

How Municipal Judge Bill Won, Told

Bebinger's Oratory at Banquet for Keymen Put It Over.

How the bill that legalized appointment of four judges for Marion county, named Wednesday by Governor Jackson, surmounted opposition was told by a member of the 25th Legislature today.

"The Marion County delegation found itself stumped when a lot of representatives objected to the measure that gave Jackson the right to appoint the judges," he said. "We picked a number of keymen and invited them to a luncheon with the Marion County representatives at the Washington."

"Judge James A. Collins was to speak, but went to the Severin by mistake. Representative Charles E. Bebinger rose to the occasion and convinced the guests of the merits of the bill and we went back and passed it."

Passage of the measure was considered a victory for George V. Coffey, Republican city chairman, who secured again in the appointments.

Pain Relieved

"I WAS in a very run-down condition," says Mrs. John Witt, of Bedford, Va., the lady whose picture appears above, telling of the troubles from which she recently suffered.

"I suffered all the time with a pain in my back and sides. I got almost past going. At times the pain would become so intense I could hardly stand it.

"I worried along for some time, wondering what I should do and constantly growing worse. One day one of my neighbors, who had been greatly helped by Cardui, asked me why I did not try it. I decided that I would, so I got a bottle and began to take it.

"I soon found that it was helping me very much. The pains gradually began to disappear and my strength gradually came back. I took five bottles at that time and found it to be a wonderful tonic for womanly troubles. It relieved my suffering and soon had me feeling like a different person.

"I was able to do my work again without that awful dragging feeling which had been with me so long."

Many thousands of women have reported being relieved from pain and suffering by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic. Some of your own friends and neighbors have no doubt found relief through its use. Ask them. Begin taking Cardui today.
