Times Pattern Service

Printed indestructible velvet brocade, crepe satin, velveteen, French velour or Mirrorleen, would be stunning for Design No. 2575. The flare is arranged in a decidedly new manner. The front panel is cut in one with waist section. The three-piece slightly circular skirt is gathered and attached at sides and back. The neckline is interesting. The applied band on front is looped up underneath lower edge. It is especially easy to make. Complete instructions with patterns. Cuts in sizes 16 years, 38 to 42 inches bust. The 36-inch size takes 3 1/2 yards of 40-inch material with 1/2 yard of 36-inch contrasting. Our patterns are made by the leading Fashion Designers of New York City and are guaranteed to fit perfectly.

Every day The Times will print on this page pictures showing the latest in up-to-the-minute fashions. This is a practical service for readers who wish to make their own clothes. You may obtain this pattern by filling out the coupon below, enclosing 15 cents and mail it to the pattern department of The Times. Be sure to write plainly and to include pattern number and size.

KLINE-MINGER NUPTIALS ARE READ AT HOME

Reception for Sixty-Five Guests Held After Ceremony.

The wedding of Miss Louise Christine Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Kline, 1814 E. Twelfth St., and Walter Louis Minger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Minger, was solemnized at 3:30 p. m. Saturday at the home of the bride's parents. Dr. H. H. Fout read the single ring ceremony. Mrs. Amy C. Morrison played a program of bridal music and Mrs. Allen H. Johnson sang "Because" and "Beloved, It Is Morn."

The bride's colors, orchid and peach, were used in decorations. The fireplace was banked with palms and ferns and lighted with white tapers. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Shaffer. Mrs. Shaffer wore a gown of orchid georgette trimmed with rhinestones and silver. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses. Little Miss Marjorie Scarborough was ringbearer. She wore a frock of yellow georgette and carried the ring on a heart-shaped satin pillow.

The bride wore a simple gown of satin backed crepe with long basque waist and full circular skirt trimmed with bow knots of seed pearls. Her veil was fashioned with a coronet of princess lace and pearls and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The lace handkerchief which she carried was used by her mother on her wedding day thirty-six years ago.

Following the ceremony a reception for sixty-five guests was held. Mrs. Kline, mother of the bride, received in a gown of taupe and blue crepe. Mrs. Minger, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of tan crepe.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Minger will be at home at 1655 N. Alabama St.

Martha Lee's Column

Speaking of Halloween

Dear Miss Lee: I am a girl of 18 and belong to a girls' club. We are giving a Halloween party, and I haven't the least idea what to wear. If I had money to spare I would not have to bother you, but I haven't. Will you please help me. There are twelve girls in the club and each is taking a boy. I am a wall flower at a party, and maybe you would give me a few suggestions to make my costume nice at this party.

Well—let's see. You might go as a box of crackerjack. If you have a little ingenuity, you can make or get a large pasteboard box, fairly flexible, or better still, cover a wall frame with a piece of white muslin, and paint a crackerjack box design on the outside, copied from a real crackerjack box. One of your accessories might be a little tin whistle. Hang the affair over your shoulders by ribbon. Don't let the idea that you are a wallflower become too firmly imbedded, my dear. Just don't be a wall flower.

MISS PEARCE BRIDE IN FALL WEDDING

Rev. Frederick Taylor Officiates at Beautiful Fall Ceremony at First Baptist.

The First Baptist Church was the scene at 3 Saturday afternoon of a charming fall wedding when Miss Cordelia Adalene Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram B. Pearce, 3015 Broadway, became the bride of Windsor Thomas Waits, Dr. Frederick E. Taylor read the ceremony before an altar arranged with palms, ferns and lighted by cathedral candles. Dallas Castle, organist, played a program of bridal music preceding the ceremony, and Miss Frances Thrun sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

Miss Isabelle B. Pearce, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a frock of pink crepe Romanine trimmed with rhinestones. She wore a wreath of silver leaves and carried an arm bouquet of Butterfly roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Emma S. Waits, of Lexington, Ky., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jean Scholl, of Lexington, Ky., sister of the bridegroom. They wore a frock of powder blue with panne georgette, rhinestones, with panne velvet and rhinestones. She wore a silver wreath in her hair and carried Premier roses. Miss Scholl was dressed in orchid chiffon beaded with gold beads over gold cloth. Miss Scholl wore a gold wreath and carried Coolidge roses. The frocks of the attendants were fashioned with basque waists and full skirts. Handkerchiefs given by the bride to match their gowns, were carried. Little Miss Harriet Constance Pearce, was flower maid. She wore a blue georgette frock over pink, trimmed with ruffles. She carried a French basket of Ophelia roses and rose petals and wore a small strand of pearls, the gift of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white crepe de chine over shell pink satin. The gown was made with full skirt and deep ruffles of lace. Her tulle veil was arranged at the back with a ruche and held in place with a triple wreath of orange blossom buds, with clusters of white lilies at the sides. The bride wore the gift of the bridegroom, a necklace of pearls and carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses.

Rothard Lamar Waits of Lexington, Ky., a brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Wayne Walker, and George W. Vestal.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents. The house was arranged with palms, ferns and baskets of pink tea roses. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Pearce and the bride and bridegroom were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Charles A. Failes, and aunt, Mrs. David R. Boies of Louisville, Ky. The bride's mother wore a gown of salmon pink crepe Romanine and a midnight blue chiffon coat.

The centerpiece of the dining table was a three tier wedding cake on a plateau of roses and cybodium ferns. During the reception, Mrs. George H. Lacey, harpist, played.

Mr. and Mrs. Waits have gone on a motor trip to Chicago and Milwaukee. They will be at home after Nov. 25, at their new home at Thirty-Fourth St. and Manor Court. The bride traveled in a black satin dress trimmed with red and white crepe and a crimson and gold hat. She wore a Hudson seal coat.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKinney and daughter Mildred, of Columbus, Ohio, were among the out-of-town guests.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

I am not sure, Old Man, if you are not a scapegoat of fate, or if you are the most egregious ass that ever was born. I am inclined to think, however, that you are perhaps the latter rather than the former.

I've gotten so that I hate to open the morning papers for fear I will see something worse about you than I ever have before. Our mutual friends greet me nowadays with, "What has Jack Prescott done now?"

When I left for home yesterday morning I thought I had gotten you all straightened out and then when I picked up the morning paper I find that awful story about you.

Good heavens, man, is it possible that you cannot be thrown in any kind of proximity with any kind of woman without falling for her more or less, and making Leslie trouble? You see, I am saying, "making Leslie trouble." I would not care a damn how much trouble you made for yourself or how much punishment you get for your indiscretions if some of it did not fall on her too.

How about this Maggie Stimpson? I thought I had heard the last of her when I sent her home from the central station.

I had always thought Mrs. Atherton had a pretty level head and I cannot conceive of her knowing you as she must know you, putting a little flapper vamp in your office while she was gone. She might have known what would happen.

I see by the afternoon papers that the girl's father is suing you for $50,000. Good! I hope you have to pay all of it, notwithstanding you are probably quite innocent in this matter, for even I who know what an ass you are, do not think you could possibly be such a fool as to put yourself in a compromising position with any woman when you have so much to lose and nothing to gain.

Notwithstanding, I am a little put out with Mrs. Atherton. I am glad she has returned, for I know she will help you out of this, if anyone can. I give her the entire credit of keeping out of an affair with you during the time that she has been your secretary. I remember that you fancied that you were quite interested in her at first. For the love of Pete, Jack don't you know that you have the sweetest and best woman in all the world for your very own? A woman that is so much superior that most of us wonder why you were lucky enough to get her.

Why are you not satisfied? I expect it is because you do not appreciate her is the reason that you are always being found out in all your little peccadillos. I will say this for you, that most men do as much or more and no one ever knows it. However, that doesn't count.

Someone ought to beat you up good. It is too bad that Leslie has no brother to do it thoroughly. Write me the low-down on this Maggie Stimpson affair, I hope it is not as bad as I suspect. STD. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)
