

SILENCE REIGNS AFTER ATTACK BY COUNCILMEN

Freeman Says Board of Works Will Say No More.

"Shush," the word of caution immortalized by William H. Freeman, board of works member, when city engineers and those connected with the board spoke right up in public about negotiations to determine proportionate cost of the $1,400,000 Belt Railroad bridge over White River, is again the "good word."

Freeman has announced that no more comment will issue from the board of works with respect to the councilmanic rebellion, which resulted from the board's refusal to move the city barns from Shelby St. near Fountain Square to the Lavelle foundry building on Palmer St., east of Madison Ave., and alleged unfulfillment of promises to councilmen made by city officials and board members.

Mayor Also Silent

Mayor Shank is also silent concerning the insurgents. "Watchful waiting" for the next move is his policy.

Otto Ray, rebellion leader, announced hostilities are in temporary abeyance, but there are definite rumors that the insurgents are moving up heavy artillery behind their lines.

Thompson Says Act

The temporary lull in the rebel camp is due largely to Ben H. Thompson, president of city council, who has sent forth the word to act. Otto Ray attempted to confer with Thompson Monday, but was unable to find him.

Board of works members will test the temperature of councilmen with the introduction of an ordinance to appropriate $5,000 for redecoration of the city hall. Part of the money would be spent to repair the council chamber.

KNAPP CLEWS PROBED

Scatter Photographs of Hunted Man From Planes.

By United Press NEW YORK, July 14.—While Army airmen prepared to scatter 100 photographs of Phillip Knox Knapp, "thrill slayer" from Plattsburgh, along the Canadian border, the State wide manhunt doubled back today to Syracuse, the missing man's home town, and to Long Island.

Authorities were endeavoring to check a report that the Cornell graduate and Army deserter who is wanted for the murder of Luis Panella, July 1, returned to Syracuse after the crime, later fleeing with a companion in a stolen automobile. They also had a mysterious long distance telephone call from Long Island as a possible clue that the fugitive had returned to a hiding place near the scene of the crime.

INCREASE ASKED IN CITY BUDGET

Police and Fire Departments Want More Money.

Increases are provided in 1926 estimates for budgets of both the city fire and police departments, as approved today by the board of works. Estimates will be submitted to Joseph L. Hogue, city controller.

Fire Chief John O'Brien is seeking ten more men for the Broad Ripple station, though an ordinance providing for such an increase was turned down by the city council as an opening skirmish in the recent war of councilmen against the city administration. The increase is included in the budget figure of $1,285,181.47, compared to the $1,211,064.25 figure for this year.

Exports during the year amounted to $4,867,654,344, against imports of $3,824,972,548.

Police Chief Herman Rilkoff does not ask for any additional men, but wants an allowance of $1,146,084.25, which is $1,784.75 more than the amount allotted this year.
