LODGES WILL MEET

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs to Hear Delegates' Reports.

Marion County Association of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will meet tonight on the twelfth floor of the Odd Fellows Bldg., Washington and Pennsylvania Sts. Reports from delegates and visitors to the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Portland, Ore., will be given.

Steps to organize a band for the Orphans' Home at Greensburg, Ind., will be taken. Preparations for Father and Son week, to be observed next week, will be completed.

FOR A GLOSSY FINISH
When ironing them they should be very damp and the flat iron should be very hot.

Times Pattern Service

A straight-line plaid woolen dress in the new cedar shade, with interesting V-neckline, and with short or long sleeves, is seen in Pattern No. 2548.

The miniature figures show the dress as it appears after it has been cut out. After the side and shoulder seams are sewed, the applied bands are stitched at perforations, collar attached and sleeves set into armholes. A finished dress in about an hour's time.

Complete instructions with pattern. Cuts in sizes 16 years, 36 to 44 inches bust. The 36-inch size takes 3½ yards of 14-inch contrasting material. Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City, and are guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Every day The Times will print on this page pictures showing the latest in up-to-the-minute fashions.

This is a practical service for readers who wish to make their own clothes.

You may obtain this pattern by filling out the coupon below, enclosing 15 cents and mail it to the pattern department of The Times. Be sure to write plainly and to include pattern number and size.

Martha Lee's Column

International Divorce
Dear Miss Lee: Can a man remarry again here, if he is divorced from his former wife who lives in Italy? I have a friend who lives here and has been married for a good many years. She is living with another man and has had children by him. But that doesn't divorce her. Would I have any trouble getting one? I want to marry a girl here. How soon could I marry her after I'm divorced?

Under the statute, anyone may file a divorce petition who has been a resident of the State for the two years previous, and a resident of the county for the six months previous. You certainly have grounds for divorce in any State. In case the defendant is a non-resident, your attorney will have the county clerk serve notice by advertisement or mail the defendant a copy, if her residence is known. If the charges can be proved, the divorce will be granted and you can remarry at once. If the defendant has no notice of the action, you will be ordered not to remarry for two years from the date of the decree. But I don't think you will have any such difficulties. Consult an attorney.

CHURCHES SCENE OF TWO WEDDINGS

Miss Weir and Miss Hanger Become Brides in Charming Ceremonies—Receptions Follow at Homes.

Two lovely fall weddings were solemnized Saturday afternoon when Miss Miriam Somers Weir became the bride of Howard Haywood Bates and Miss Mary Elizabeth Hanger was married to Arthur Charles Ramier.

THE First United Presbyterian Church was the scene at 3:30 p. m. of the wedding of Miss Weir, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Maxwell, 4103 Park Ave., and Mr. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bates.

The impressive ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Jacques Kelewas, before an altar banked with palms and ferns and lighted with tall cathedral candles. Preceding the ceremony Miss Anne Kathryn Hodges, of Anderson, Ind., played a group of songs including "Songs of India," Tri Delta songs and Alpha Delta Theta songs. Mrs. Robert W. Mathe-son, an aunt of the bride, sang a program of bridal airs.

The bride's bridesmaids were Miss Vivian Allison of Gary, Ind., Mrs. Joseph T. Moore, and Miss Virginia Dunkel. Miss Allison wore a frock of pale pink chiffon, trimmed in deeper pink, and fashioned with a full skirt. She carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses. Mrs. Moore was gowned in Nile green georgette, trimmed with metallic cloth. She carried an arm bouquet of Butterfly roses. Miss Dunkel wore a frock of lavender georgette over yellow, trimmed in handpainted violets. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mrs. John H. Heiney, matron of honor, wore a lovely gown of yellow figured georgette trimmed in yellow velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Genevieve Maxwell, and Miss Anna Lois Becker, were flower maids. Little Miss Maxwell wore pink georgette over yellow and Miss Becker was dressed in blue georgette over pink. Both carried small arm bouquets of pink and yellow roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth E. Weir, was lovely in a gown of white georgette over white satin, beaded with crystals and silver beads, and trimmed with white velvet forget-me-nots. Her tulle veil was fashioned with a ruche in the back and held by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

Gerritt M. Bates, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were John H. Heiney and Henry O. J. Goett.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Weir, 2340 Park Ave. The house was decorated with flowers in the bridal colors. Mrs. Wallace Wadsworth presided in the dining room assisted by Misses Gertrude Brown, Dorothy White, Mary Watson, Margaret Haldy and Margaret Wares. Mr. and Mrs. Bates have gone on a wedding trip south, and will be at home after Nov. 1, at 4646 Kenwood Ave. The bride traveled in a black satin ensemble, trimmed in kasha and monkey fur. She wore a black felt hat. She was graduated from Butler University and is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Bates attended Butler University and is a graduate of Indiana University Law School and a member of Phi Delta Theta and Delta Theta Phi fraternities.

A PRETTY wedding took place at 4:30 at the Roberts Park M. E. Church when Miss Mary Elizabeth Hanger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Richmann, 26 St. Arlington Ave., became the bride of Arthur Charles Ramier of Chicago.

The Rev. Edwin Dunlavy performed the ceremony before an altar banked with palms and ferns, and lighted by cathedral candles. Only the immediate families and friends were present. Mrs. Roy L. Burch, organist, played a program of bridal airs.

The bride, who was unattended, was charming in a gown of tan flax crepe, and a tan velvet hat. She wore a corsage of Mrs. Aaron Ward roses.

Following the ceremony, a dinner party was held at the Splink-Arms. Covers for ten were laid at a table arranged in the bridal colors, scarlet and crystal.

In the evening, a reception was to be held at the home for 125 guests. Mrs. Richmann was to be assisted by Mrs. Matthew Ferson, Miss Margaret James, Miss Irene Harman and Miss Doris Dahlberg. Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ramier will be at home at 1504 N. Dearborn Parkway, Chicago. Mrs. Ramier was to travel in a tailored dark blue ensemble suit, with hat to match. The bride was graduated from the University of Illinois and is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. Ramier attended the University of Wisconsin.

Among guests from out-of-town were Sylvester Erman, Burt Schmitt and Miss Doris Dahlberg of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kern of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith and Mrs. E. J. Kern of South Bend, Ind., and Mrs. Elizabeth Ramier of Portage, Wis.

The TANGLE

"Here she comes!" called Jimmie joyously. He threw away his cigarette; he seemed to want both hands free. I could not but think he was still only a boy, and at that moment I gave Sally Atherton all the credit in the world for bringing a soul back into its own.

Jimmie was just on the verge; the slightest push would send him either way. Almost any other woman would have sent him over, and he would have sunk down, down, into a morass of desperation and hopelessness. As it was, he had become a man, with a great big joyous heart, and he was holding a niche in my husband's business that probably would be hard to fill.

While I was thinking these thoughts, Little Marquise, Sally, looking more distingue than ever, came to us followed by three porters carrying all sorts of traveling impediments.

"I don't always carry these things," she exclaimed. "But most of them are gifts from friends who accompanied me to the train. 'Leslie,' she said, kissing me, 'it is sweet to see you again. I'm very glad to get home, although Hollywood is a most fascinating place, and I had a gorgeous time. Are you glad to see me, Jimmie?' She said all this in a breath.

"You bet I am. Everybody will be glad to see you at the plant, except that little cat of a Margy Simpson. I don't envy you with her. I think the boss wants to talk with you about her right away, when she's not around. He said I was to bring you right up to the office if you would come."

"Let me take you home instead, Sally," I offered. "Surely Jack should not expect to bring you directly from the train to the office. Tomorrow is time enough to get into harness. Jimmie, you go back and tell Mr. Prescott that I came down to the train to meet Mrs. Atherton and am going to take her to her home."

"You're somewhat peremptory, Leslie, but I'm such a bossy person myself that I like to be bossed once in a while, and I am glad you have taken matters into your own hands, for I do want to go home and get into a kimono more than anything else in the world, except to take a hot bath."

We had Jimmie a good-by which I could see was rather reluctant on his part, and started away in the little roadster. As soon as we were on our way, Sally turned to me and asked:

"What is it, Leslie?"

"Good heavens, Sally, did I show that I wanted to take you as patiently as that?"

"You did me. Tell me all about it."

Little Marquise. I hardly knew how to begin.
