

ENGLAND PLANS TO MAKE NEW TYPE AIRCRAFT

Two Dirigibles to Be Twice Size of Ill-Fated Shenandoah.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Far from being dismayed by the fate of the Shenandoah and the disasters which have fallen its own airships Great Britain is about to start the construction of two dirigibles each more than twice the size of the Shenandoah.

"England has never lost faith in dirigibles," declared a high official of the British Air Ministry in an exclusive interview with the United Press today. "To prove this statement I will say that designs have been completed and construction is about to be started on two dirigibles each of 5,000,000 cubic feet gas capacity. These are more than twice the size of any dirigible ever, heretofore constructed."

R-100 and R-101

These will be known, he said, as the "R-100" and the "R-101." The overall length of the new machines will be 750 feet and the diameter 130 feet. Less than 100 feet longer than the Shenandoah or the R-33, which has recently made test trips over London, the increased gas capacity of the new air liners will be obtained by a marked increase in their diameter.

"Yet despite the increase in the diameter of the new dirigibles," continued the official "model tests in wind-tunnels have shown that the new design actually presents less resistance to the air than the present dirigibles of half their carrying capacity."

Has Greater Strength

"By keeping the length of the machines approximately the same as in the largest of the present dirigibles and getting the increased capacity by increasing the diameter we are able to construct a machine of much greater strength than has been possible in the past."

Neither the Shenandoah nor the R-33—both of which were torn from mooring masts during storms the last year—had been designed with a view to use in connection with mooring masts, he said. But in the new R-100 and R-101 the designers were planning the mooring masts of the airships with special reference to their attachment to mooring masts. The new dirigibles will have a speed of about seventy miles an hour and will be propelled by seven 600 horsepower engines of the dieseltape, using heavy fuel oil instead of gasoline.

According to geologists the United States has more than half of the world's supply of coal.

DOGS WORTH MILLION

Several Show Entries Valued at More Than $5,000.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Over $1,000,000 worth of blooded dogs were exhibited at the recent Kennel Club show here. Several were valued at more than $5,000 each.

Larger as were the entries, nearly 6,000 dogs were "bunched," and the show was but a small and highly selected segment of England's immense stock of pedigreed dogs.

150-YEAR-OLD TURK LIVING

Son, 93, Provokes Him—Loves Wife, 27.

By NEA Service

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30.—Zaro Agha has won a niche in the Hall of Fame. Claiming to have been borne in 1775, he has had steady work and eleven wives during that time.

Zaro Agha is devoted to his present wife, 27, and the only member of his family who gives him trouble is his son, age 93, who thinks he is too old to earn a livelihood.

"I don't see why I should have to keep him," declared Zaro Agha indignantly. "If I can work, surely the boy can, too."

Although he is running into his second century, according to documents which he has to prove his age, Zaro Agha has joyfully accepted an offer from the Constantinople authorities to join the staff of guards at one of the imperial palaces.

Tells Girls and Women to Avoid "Physics"

Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many women had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils. While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all headaches, biliousness, sallow skin, indigestion and stomach misery, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it. Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.
