

BUS WORKMEN SUBJECTS OF FIXIT LETTER

Hotel Residents Complain About Ragtime Singing.

Do You Know?

August and September are among the most healthy months of the year for Indianapolis people, according to Dr. Herman G. Morgan, city health officer.

Let Mr. Fixit give you a lift on the way to street improvements. He is The Times' representative. Write him at The Times.

Ragtime singing and jazzy con- vasion may relieve the tedium of bus washing, but west side hotel residents pine for sleep during early morning hours, Mr. Fixit was informed today.

DEAR MR. FIXIT: Before the advent of the Red Ball Bus Terminal we knew no such thing as a disturbance along Senate Ave. from Pearl to Washington Sts.

With the coming of this bus line which now uses both sides of Senate Ave. from Maryland to Washington Sts. as a cleaning parlor and repair shop we have had more than enough disturbance which usually begins at midnight and lasts until 5 a. m.

It is not uncommon to us to be given the full benefit of the different tones produced while adjusting an automobile horn. This is usually followed by the whistling, talking and jazzy ragtime singing.

Capt. Barrett Ball will see that the word is passed along for revelry to cease, he told Mr. Fixit.

DEAR MR. FIXIT: As I am a resident of the south side, I find it almost impossible to cross Prospect St. at Fountain Square on Saturday night with my family, as there are as many automobiles pass that corner between 8 and 10 p. m. as there are on Washington and Illinois Sts. Couldn't something be done?

The board of safety, in response to an earlier complaint received by Mr. Fixit, has asked the police accident prevention bureau to investigate the situation and to recommend a remedy.

DEAR MR. FIXIT: There is a large hole in the street here at the side of the hospital and every time a machine or truck passes, there is a terrible noise. What can we do to get this fixed?

JOSEPH EASTMAN HOSPITAL.

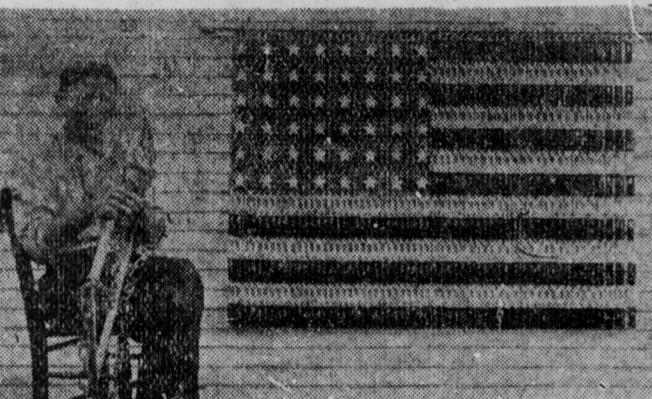

Before you read this, the street should have been repaired.

DEAR MR. FIXIT: I cut two tires on my car in the hole under the viaduct at Virginia Ave. Can't it be repaired?

MOTORIST.

This is an old offender, according to officials in the department of improved streets. It was treated last spring for "holeitis," to effect a permanent cure. However, the department will tackle the problem again as soon as possible, Mr. Fixit was informed.

DEAR MR. FIXIT: Why do the garbage collectors pick on Kealing Ave., between New York and Vermont Sts., to pour liquid from garbages into the sewer?

TIMES BOOSTER.

Truly Nolen, garbage collection superintendent, promised Mr. Fixit to change the scene of activity.
