

NEW NAME FOR SCHOOL ASKED

Board Asked to Pay Tribute to World War Hero.

The Indianapolis school board Monday night was asked to name School No. 42, the Sgt. Otis E. Brown school, in tribute to Brown, who was killed in the World War. The request, made by Harry B. Dynes, former selective board chairman, was referred to Superintendent E. U. Graff. Charles Reissner, secretary, was granted a leave of absence until Jan. 1, because of ill health. The board refused the Roxana Petroleum Company an advertisement on the north wall of Manual Training High School. The building and grounds committee will select a site for a new school between Schools 70 and 80.

William H. Book, business director, was authorized to advertise for bids on wrecking the buildings of school 42, recently burned. The board will meet at 5 p. m., Dec. 18, to receive bids on several school improvements. Need for new buildings to house branch libraries was set out in a report of the finance committee with the recommendation that this program be followed next year.

"Gas House" Is on His Beat

Patrolman William F. Gillespie

EVER hear of the "gas house gang?" Well, if there is such a gang in Indianapolis or if there ever is one, probably the first man to learn about it will be Patrolman William F. Gillespie. He is assigned to districts 58 and 59, which take in a large territory to be covered from 3 to 11 p. m. The boundary lines are the Pennsylvania Railroad, city limits, State Ave. and the city limits.

This territory takes in the gas plant, several railroad crossings, where accidents occur, a large colored section and many business places and poolrooms that require watching. The amount of crime reported from that territory is small.

Gillespie was appointed on Aug. 20, 1920, and lives at 1008 Villa Ave.

The charges were brought because Kruse released for publications names of persons involved in juvenile wild parties.

Kruse had been requested by Judge Richter not to release the names of young girl participants.

"I want the parents to know just what their children are doing," Kruse said. "Their names are on the police records."

BUS LINE LOSES IN BEECH GROVE

Court Sustains Demurrer of Town Board.

Beech Grove town board members were jubilant today over their victory Tuesday afternoon when Judge T. J. Moll of Superior Court Five ruled against the South Side Motor Coach Company.

Judge Moll sustained a demurrer filed by the board to the bus firm's petition for an injunction to prevent the enforcement of an ordinance prohibiting busses from receiving or discharging passengers on streets used by the Beech Grove Traction Company.

Willard Tice, board president, said ample time would be given bus officials to change their route. Gilbert McFarland, of the bus company, said the company would not change the route.

Donald Lafuze, bus company counsel, said he would probably appeal to the State Supreme Court.

"It's Not Far To the Next Red Crown Station"

How often have you heard your friends say, "It's not far to a Red Crown station" when something went wrong or when the gas supply was running low.

To the motoring public, and that includes nearly all of us, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service station is more than a convenience. It has become an essential and indispensable institution, upon which the public has come to depend.

It would be as inconvenient today to live in a world without grocery stores, as without these service stations.

Scattered at carefully selected points throughout the Middle West are 3500 of these stations, owned and operated by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

They are clean, comfortable, convenient. There you may be sure of getting the gasoline and oil you need, at the lowest market price. There you will find ready for your use, free air for your tires, free water for your radiator, free counsel in case of trouble, and a willing, cheerful attendant to serve you. There you will find ample toilet facilities and in most cases a telephone and other conveniences.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) chain of service stations has been a development of the past few years. They came into being first in answer to an unformulated demand on the part of touring motorists, and they have been continued and multiplied because our patrons demand the type of service we have established.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service stations do much more than sell oil products—they are convenient points of meeting and first-aid centers in time of difficulty.

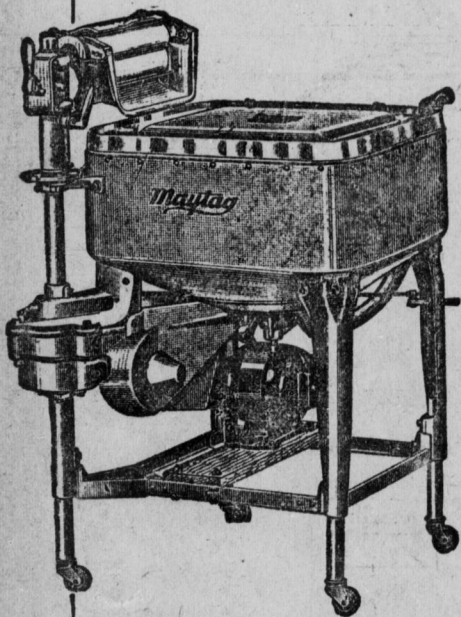

These stations and the service they render, typify the ideals animating the Management of this Company in its relations with the consumer. Efficient service, cheerfully rendered, is the foundation of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) success. To give its customers a little more than they pay for, is the undeviating policy of this organization, and this policy is recognized throughout the ten states where this Company has facilities for distribution.

Through a long chain of operations from the oil field to the service station, this Company devotes all its abilities and resources to the service of the thirty million people of the Middle West.
