClintock, charged with having administered typhoid fever germs to the youth, who died leaving the major part of his estate to his foster father.

HERRIOT LEAD SLIPPING FAST

Interest Rate on Proposed Capital Loans Cut.

By United Press
PARIS, April 7.—A concession to capitalists whereby the rate of interest on voluntary contributions proposed as one of the means whereby Finance Minister De Monzie hopes to save the franc was lowered from 4 to 3 per cent mark, the only departure in the government's plan when it was submitted to the chamber of deputies today.

The proposal has been given support of the cabinet and government forces are preparing for a final fight which may mean the end of the Herriot premiership.

Despite the tense atmosphere occasioned by the introduction of the bill, the danger of an immediate crisis was averted when De Monzie suggested a special session for tomorrow afternoon to discuss the measure. To this the chamber agreed.

Ela Tells About Chapman

Postal Inspector, Witness, Says Gerald Is Good Yarn Spinner.

Gerald Chapman, nationally notorious criminal sentenced to hang June 25, has a keen sense of humor and enjoys telling of anecdotes incident to his many escapades, according to W. C. Ela, postal inspector, who has returned from Chapman's trial at Hartford, Conn., where Ela was subpoenaed.

On one occasion, Chapman told Ela, he had entered a store and had planted nitroglycerine to blow a safe. He went out to the sidewalk to await the explosion.

The town marshal accosted him, and began talking. Chapman said, Chapman was worried and hoped the marshal would leave before the blast occurred. Suddenly the charge exploded with a dull rumble. A flash of light appeared on the plate-glass window of the store.

The marshal looked up at the sky and exclaimed, "Gosh, I hope it don't rain before morning." He had mistaken the explosion and flash for lightning and thunder, and hurried away on his beat.

burn and Raymond Powell, 2126 N. Meridian St., authorities say.

According to police, Martin and Lyness tried to pass Smith Martin, 39, of 727 Congress Ave., son-in-law of Blackburn, who was acting doorkeeper, without a ticket. Blackburn, also a doorkeeper, tried to keep the two from entering but left when Miss Reddick appeared and talked with the two.

It is charged that while Miss Reddick had gone upstairs for her wraps, Blackburn returned with a revolver.

During a scuffle between Martin and Blackburn, it is said, Martin was shot. The bullet entered the right shoulder, ranged downward through the lung to the hip. Martin fell into the arms of a man who walked with him to his machine parked at Michigan and Ogden Sts.

Dewey Wilson, 4016 College Ave., and Orla Woody, 1603 Central Ave., who went to the Murat Theater while the others entered the Athenaeum, rushed Martin to city hospital. He died Sunday morning.

Gun Found

Blackburn was arrested shortly after midnight as he arrived home from the dance. Police could not find the gun which Blackburn is alleged to have shot Martin with.

Walter Martin, 13, son of Smith Martin, showed officers where he had thrown it in Crown Hill cemetery. He said his father told him to throw it there as they were driving home.

Martin was a graduate of Shortridge High School in 1919. He was active in athletics.

ASTORIA POLICE CLEANED UP BY MANAGER PLAN

Oregon City Reports That Corruption and Scandal Are Gone.

"For the first time in years the police department is functioning without scandals or charges of corruption."

This happy condition exists in Astoria, Ore., which has been under the city manager plan of government since 1923.

Following is the entire telegram, of which the above is a part, received by The Times in reply to an inquiry as to how the plan works.

"City manager plan here has resulted in first definite program for putting city on sound financial basis. Taxes are higher this year, but accounted for by provisions made for sinking fund and for keeping within budget. Old policy was for low levy and issuance of warrants far in excess of income without sinking fund provisions.

On Cash Basis

"City on cash basis first time in years and bonds selling at premium whereas for fifteen years before have sold at big discount. Credit and financial standing have been improved in marked degree as result of policies adopted by our city manager.

"There is much less politics injected into administration of city business and for first time in years police department is functioning without scandals or charges of corruption."

"C. I. BARR, secretary Astoria Chamber of Commerce.

In Muskegon, Mich.

The following reply was received from Muskegon, Mich.: Our city manager plan of government has been in effect in Muskegon since 1920. We have found it far superior to former system, resulting in increased efficiency.

"Public improvements are made in logical sequence and in accordance with well developed plans prepared by best engineering talent in the country.

"Underground work precedes surface construction and every sewer or water main trunk line laid anticipates twenty years' growth.

"Partisan politics have been entirely eliminated. Our city taxes are higher, but we are getting results and all elements of the city seem to be satisfied.

"J. O. BEUKEMA, Muskegon Chamber of Commerce."

Wheeling, W. Va., Chamber of Commerce sent this reply:

"City manager has been highly successful here for eight years. It makes for greater efficiency, economy and honesty, and is more responsive to public opinion than old federal plan. This city will never return to old plan."

"H. P. CORCORAN, manager Wheeling Chamber of Commerce."

QUARRY DEAL HELD UP

Former Owners and Attorneys at Odds Over Fees.

State warrants for purchase of equipment formerly belonging to the Big Four Stone Quarry near Pendleton, which was to be taken over for use by the Indiana State Reformatory, possibly may be withheld as a result of controversy between former owners of the quarry and attorneys, it developed today.

R. C. Parrish and Sam Jackson, who acted as legislative counsel for the quarry company during the Legislature, called today at office of L. Bowman, State auditor, in an effort to stay payment pending settlement of attorneys' fees. The Legislature appropriated $40,000 with which to buy the quarry equipment and the deal was approved some time ago by Governor Jackson.

"How do you know they are your pants?" City Judge Delbert O. Wilmett asked Raymond Sweeney, colored, 846 W. Eleventh St., in city court today when James Binford, colored, 854 Corbett St., was arraigned on a charge of stealing them.

"Listen Judge," said Mrs. Sweeney. "I know they are. There's a spot on them I couldn't get out." And she grabbed Binford, threw his coat back and showed the spot to the judge.

"Fifteen dollars and costs," said Judge Wilmett to Binford.

CITY MANAGER HEADS NAMED

W. H. Insley, president Insley Manufacturing Company; I. E. Woodward, vice president Acme-Evans Company; J. H. Lowry, president of the Lowry Nursery and Landscape Company; J. R. Beckett, attorney; Ed J. Gausepohl, president of E. J. Gausepohl & Co.

Miss Edith Huser, principal Public School No. 18; Mrs. George C. Finck and Meredith Nicholson, author.

"This is not a movement aimed at any candidate for mayor, nor at any city administration," said Chairman Coffin.

No Politics

"It grows out of a conviction that has been gathering force for a long time that the conduct of the business of a city is and always should be a nonpartisan job; that there is no such distinction in municipal government as a Republican or Democratic method of taxation, street improvements, police or fire protection, or, in fact, in the management of any of the numerous public business interests.

"There is a sincere desire on the part of people of all occupations to have the business of the public conducted with the same economy and efficiency as is the business of great factories, department stores and financial institutions.

"It is the growing belief that the nonpartisan city manager plan of municipal government will secure this result.

330 Cities

"Of more than 330 cities that have adopted the city manager plan fewer than five have returned to the former political program. In all of these cities taxes have been reduced, greater efficiency in the police and fire departments has been secured and greater harmony and uniformity of method in the solution of municipal problems generally have been achieved.

"Eminent thinkers and public men of affairs have approved the city manager plan as the best form of city government yet devised."

Every class of citizens will be asked to co-operate with the Committee of 1460, Coffin said. The petition, which will be filed within a few days with city council, asking an election on the question, will contain 40,000 names, is the aim of the committee. The necessary number is 20,000.

The people are signing petitions not only when presented, but in large numbers are asking an opportunity to sign," he said.

Coffin said that after the petition is filed an active campaign of education will be staged before the election. Literature will be distributed, meetings will be held and special speakers detailed to set forth in detail advantages of city manager plan as experienced in other cities.

Leaders are confident they will obtain in a short time the balance of the 20,000 voters' signatures needed to have the city council call a special election on the question of changing the city government to the city manager system. Thousands have already signed.

DAYTON (Ohio) Speaker

Edmund R. Bates, city purchasing agent of Dayton, Ohio, which has operated successfully for years under city manager plan, explained his city government to the Indianapolis Purchasing Agents Association at a noon luncheon in the Severin. The civic affairs committee of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce also discussed the subject at a noon luncheon.

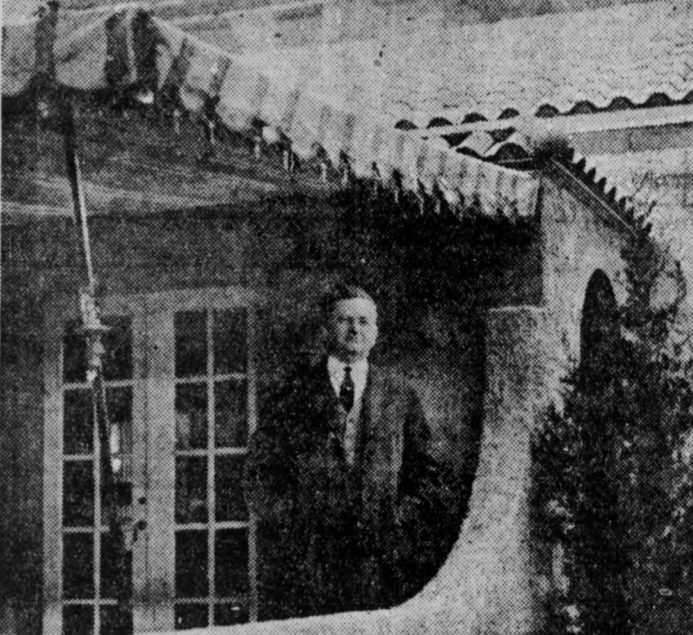

"Chief advantages of the manager plan are that authority and responsibility are centralized in the manager and an uninterrupted program is possible," Bates said.

"Under the commission plan the commissioners sit in judgment of their own acts. Legislative and administrative matters should be handled separately."

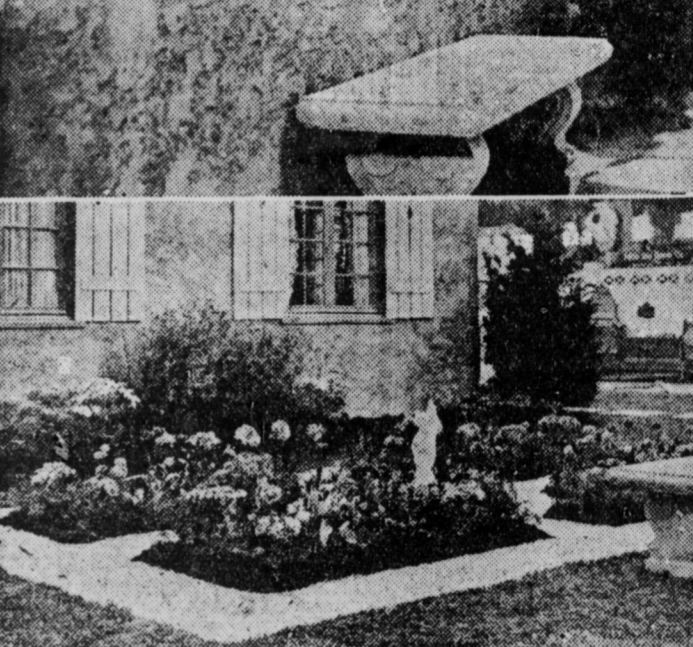

Bates pointed out the value of placing the city purchasing department on a business-like basis.

backing the proposal to adopt the city manager plan.

Fred Hoke, chairman of city interests committee of the Board of Trade, declared at a meeting Monday night at which the subject was discussed, that the matter "is of vital importance to the entire city and as such, of vital importance to every member of the Board of Trade."

Many Protestant ministers who attended the monthly meeting held at Roberts Park M. E. Church Monday of the Indianapolis Ministerial Association, signed a membership card in the Committee of 1,000, pledging time and money to the cause. They were given blank petitions to circulate for signatures.

Must Sign in Ink

Leaders of the committee of 1,000 stressed the point petitions must be signed in ink. Many sheets with signatures in pencil have been sent back to the circulator to correct the mistake.
