

FOUR DAYS ARE LEFT TO WRITE HOP THRILLERS

Meanwhile Traitor to Cause Is Reported by Scrumpt Skip.

By Ross H. Garrigus

AD news to announce today. A charter member of the HOPS has fallen by the way side.

He was one of the first to join. He was one of our greatest SUPPORTERS, a true knight of the GARTER, as it were.

It was he who suggested that SCATHING VOCABULARIES be provided all HOPS. That motorists be boiled in their own crankcase oil.

Last night we spilled him. In fact, he came to our humble door. He wanted us to take a ride in his spanking new Spuick. The traitor. We handed him back his cent with disdain. We blotted out his initials—W. G.—from HOP records.

He squirmed. He said he would continue to ride the street cars. But I know this type, as the printer said. A few weeks he'll be hollerin' because he has to walk a block from the parking place.

"HOPS, we must be firm on this question."

Monday, the Statehouse reported the incorporation of the Auto Drivers' Protective Association. The drivers are organizing more and more all the time.

We can't desert the ship now. Victory is within our grasp. And we don't mean CLUTCH.

Stick to your feet we'll win yet?

Meanwhile Saturday is the last day for receipt of letters on "MY MOST HARASSING EXPERIENCE AS A PEDESTRIAN." Only four more days to compete for the $15 prize.

Doomed Man Retains Hope of Escaping Noose.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Today for the second time the double death watch was placed in the cell of Russell Scott, who is doomed to hang in the county jail here at dawn Friday when the week's reprieve granted him by Governor Small expires.

Although he hung his head and his face was drawn, Scott asserted that he had not given up hope of escaping the scaffold. But if he must hang, he admitted, he wished that it had occurred last week, so that he would not have had the additional week of agony in which to face his execution.

Bryan Refuses to Debate

By United Press
BALTIMORE, Tenn., July 22.—Hope of a series of debates between Clarence Darrow and William J. Bryan on evolution faded today when Bryan announced he would not take part in such debates.

"I am not at all disposed," he said, "to invite Christians to come to meetings to hear their religion slurred and sneered at."

POPE GIRL MAY SUE SHEPHERD

'Bride-to-Have-Been' Seeks Widow's Share of Estate.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Miss Isabelle Pope, who was to have married Billy McClintock, will file suit to obtain a widow's share of the McClintock millions, within a few days, it was reported here today.

The bride-to-have-been will base her action on the claim that she had a contract to marry Billy, and that Mr. and Mrs. William Darling Shepherd prevented him from keeping the contract.

Shepherd, McClintock's foster father, was recently acquitted on charges of murdering the youth. The will, made by McClintock, left most of the estate to Shepherd, with an annuity for Miss Pope, but Probate Judge Henry Horner refused to admit it to probate because of charges that Shepherd had used "undue influence" in getting the young millionaire to sign the will.

DRUG TRAFFIC INCREASE IN STATE SHOWN

Narcotic Agents Say Many Are Waiting Federal Grand Jury Action.

Two Indianapolis doctors and about twenty-five other druggists and dealers in narcotics are among those whose cases are now awaiting Federal Grand Jury action. It was learned today from Federal narcotic agents. Their names were not made public as the arrests have not been made.

The increase in the drug traffic in Indiana was indicated by statistics made public today by L. J. Ulmer, Federal narcotic agent. His record shows that twenty-three persons were sent to Federal penitentiaries during the year ending July 1, and seventeen were sent to jail, all convicted on charges of violating the anti-narcotic law.

Only one was sent to the penitentiary from Indiana the previous year and eighteen were sent to jail. During the past year five Indiana doctors, two from Indianapolis, and six druggists, five from Indianapolis, were convicted on narcotic charges.

The six druggists all pleaded guilty to the sale of paregoric to drug addicts, Ulmer said. "The sale of paregoric to drug addicts is becoming widespread in Indianapolis," he asserted.

Stephenson Writes on 'Economy'

By United Press
NOBLESVILLE, Ind., July 22.—Home economics are receiving careful study on the part of D. C. Stephenson, held in jail here on a murder charge.

He is burning the midnight oil and pounding the keys off a perfectly good typewriter writing an essay on "Economy in the Home," according to Sheriff Charles E. Gooding.

"I do not know the official title of the work," Sheriff Gooding said, "but that is the subject he is writing about. Sometimes he stays up until 2 a. m. writing."

A bystander suggested Stephenson had solved the problem of economy by closing his own establishment, and spending the summer in jail at the expense of Marion County taxpayers.

Competition and Service

"If you look at the oil industry without bias," says W. C. Platt in the National Petroleum News of April 29, 1925, "I believe you will find that it has been a typical American industry, with much competition and great freedom of competition in the last twelve or fifteen years."

Mr. Platt cites the case of Ohio—which is very similar to that of several Middle West states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

In 1912, Ohio had 63,000 automobiles. In 1924, it had 1,244,000 automobiles—or about 1900% increase.

To serve this vastly increased business has been a task of such herculean proportions that the oil companies then in business could not increase their facilities fast enough to keep up with the demand.

As the need of petroleum products increased, competition increased—not only to provide the additional service required but in order that society might function efficiently and smoothly.

An industry grows in response to the demand of consumers for more products and more efficient service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown in response to the demands of the public. It has grown in the face of keen, persistent, aggressive competition and holds its leadership solely through rendering a consistently superior service.

In ten Middle Western states in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates, there are some 3489 competitive oil companies.

In all of its dealings with competitors, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employs the same principles—fairness and justice which it insists are the rights of its employees and stockholders. To its customers it gives thoughtful service, superior products and the utmost of value for the money they spend.

It is by following these sound practices that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown from an organization of moderate proportions to be one of America's foremost institutions—in size, scope and service.
