

STIRRIN' the DOPE

By VEDDER GARD

IN the Horatio Alger books, perseverance always wins. In real life this also happens occasionally. Everett Milner and Tommy Smith, cheer leaders at Butler, are shining examples. These two youths were not satisfied to be ordinary yell enticers. They wanted to be extraordinary hordes of the howl.

When they exhort the hosts to rise up and rend the heavens, they don't stand on the ground with waving arms. They fly through the air with waving legs. They flip-flop and somersault. They have taken a tumble to themselves and made acrobats before there were only two youths who kept their feet on the ground.

Milner and Smith were not always such flip young men. They are self-made acrobats. Weeks of practice in the gymnasium changed the blue and white of Butler to black and blue, but still these young gentlemen persisted. They used to hit the mat with dull thuds on various parts of the anatomy not commonly used for such purposes.

Now the only hits they make are with the crowd which cheers the cheer leaders. The two doughty yell provokers were a tremendous hit at Illinois a few weeks ago. They did their stuff in great style. And the Illinois rooters stopped their own yells to look. It was the reward of perseverance as Horatio Alger would say.

We suggest three cheers for the cheer leaders, Milner and Smith. Make 'em big.

ACROSS THE BOARD TODAY

Our comments are all right on Monday, but our horses were not. We said John Finn had no business heading Cobweb and then put our dough on the former. Cobweb won and John Finn was fourth. We said Preference had been coming close and it was second again. We said Lancer needed a good track and Churchill Downs course was heavy. That tells the story of Lancer. How long does it take that track to dry out? Pete was scratched. The bank roll went down a bit and today is $254.80.

We'll try a couple parlaya today. Five rocks win, place and show goes on LORD GRANITE in the fourth at Churchill and the other MIS HUME sixth at the same track in a combination. THE SPA might fool 'em in the fourth—$5 across is the investment. J. Q. KELLY will be hooked up in a parlay, $10 win, $5 place and show. HULLO loves the heavy going so much that we'll play him $5 across the board.

ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY must have a hard time paying football expenses. The second sell-out of the season has been announced by the officials for the Chicago game next Saturday; 67,000 tickets are all gone.

We wonder sometimes what the veteran coach, A. A. Staggs of Chicago, thinks when he sees the huge modern crowds at the contests? Chicago played Illinois for the first time way back in 1892. Who do you suppose was coaching the Maroons? Only one guess is needed—A. A. Staggs. Memories of the "old man" must have!

Mrs. Malaprop was in a very bad temper today. She said that she was a protagonist of all machine politics, but when she went to vote there was nothing in the place except machines. It is said the old lady scratched the ticket. In fact, some say that she did more than that and just about ruined one of the machines before the election officials quieted her down.

WHAT'S in a name? Monday at Fairmount track there was such a plunge on Better Luck in the fifth event that the horse went to the post at 45 cents on the dollar to win. Better Luck finished where so many of the short-priced ones finish—out of the money.

In the last race Bad Luck won at odds of almost 2 to 1 to win and more than even money to place. A name is just that—it doesn't mean a thing. Ask those who put their dough on Better Luck.

A game with the Chicago "Y" college is a vacation to Wabash college gridgers. The Scarlet has been going on the theory this season that "the bigger they come the harder they fall." The only drawback is that they refuse to fall.

At last there is no doubt about Coach Staggs' "fear." Almost every week the Chicago coach "fears" the worst, and every one laughs. This Saturday at Illinois the fear is legitimate and the worst is liable to happen.

IT must have been very pleasing indeed to Eddie Moore's vanity (and it is said he has plenty of it) when seven out of the seven clubs in the National League put in claims for him after the Pirates had asked waivers on the second sacker. Pittsburgh wished to send Moore to the Pacific Coast league in part payment for Rhyme and Waner of San Francisco.

Boy, how Eddie will strut his stuff, now! Seven out of seven wanted him!

The first of those "Big Three" triangular affairs will take place next Saturday, when Harvard goes to Princeton. This far ahead it looks as though Harvard may prove a worse eleven than Princeton.

Bill Johnston is the tennis champion of Mexico. He won in the finals played Monday. President Calles of our southern neighbor country presented "Little Bill" with the cup. The Coast star may get what consolation he can out of this. Johnston would have preferred the United States title, but Bill Tilden was in that meet.

Tech, Manual, Shortridge and Cathedral Grid Teams Busy This Week.

There will be plenty of action this week-end on the local prep gridirons. Two games are scheduled for Friday when Tech takes on South Side High of Ft. Wayne at Tech field and Manual tackles Wiley of Terre Haute on Irwin field.

Shortridge goes to Noblesville on the same day. The north siders have only two games left, the one this week and another with Technical in the city series Nov. 13.

Cathedral has filled an open date and booked a game with Jasper College for next Saturday at Washington Park. Manual will take on Boys' Prep, Saturday, at the latter's field.

All of the Indianapolis elevens are working out in strenuous fashion this week. Tech especially is drilling hard for the scrap with the Ft. Wayne school, which is rated strong. The east siders have a clean slate in Indiana and want no slips to mar the record.

FLIERS HERE

Checkaye's Gridders to Play Ferndales Sunday.

The Jonesboro Fliers, headed by Cooney Checkaye, famous Muncie football player, will ramble into town next Sunday and attempt to tame the local Ferndale footballers at Washington Park.

The Fliers have played a hard schedule and present a strong lineup. Checkaye, who is remembered from the days of the Congersville Fliers, will be at one half back position. Six other Muncie athletes aid in rounding out the roster.

The locals respect the ability of Checkaye and are in for a hard week of practice under Coach Erhart. They came out of the victory with the Southpaws minus the services of Dutenhaver, who was injured. Bennett is ill and Drayer is lost for the season. Carmen will be back in the harness at a tackle Sunday.

On behalf of Tex Rickard, a local physician examined Delaney and pronounced him in fit condition to start training for his title bout with Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion, which will feature the opening of boxing in the New Madison Square Garden.

Talk of Matching Middleweight and Light Heavy Champs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Although "Tex" Rickard recently said he was not anxious to match Harry Greb in New York, because the Pittsburgher "wanted a half interest in Madison Square Garden as his share," there was talk Monday of a bout between the middleweight champion and Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight title-holder, as a likely attraction for the early winter.

GRIDIRON STRATEGY

Quarter Back Dominates Play

By Harry Stuhldreher

Notre Dame—All-America, 1924

THE spirit and style of the quarterback usually dominates the play of the eleven he is directing. As the quarterback plays, so plays the entire team, comes close to being a football truth. The quarterback is the dynamo.

The successful quarterback must be the absolute boss of the team that he is directing on the field. He must enjoy the confidence of the men he is handling.

A quarterback should be cocky and confident, not of course, to the point of ego, but merely as a pattern for the rest of the team to follow. He is the mainspring of the eleven.

There should be no lack of decision in the methods of the quarterback. Such a fault would soon spread to the entire team and prove a fatal weakness in defensive as well as offensive methods.

He should call his plays with volume, snap and precision. He must impress his teammates by his manner the fact that he knows his stuff and can do it.

The quarterback must know his system and players thoroughly. Most football players have certain weaknesses as well as strong points. He should dwell on the strong points and by his selection of plays attempt to cover up any existing weaknesses.

Perfect knowledge of the system that the coach has perfected is most essential to the quarterback. He should be no letter-perfect that plays come to him on the spur of the moment, also just what players to use on the plays.

Of course, it is well for every player to be familiar with the rules, but it is imperative that the quarterback know them thoroughly. Unless he does his team may suffer in any number of ways.

Last but not least by any means, the successful quarterback must have personality. The quarterback who fights to the last ditch, who doesn't know the meaning of the word quit, invariably has his team with him to the last. The spirit of the quarterback is the spirit of a majority of teams.

Incidentally he must love the game and live football every minute of the season.

GAME AT CUMBERLAND

Southpaws the Attraction Sunday; Gibson Joins Team.

By Times Special CUMBERLAND, Ind., Nov. 3.—The Southpaws of Indianapolis will be the attraction here next Sunday against the local eleven. Flushed with their victory over the J. J. C's at Indianapolis last Sunday, the locals are out to run up a larger count against the Southpaws than did the Ferndales.

Coach Vernon has called two practice sessions for this week, on Wednesday and Friday nights. Manager Schwer announces that Red Gibson, known as the "Red Grange of Cumberland," has joined the team.

Heavy Advance Sale for Ring Show Wednesday—Wiggins Is Confident.

The indications are that a capacity crowd will be in attendance at the fist entertainment to be staged at Tomlinson Hall Wednesday night when thirty-eight rounds of boxing covering six bouts, will be on tap for local fans. The advance sale has been heavy and interest is running high in the main go, which will feature John Risko, Cleveland's leading contender in the heavyweight division, and Chuck Wiggins, local mauler.

The unsatisfactory ending of their bout at Ft. Harrison last summer, together with the statement of Danny Dunn, manager of Risko, that his man was coming here to put the skids under the Indianapolis pug, has caused a division of opinion as to the outcome.

Wiggins, following a stiff workout Monday, stated that the bouts of Risko to the effect that he would stop him, did not worry him in the least.

Dunn, accompanied by Risko, and Johnny Redell, his featherweight ace, who is to meet Merle Alte in the semi-wind-up, will arrive in the city Wednesday morning. The boxing will weigh in at the Arcade gymnasium at 3 o'clock Wednesday.

Grid Pointers

Recent football rule interpretations by the Indiana Officials' Association follow:

Team A punts across side line. After referee blows whistle, B's ball at spot of foul. Team A forward passing. Passer is not five yards back. Referee blows whistle and B's ball is placed on line of scrimmage. No whistle means no run for touchdown. No whistle means no run for touchdown. No whistle means no run for touchdown.

On interference by defensive team when a forward pass is made, a first down automatically is given the offense if the length of the pass, unless team A makes the pass, is not less than 10 yards.

Team A passes across the goal line of team B. B's ball is placed on line of scrimmage. The play was ruled legal, so long as it was not a foul on the forty-yard line.

On fouls that go out of bounds, in cases where three officials are working the game, the head linesman marks the foul on the ground. The referee marks the foul on the ground on the other side of the field.

New League Class Proposed for High Schoolers, Collegians, Semi-Pro.

By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Organization of a new minor class to be composed of leagues consisting of high school, colleges and semi-pro players will be proposed at the annual meeting of the National Association, to be held on Catalina Island, Cal.

The plan has been suggested to provide a better and quicker means of advancement for unskilled youngsters, who want to make baseball their profession.

Restrict Veterans

If the minor league club owners do not favor the organization of such a new class they will be asked to adopt some kind of a plan to restrict the number of experienced seasoned players and players under option in Class D leagues.

The innovation is the idea of Michael H. Sexton, president of the National Association, who explained his idea in a letter received today by the writer.

"The great need of baseball talent in the majors and large minor leagues has become apparent," he said.

From Amateur Ranks

"It will be my endeavor at the meeting of the association to try to open the way for more young ball players, boys from the amateur ranks, high schools, colleges and independent clubs to break into the professional baseball ranks."

While no official statement was obtained, it was understood John Heydler, president of the National League, is in favor of a lower classification, considering it a practical plan to help along young ball players who haven't the best means of advancement under the present classifications.

Babe Ruth Hikes 40 Miles

By United Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Babe Ruth rode forty miles into the wilds of Canada on a horse and "came out on his own dogs," according to Bob Shawkey, veteran Yankee pitcher, who returned from a hunting trip with a party consisting of Ruth, Eddie Collins, Joe Bush and Muddy Ruel. Shawkey said:

"When the Babe arrived at the outpost station he was told he had to hoof it forty miles to the hunting ground. He was willing to try, but the guide took one look at him and sent for a horse."

"The big fellow, once in camp, went into the spirit of it and was up before dawn and in bed at dusk. He wasn't much of a hunter, but he did plenty of walking and prowling around and got himself into such good shape that he was able to walk back forty miles to the train without a 'putt'."

ANSWERS

1. There is nothing compulsory about numbering the football players, but to assist the spectators in enjoying the game such action is urged by the rules committee.

2. The offensive side shall be penalized twenty-five yards for failure to report on time for the start of the third period. The referee shall have the choice of a coin and may elect whether it shall put the ball in play on its own five-yard line or whether the offensive side shall put it in play on its own five-yard line.

3. The try for a point after a touchdown is always a try, though it is scored on a play that is in action when the whistle announces that time is up.

PAGEMEN FACE BIG CONTEST

Minnesota Desires to Top Illini's Score Against Butler Warriors.

Pat Page's Butler warriors are in for a strenuous session in the far North country, Saturday, Minnesota is to be met on the Gopher gridiron and Coach Doc Spears' men are eager to down the Butlerites decisively.

Butler held Illinois, 16 to 13, and it is the keen desire of Minnesota to top that count. It was the Gophers who were first to stop Red Grange last season and there is no question about the tackling ability of the Minnesota giants.

Page scouted the Gophers last Saturday and he saw everything they had. Therefore, much of this week's practice in Irvington this week consists of practicing defense against Minnesota plays.

Butler has a habit of going big against Western Conference teams and the Gophers secretly feel they have a chance to nose out Spears' eleven. The Irvington passmashers showed very well against Illinois when they had a dry field to perform on, and perhaps they will be at their peak again Saturday. At any rate, the Butlerites intend to give the Gophers a very busy afternoon.
