

SHANK THANKFUL HE IS NOT JOHN DUVALL

Other Indianapolis Citizens Give Reasons Why They Are Grateful on Pilgrim's Day.

What are Indianapolis folks grateful for this Thanksgiving season?

Not a few expressed gratification at the improved business conditions of the last few months. Frederick M. Ayres, president of L. S. Ayres and Company, was one of these and added: "We see many signs that justify extreme optimism for the coming season."

A man thankful to work! That's Judge Frank J. Lahr of Juvenile Court. "Can't think of anything I'm more thankful for, aside from my home and family, than the daily opportunity I have here of helping little children into better home conditions," he said. "Every morning, I start down to my work, eager to get there. My work never ceases to interest me intensely."

Reynolds Happy

"I'm thankful that we're to have a new building," remarked John Reynolds, Chamber of Commerce secretary. "The organization will then have a home and workshop commensurate with its value to the community."

"To be a resident of this very friendly town is something to be thankful for," Herbert P. Sheets, secretary of the National Retail Hardware Association asserted. "I've been in Indianapolis less than two years, and have found manifested here a spirit of good fellowship which I should not have previously believed possible."
