BLACK-DRAUGHT HELPED COUPLE

South Carolinians Find Relief From Distressing Disorders by Taking Well-Known Vegetable Medicine.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry James of Hartsville, S. C., both report the great help Theodor's Black-Draught has been to them in the treatment of severe common ailments.

"I had a bad spell with my stomach," says Mr. James. "After I would eat, I felt as though I was eating a lump of lead. I would feel tight in my chest and a bitter taste in my mouth, until I got where I didn't want to eat."

"My druggist told me Black-Draught was good, so I began using it. I took small doses after meals and it did help me. My food seemed to digest. I kept Black-Draught and use it all the time when I have the least trouble, and it cleanses the liver and does me a lot of good."

"I saw that Black-Draught was doing my husband lots of good," Mrs. James continues the story. "So I thought I would use it, too. I had a tight feeling in my chest after meals, a lot of gas, too, and my skin was yellow and muddy-looking. I felt tired all the time, just played out, but after taking Black-Draught I was no longer constipated, my skin cleared up and I felt much better in every way."

A million packages of Theodor's Black-Draught are now sold a month.

INCOME TAXES ARE GIVEN OUT

none of the individuals have paid any taxes. These books are lists of "non-payers" or names of individuals who filed tax returns but were exempt from paying any taxes.

It is frequently found that persons supposed to have very large incomes pay no taxes at all. This is explained through losses incurred during the year, offsetting the income. Among the names in the "non-payer" list are numerous well-known Indianapolis persons.

Originated Last Year

The tax publicity scheme originated in Congress during consideration of the tax bill in 1924. A compromise arrangement was worked out by the Senate and the House whereby only total amounts of taxes paid should be made and that the details of the return should remain secret.

A divergence of official opinion arose last year when newspapers began to print the income returns and the Baltimore Post, a Scripps-owned newspaper, was indicted to test the validity of publication. The Supreme Court several months ago ruled it was fully within its rights and acquitted the paper.

Treasury officials are unalterably opposed to the publicity section of the law and an effort will be made to kill the section when the new tax law is written in the coming December session of Congress. The way Congress lines up now indicates, however, that the efforts will be to no avail.
