What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive, and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now, up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at Hook, Haag, Goldsmith Bros. and all drug-gists—but be sure and ask for McCoy's—the original and genuine.

Give them to the sickly, frail child for 30 days and if they don't help—wonderfully, your druggist is authorized to hand you the money you paid for them.—Advertisement.

"Why should you be afraid, Paula?" I asked. "Surely you must know that you have money enough to bring up a child in any luxury you might wish."

"Oh, yes," she answered somewhat wearily. "I've gone all over that to myself. But, Sally, what if I still would have this insatiable desire for a child of my very own? What if I came to look upon the one that I had adopted as something that was standing between me and what was my inalienable right as a woman and a mother? What if I never looked upon the face of the child whom I had pledged not only myself but posterity to love and care for, without wishing that in its place was one that was in reality my own? What if I could never get over the idea that between the babe in my arms and myself there was no call of the blood, no ties of the flesh?"

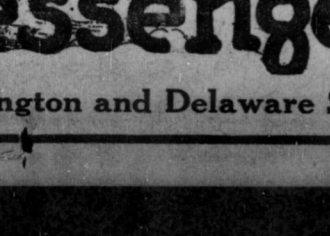

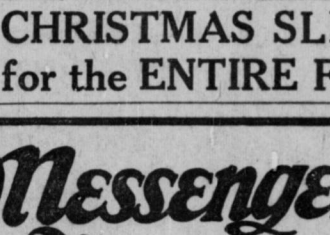

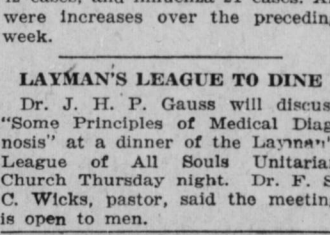

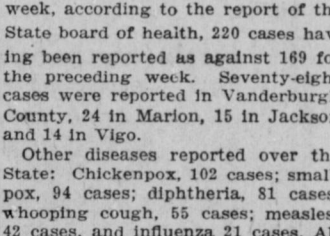

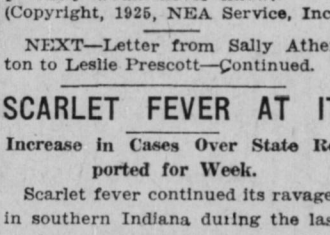

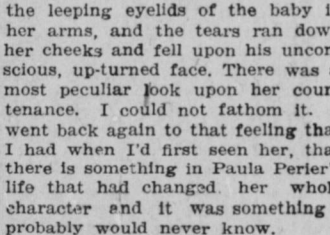

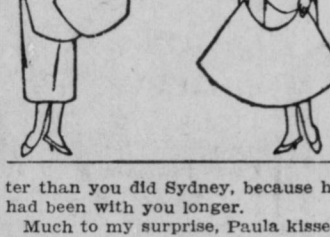

I tried to talk her out of this. Leslie, I tried to make her see how foolish it was and cited to her that you had adopted little Jack, as she knew.

"Are you sure, Sally?" Paula asked solemnly. "That Madame Leslie does not feel sorry now that she adopted him? Does she not feel very differently toward her adopted son than she does toward this one which is none of her bone and flesh of her flesh?"

"Leslie has told me many times," I answered, "that she has the same feeling toward each of her children and if there is any difference between them, she thought perhaps she was more devoted to little Jack than to Leslie."

Then, Leslie, I told her how all your friends wished you would have a girl when you were going to have a baby, so you would not have to contrast your real mother love which, of course, would be for your own child with the probably very different feeling that was yours for your adopted son.

I told her, Leslie, how many times you had resented this prevalent opinion of your friends to me and how you were very glad that your own child was a boy, because, as you had always told me since it was born, you did not know any difference between the two of them, except that if possible, you loved little Jack better.

SCHOOL BOARD NEW MEMBERS MAY GET BIDS

Old Group Not to Have Much More Say About Short-ridge.

New members of the Indianapolis school board probably will have the opportunity to carry on the board's building program, it was indicated today, when no moves were made to remedy the split which occurred at a special board meeting Saturday.

The new members are Charles W. Kern, Theodore Vonnegut, and Mrs. Lillian Sedwick. They do not know whether they take office Jan. 1 or the second Tuesday of January. They take office as soon as they meet after Jan. 1.

If they take office before Jan. 6, the present board will not have an opportunity to receive the bids on Shortridge High School or on the $1,200,000 bond issue. If they wait until the second Tuesday the present board may be able to receive both sets of bids, provided the dates are definitely set at the meeting Tuesday night.

The split Saturday occurred when Adolph G. Emhardt objected to receiving bids until the plans and specifications for the new building were received and approved by the board. Business Director William H. Book will ask the board to set a date for advertising the bids at the meeting Tuesday. This was to have been done today, but when the board could not agree on dates for receiving bids, it was postponed.

The amount to be spent on Shortridge will be decided by the State tax board, which Saturday heard the remonstrance against the bond issue, filed by the Indiana Taxpayers' Association.

OLD VIRTUES PRAISED

Los Angeles Man Talks on Successful Life at Big Meeting.

"Too many people think that success is a matter of luck or chance," said Geoffrey F. Morgan of Los Angeles, Cal., in an address Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Big Meeting at English's Theater. The old Christian virtues, within the reach of every man, constitute the most important and the absolutely necessary backing to any successful life, he said.

Dr. E. T. Hagerman of Los Angeles, Ind., will speak next Sunday on "The Man With One Window."

TOO MUCH 'LIGHTNING'

Women Report Man Went to Bed in Their Apartment.

A bold, bad burglar in the home of Misses Martha Rowe, Nell Green and Bettie Richardson, Apt. 20, 1001 N. Delaware St., proved to be a man, who had partaken of too much "concentrated lightning," according to "Sergeant" John Sheehan, who investigated early Sunday.

Emergency squad speeded over the slippery streets after receiving the report of a burglar in the young women's flat and after their arrival found that Leonard Reno, stopping at the Claypool had entered the flat through a window and went to bed when no one responded to his knock.

Martha Lee Says

TO LIVE, TO SUFFER TO LEARN—TO GROW

"I wish I were a moron!" said a young girl desperately not long ago. "I'm tired of thinking and aching, and aching and thinking. I wish I couldn't think!"

But she does not wish this. She would not give up her puzzling, thrilling emotions for all the peace in the world. She would not want the end of a love that does not pulse to inspiration, that does not leap to happiness, nor sink to despair from which to rise again. She is suffering those intense growing pains, that will bring her to maturity, a woman with a rich, full life.

Love, success, popularity, all take their toll. Each commodity comes high in the price of experience. A cynic once said there were two ways of punishing us, one by denying what we wanted—the other by granting us what we wanted. But who wants a soft life, untouched by paths, unwashed by tears, shut off from the glory of impulse, hidden away from moments of dazzling happiness? I don't, do you?

Skeptical
Dear Miss Lee: What's the use of anything more? When you were 16 did you think and not see any where it seems like the more I try to figure out this mortal existence the more puzzled I am. Why do people treat people they love so mean? There must be some reason why the young man I go with tells me he loves me one minute and is mean to me the next. I have told him I won't come to see him any more. But it seems that isn't what I want either. I am very perplexed.

Would you like to be incapable of feeling, of thinking? I think not. For, after all, these are the things that take us out of the rut of our existence, and bring us moments, though brief, of complete happiness and satisfaction. One of your temperament is ever satisfied for long. And I guess that is just as well, or we would never be perfecting our modes of living. You seem to be developing a philosophy of sorts, that will undoubtedly serve to amuse you and take care of you in moments of bitterness.

Home Is a House

Dear Martha Lee: I am a girl 18 years of age and have been married three years and have no children. I don't want my husband does not want any children. Please advise me how I can find a way and love them. I think the world of my husband. I don't know any other affection toward me. Please advise me how to get him to love me more.

HEART BROKEN WIFE
Can't you interest your husband as thrillingly as you did before you were married? A woman must keep herself something of an interesting lure to her husband. A bit of a mystery, even perhaps a trifle given to moods. It's harder for a woman with children to look after to carry on this kind of defensive warfare, so you ought not to be much handicapped. As for children, I think you should have them if you want them. Perhaps you can keep some small, darling child for a relative or neighbor some evening, and interest your husband in it. It might be just your luck to have the little chickens act like Sam Patch, and spoil your plans, and then again it might not. It's worth a try.
