

'SUBURBS MUST MAKE WAY FOR BIGGER CHICAGO'

Sociologist Points to Inevitable Absorption by Giant City.

By United Press
EVANSTON, Ill., May 8.—Despite the objections of suburban citizens, the suburbs bounding Chicago will soon be federated into a solid mass with the middlewestern metropolis, said Prof. William Bailey, Northwestern University sociologist and specialist in population movements.

The borough systems of London and New York city are apt to be the solution to the problem, Prof. Bailey stated. Evanston, Oak Park, Wilmette, Niles Center, may be consolidated into Chicago as were all the suburbs of Berlin, when the German capital completely annexed all of its suburbs.

Prof. Bailey admits that the annexation is not likely to be popular with suburban dwellers, and deplores the supercilious attitude of the commuter toward the city.

"These towns, and especially Evanston, must realize that they are located in the path of the city, that they cannot hope to block progress of an irresistible force. It

Bossies Contesting for First Place

By Times Special
GENEVA, May 8.—Alpine cows in the Canton of Valais are having their annual fights, to determine which shall lead the herd until next spring.

The successful cow in each herd will carry a bell around her neck as the symbol of leadership. Next year the "queen" will have to fight two or three selected young cows to retain her title. The custom is observed with piousness, at which the Alpine villagers watch the fights. The cows are not injured, as the fights are merely exhibitions of strength.

is inevitable that the people must give up home residential districts, and that they will become a district of apartments and apartment hotels.

"Evanston should not grieve at giving up the title of 'college town' but should rather have pride in being known as a 'university city' he said. "This would be the cultural center for libraries, publishing, museums and galleries all centering around Northwestern University.

"Such a place would provide for a greater Chicago; the towns taken in might retain a certain amount of self-government; they might tax themselves, but they can not stay progress by smug self satisfaction."

FUNERAL SERVICE TODAY

Well-Known Engineer to Be Buried at Crown Hill.

Henry A. Mansfield, 57, engineer and contractor, was buried in Crown Hill cemetery following funeral services at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at Hisey & Titus funeral parlors, 951 N. Delaware St.

Mr. Mansfield, who was former city engineer, died Tuesday night at the residence, 2933 N. Meridian St.

During the thirty years he was in business he handled a number of large contracts. He was active in civic and club life.

The widow and a son, Freeland Mansfield, survive.

MOTHER— What Are You Doing to Compete With the

Joy Ride and Jazz Dance

Do your children prefer a Park Bench or a Parlor Suite? Look over your home and see if you can find an unattractive piece of furniture or rug that might keep daughter from entertaining her company at HOME! The only way to keep the children of today around the home circle is to offer them something MORE ATTRACTIVE than a wild auto ride or an all night jazz dance far away from your supervision.

A photograph offers you music for the home dance and a new overstuffed suite will do wonders to brighten up that living room.
