

TWO WEDDINGS OF EARLY AUTUMN ARE HELD IN AFTERNOON

Miss Georgia Kathryn Osborn Becomes Bride of Wilbur Dwight Dunkel—Miss Florence Doan Married to Richard Lyle Power.

Two home weddings of the early fall were solemnized Saturday afternoon. Miss Georgia Kathryn Osborn became the bride of Wilbur Dwight Dunkel and Miss Florence Doan was married to Richard Lyle Power.

THE wedding of Miss Osborn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Osborn, 4411 N. Meridian St., took place at 4 p. m. with the Rev. J. Ambrose Dunkel, father of the bridegroom officiating. The ceremony was performed in front of French doors flanked with palms and cymbolum ferns. A program of bridal music was played by Miss Eugenia Brooks, pianist, and Miss Ruth Rainier, harpist. Miss Beatrice Batty sang "I Love You Truly," "Oh, Promise Me," and "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pink satin, fashioned with light lace and bouffant skirt, trimmed with white lace and tulle. She wore a picture hat of pink satin and tulle and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies. She was unattended.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for 150 guests. Assisting in serving were Mrs. John Scott Mann, Jr., Miss Marjorie Chiles, Miss Margaret Shover, Miss Billie Mae Kreider and Miss Marjorie Oles.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunkel have gone on a motor trip and will be at home after Sept. 15 in Rochester, N. Y. Mrs. Dunkel traveled in a two-piece gray georgette crepe frock trimmed in rose and blue and wore a hat to match.

match. She was graduated from National Park Seminary and Butler University. She is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Dunkel was graduated from Indiana University and took his masters degree at Harvard. He also attended the University of Chicago and is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Among out-of-town guests was Miss Roberta Baker of New Kensington, Pa.

ANOTHER pretty wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when Miss Florence Doan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson S. Doan, 47 Irvington Ave., became the bride of Richard Lyle Power, son of Mrs. Mary Power of Milroy, Ind. The wedding took place in the garden at the home of the bride's parents, with Dr. Harry G. Hill, officiating.

The bride wore a white crepe gown trimmed in lace and a veil arranged with orange blossoms at the sides. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The two little ribbon bearers, Jimmy and Bobby Hall, cousins of the bride, wore white suits and carried baskets of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Power have gone on a short wedding trip and will live in Milroy, Ind.

Murtha Lee Says

DON'T OVER-SHELTER WITH MOTHER-LOVE

This protective flame of mother love does much to shield us, but it may also burn us by its intensity. As the campfire, keeping away the wild animals, may also burn the camper, so with mother love, sometimes.

Parents looking back upon their own youth, knowing the harmful temptations that beset the path of their children, often seek to shield their children by throwing about them a protective mantle that not only shields them but blinds them to their dangers, and makes them only the more ready prey when at last they must meet temptations. We cannot always have our mothers and our fathers to keep a rosy light playing upon us. And besides, life is life, and we must live. We can only live finely and cleanly, avoiding our dangers by knowing where they are. So as doctors tell us that over-coddling of ourselves to avoid disease tends more to increase resistance to these very diseases, so over-sheltering of our lives tends to weaken our resistance to life's temptations. We should not ruin our lives by living. Life was given us for a far better purpose. It is only when we go ill prepared to meet life that the reckoning comes.

Mother and Lover

Dear Miss Lee, I am going with a young man seven years older than I am. I am 19. He had a love affair with another girl several years ago, but at the last minute she turned him down. Since then, until he met me, he has had no faith in women. He has asked me to marry him, and I want to consent because I love him more than anyone else in the world. My mother does not wish the marriage because the young man does not make much money. She has lived and ruined her life but I would like to please both. She likes him very much.

Well, Yvonne, don't marry the boy just to restore his faith in women. I'm sure he would lose what little he had if you did that and then became tired of him.

But if you love each other sincerely, and think you can live peacefully on his salary, I'm sure I don't see why you should not marry. Life is like an ocean, and you can't avoid getting wet from a wave by ducking. I don't believe that young people have to start out with every luxury in order to be happy. It takes far more love than money to get married and stay married.

Dear Mr. Prescott:
I am starting for Pittsburgh one week from today. By a happy chance I went downtown today I found a comparatively late copy of the Pittsburgh Sun and read that your house had been broken into again.

Did it by any possibility strike you that that orchid handkerchief and piece of orchid chiffon might have belonged to that little tiger cat, Mabel Carter? I don't know that you know it, but she always wore orchid when possible. Jimmie Condon will tell you this. She even carried the idea so far as to have the furnishings of her tiny apartment in the same color.

MC, as you know, are the initials of her name. Now don't tell me that no one would be such a fool as to leave all these clues behind.

You know the greatest criminologists in the country say that there never was and never will be a perfect crime. The smartest criminal always leaves some reminder. If one is only clever enough to detect it.

Of course, Mabel Carter never dreamed she would tear her gown on a piece of bronze statuary in that room, and if she thought of dropping her handkerchief, she probably said to herself: "What difference will it make? There are a hundred women, perhaps thousands, who have those initials."

Between you and me, Mr. Prescott, I think if it were she, she would be glad to have you know that she is on the job. You remember she told you that she would get even with both of us for spoiling her little game.

If you think anything of my theory you will please give this letter to the Commissioner. Tell him I've got a hunch that the Carter woman is just vain enough and vindictive enough to come back into this city for the sake of getting even with you and me. If you do nothing about it until I return, I have an idea which perhaps could not be worked, but possibly the Commissioner might arrange for carrying it through.

Whatever you do, I would suggest that the moment you receive my letter you take it to Jimmie, let him read it and ask him what he thinks about the whole matter. He may scoff at it as one of Sally's wild ideas, but if he will stop to think a moment he will realize that some of Sally's wildest ideas proved themselves to be very sane theories that worked out to perfection.

Will you please say to Leslie that I have much to tell her. It seems strange to me that a good woman can kick up such a mess as Beatrice has done by trying to arrange the lives of Dick and Paula Perrier. I am afraid Dick is very fond of Miss Perrier, but for some reason the moving picture actress shrinks from marrying any man.

Sincerely yours,
SALLY ATHERTON.
